

ESTABLISHED 1856

N. S.

ER IN

OOD.

resent Delivery."

Cor. Front and

West.

ALL OFFICES.

RETAIL

TUMINOUS

ALI

RATES.

QUALITY.

&amp; Co.

EAST.

BRO.

gs and other

TO ORDER.

NGS.

Investment of the

One brief dom-

ness man worth any thousands of amounts to only a few companies, as a rule usually earn sworn returns of

and show that the names of this company are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

State of New York

and are in the

THE SPORTING WORLD.

FOOTBALL.

A football match will be played between Upper Canada college and University college this afternoon at 3.30, on the grounds of the former.

At a meeting of the Victoria cricket club, held in the west end on Tuesday last, under the presidency of Mr. Arthur Denison, it was resolved to form a football club in connection with it, to be called the Victoria football club. There was a very good attendance at the meeting, and upwards of thirty names were handed in to the secretary, which promises well for the future of the club. The hon. secretary is prepared to receive challenges from other clubs. The following officers were elected for the season: President, Major Leigh; vice-president, G. B. Behan, Esq.; captain, G. N. Morrison; hon. secretary and treasurer, Alfred Wright, Esq.; hon. secretary, committee, Messrs. A. Denison, G. Lind, say, J. Featherstonhaugh, etc., with the officers of the club.

PEDESTRIANISM.

In New York on Monday night, at 7 o'clock, James Smith and Dan O'Leary started on a 25 mile walk from New York to New York. O'Leary was in the lead, and walked 11 miles in 3 hours 45 min. and 11 sec. Smith dropped out on the 12th mile.

At Brooklyn, N.Y., on Monday night, W. Sinclair started on his walk of 120 miles in 24 hours, and he successfully accomplished with 60.57a to spare. When 51 miles had been completed, Sinclair was 49m. 27a. ahead of the record, and from this time up to the finish of the walk all previous records were beaten.

QUOITING.

Mr. S. Lanson has challenged Mr. J. J. Galt for the championship of Yorkville. Match to be played on Friday.

A quiting tournament is to be held at Galt on the 11th and 12th inst., when prizes from $2 to $20 will be competed for.

THE RING.

Bibby, the English wrestler, has accepted the challenge of John McMillan to wrestle for $300 a side.

GENERAL NOTES.

In a letter received from London, Mr. Belmont states that he has determined to withdraw from the turf—though not from the breeding of thoroughbreds. His running horses and sixteen yearlings will be sold at private sale, but he has purchased in England three new brood mares.

The postponed single rail race of the Don amateur rowing club will take place on Saturday next at 4 p.m. weather permitting. The first prize is a pair of Waz's oars, presented by Mr. J. Waz; the second prize two oars of silver-plated rowlocks, presented by Mr. Thos. Sauter. The race will be one mile straightaway from York street to the Don breakwater.

WORLD WAITS.

A key to Tennyson's In Memoriam has been published in England.

The November number of the Century (Century's Magazine) will contain a frontispiece portrait of George Eliot.

The effect of the electric light upon the blood type of human countenance is described in the November number of the Century.

A couple were married on the top of Pike's Peak last week by a minister in a telephone office 10,000 feet below.

It is proposed in Springfield, Ohio, to erect a (Garfield) monument to the memory of the public library, reading-rooms, lecture halls, etc.

Henry Rockefeller's newspaper, the Intransigent, has not done well in the year of its existence, and will be transformed into a journal of small size, selling for one cent.

One photographer in Washington keeps eight men employed constantly in printing Gaiety's photographs, and then they can not turn them off fast enough to keep pace with the demand.

"I shall die," said an old English doctor the other day, "under the belief that human science will yet solve the riddle of life from an average of 70 to 100." That's what we're waiting for.

As a first practical result of the new Russo-German understanding, it is stated that the conditions of an agreement have been already laid for facilitating the mutual extradition of criminals offenders.

The fortune-tellers and others of that class who grow rich on human credulity in Paris are to be driven out. The prefect of police has so decided, and he will be very difficult, as they have influence.

High-heeled boots killed a woman in Drapton, England, recently. While going down stairs she tripped on her heels and fell, injuring her lower extremities.

An English paper named Worth, an inmate of the Leicester workhouse, who is engaged in teaching pigs, will shortly come into a fortune of $10,000 by the will of a gentleman with whom he was at one time in partnership.

The Tinkers, or Dandies, in their recent meeting in Ohio, passed resolutions against Sunday schools. It is stated that at the meeting, paid money, missionary plans or boards, money-soliciting or begging, and instrumental music.

A little boy in a Sunday school put a paper to his teacher. The lady was telling her class how God punished the Egyptians for causing the first-born of each household to be slain. The little boy listened attentively. At the proper interval he mildly inquired: "What would God have done had there been twins?"

It is proposed to form a united Jewish colony in the district of Gilead and Moab, the sultan having granted 1500 acres of the land for this purpose, in consideration of a large amount of money to be advanced by Jewish capitalists. The colony is to be subject to a prince of Jewish race and religion, though tributary to the pasha.

The famous Nevada prison is likely to be demolished before Christmas, owing to the demands of London trade. There was a prison of Nevada long before the present building was erected. The foundation stone was laid in 1770. In 1780, the building was finished, and it was used as a prison of Nevada long before the present building was erected.

Monsieur Count Camille, a canon of St. Peter's, Rome, has written a letter to Cardinal Borromeo, the head of the clergy attached to the Basilica, stating that as he sees the present Pope doing no more than his predecessor to reconcile church and country, he has, after ten years' reflection, embraced the Protestant faith, and that he has signed the Roman Catholic creed in the chapel of the Episcopal and Evangelical Ministers. The event has created a great sensation in Rome.

A profane widower.

A wedding widower fell into his wife's grave during a funeral at Deatour, Ill., and as he climbed out his language was so shockingly profane that the clergyman felt compelled to remove him.

A FIRST GREAT SPEECH.

John Bright's Historic Utterance at the Age of Twenty—An Interesting Memento.

An old manuscript, much discolored and defaced, has recently been discovered in England. It proved to be the great speech, often sought for and never discovered, the speech which made Mr. J. S. Buckingham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

ham, the member for Sheffield, cry out while he listened to it, "Mark my words, if that young man lives, he will become one of the greatest orators in England." The speech was made at the old theatre in Toxteth, near Liverpool, and it was spoken before the audience of Mr. Bucking-

MONEY AND TRADE.

W. W. FARLEY. W. M. MARA.

Farley & Mara, Stock Brokers, Commission and General Agents, No. 30 Toronto street, Toronto, buy and sell on commission Canadian and American stocks; also grain and provisions on the Chicago and Toledo Board of Trade for cash or on margin. Representatives of Prince and Wadley, members of the New York Stock Exchange; MacDougall Bros., of the Montreal Stock Exchange; D. Eglington & Son, of the Chicago Board of Trade; W. H. Moorhouse & Co., of the Toledo Board of Trade.