Best of Luck Next Time.

The new British Minister at Washington has by this time arrived at his post, and it is the talk in New York that he expects soon to "sneak" the business of settling in some way or other those disputes affecting Canada which are still pending.

The New York Daily Commercial Bulletin presents what is probably the prevailing commercial view there. It says that the time is now ripe for a settlement of the tariff question.

The political campaign, with its peculiar exigencies and imposed necessity for "catching" the Irish vote, is now in full swing.

The Toronto have long vainly endeavored to make Mowat go. At the potential bidding of Senator Murphy at Albany he has "been" there.

The Montreal Gazette was wont to come to the blind of Toronto and make a bid.

The removal of the newspaper proprietors by the postoffice authorities is caused by the change in the method of collecting letters.

Gen. Boulanger is in London. He will immediately write another manifesto explaining his intentions and then ride down to Kloten.

The Montreal Gazette, in dealing with the proposed fast ocean service between Canada and England, says:
