LEAPING FROGS.

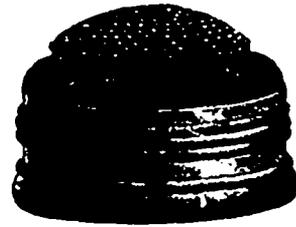

A MERRY game called "Pharaoh's Frogs" is a recent acquisition to the stock of the Ives, Blakeslee & Williams Co., 294 Broadway, New York. That it is amusing is evident upon removing the lid of the handsome box in which it is put up. It shows twelve frogs hanging by their hind legs to partitions which divide the box into five spaces. In the center of the box is a pool grown with weeds, cat-tails and pond-lilies—just the sort of place an ugly old frog loves to disport himself in, and give vent to dismal croakings. Each corner of the box is divided into a compartment. The frogs are children greatly, and is interesting to grown people; for it requires some skill, and at the same time creates a laugh. Pharaoh's Frogs is another game that will add to the happiness of the home circle.

TYPEWRITER ERASERS.

THE continuous demand for and use of typewriters bring new lines of supplies which the stationer, if enterprising, will not fail to handle. The Typewriter Eraser is one of the new articles, made specially of a new compound suitable for the want which it is intended to relieve. The typewriter has come to stay, and erasers being a necessity dealers may with confidence buy this new line, which the Eagle Pencil Co. of New

A DESK PIN CUSHION.

SOMETHING really good, in a package of pins for the desk, has been brought out by the American Pin Co., Waterbury, Conn.

It is a handy and useful adjunct for every desk, and an improvement on its predecessors. A hard wood holder contains the pins, which are surrounded by a very pretty plush cushion for sticking in extra pins. The pins are of the finest quality, and the package is very attractive. They can be retailed for ten cents, and are packed one dozen in a carton. This firm have a very large line of novelties in metal, to which they are continually adding new things.

AN ADVERTISING PAPER WEIGHT.

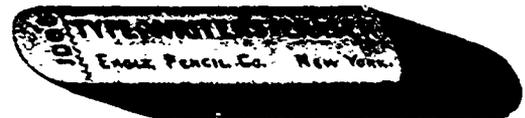

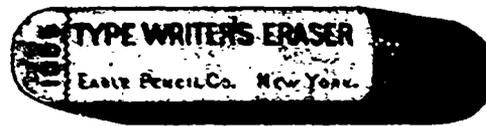

THIS cut represents a paper weight which can be used to great advantage for advertising purposes. It is oval in shape, and made entirely of glass. The bottom is depressed, and into the space thus made the advertisement may be pasted, and there it remains protected from wear and tear, and it cannot rub off. The glass magnifies it considerably, and it consequently stands out boldly and makes a good appearance. Being a very useful article, the merchant who receives it will not throw it away, but on the contrary, place it on his desk, where the advertiser's name will be always before him. It is made by A. A. placed in this unnatural position merely to facilitate packing. When taken down it is seen that they are almost as lively upon the wire legs as a real live frog is upon his own toothsome extremities. Each player takes three frogs and places them in line, the forward one about six inches from the corner of the box. The player then selects the corner nearest him for a home, and then, by placing the index finger on the frog's metal body and drawing the finger back quickly, he is to try to make the frog jump into his home. If he accomplishes this the player tries again, and so on; but if the frog goes into the pool it remains there, or if it gets into the home of another, it belongs to the owner of that home, and if the frog leaps outside of the box it belongs to the player nearest whom it lands.

It is an easy matter to get the frogs to leap satisfactorily, and this is what makes so much fun. In attempting to get them in the right home they will aggravatingly take to the pool or agilely leap clean over the box and be lost to the player. It pleases the York have added to their list. They are made in two sizes and of suitable shape.

Another novelty just introduced by this firm is a Tape Measure Pencil. It can be manipulated with ease and is simple in its construction, its usefulness is apparent. The accompanying cuts of the erasers and pencil give an idea of their appearance, and other desired information can be obtained from the manufacturers.

A NEW FAN.

HERMAN SCHEUER, 540 Pearl street, New York, has just brought out a new folding opera fan that bids fair to have a boom. The sticks are solid and have a locking device of the greatest simplicity at each end. It locks, when open—holding it in position and preventing it being opened too far and tearing it, and also locking when closed—forming a compact and handy thing to
