

ST. GEORGE'S PARISH MAGAZINE

PARISH GUILD

The usual monthly meeting of the Parish Guild was held on Thursday, Oct. 25th, 47 members being present. The proceedings were quite informal, but over the tea-cups many plans were made and talked over for the coming Fête. Particularly busy were heads of the doll table and fancy work department, and no unattached member departed without a doll to dress or a promise of pretty work to perform. The music had been undertaken by Miss Maud Cowan, to whom and to her family we extend our sympathy in their sad bereavement. But as she was unable to appear, Mrs. John Boyd and her daughter, assisted by Father Davenport, gave us some charming music.

THE GIFT FETE

The second edition of the Gift Fête will take place on Nov. 23rd and 24th, being a Friday and Saturday, so special attractions are being planned for the children. Mrs. Burton is presiding over Doll-land, which is discovered to be on an elevated plateau at the eastern extremity of the school-house. She is ably assisted by Mrs. Biggar, Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Houston, and an electric-lighted Christmas tree is one of the attractions, where presents for all will be found and acquired at the modest price of 10 cents. Then there is a mysterious cave for fishing in, wherein dwells a fairy and which is full of presents collected by Miss Wyatt and presided over by Mrs. da Costa, etc. Last of all, children, there is a guessing competition, of which Miss Conolly alone knows the secret. It is well worth five cents to enter it, and you may carry off a good prize.

The general attractions of the Fête begin at the door, where Mrs. Phillips will be seated to take your tickets and incidentally to show you the charming trifles she bought in England to sell at St. George's Fête. They will all be sold within the first hour, before the crowd arrives to claim all her attention, as well as her assistant, Mr. Jack Harman. Then as you pass on you will see the Flower Stall in charge of Miss Pearl Macdonald and the Candy Booth with Miss Greening and Miss Ethel Street presiding. The Apron and Fancy Work Stalls are under the same management as last year, Mrs. McMurray and Mrs. Bruce Harman being in charge. Mrs. Jackson is looking after the tea, and promises a cosy hour to any tired purchaser, where she may sit and sup her tea in comparative quiet. Then Mrs. Hagarty and Miss Moore will provide the ices, and on your way out you will stop at Mrs. George Harman's stall and order home-made bread and jam, which will be delivered free to you next day, through the kindness of Mr. Tom Crashley. There will be no paper table this year, which is a disappointment to many who remember it as the prettiest table last year, but St. Agatha's Guild will be worthily represented by a variety table, where all sorts of Christmas presents can be bought and beautiful photos of St. George's, done by Mr. Kenrick on post cards, so that they can be sent to friends across the water. In the evening Miss Phillips is arranging a Café Chantant, where good music will be provided at several tiny concerts, none lasting longer than 20 minutes, and everything done on time and in order.

IN MEMORIAM

On Wednesday, Oct. 17th, Mrs. Heath, for 60 years a worshipper in this church, was taken to her rest. She was the last survivor of the family of the late D'Arcy and Sarah Anne Boulton, of the Grange, who, in 1844, gave the land on which St. George's Church buildings stand. Her departure was in peace and they now rest from their labors. "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of His saints." Ps. 116: 13 (15).
