THE LITTLE BOY THAT DIED. Dr. Chalmers is said to be the author of the following beautiful poem, written on the occasion of the death of a young son whom he greatly loved.

had blessed them both, and they were about to see each other again in peace and safety, and to show to each other the children whom God had given them, and who must remind them of their days of common childhood.

rose at a considerable distance and climbed the perpendicular of a man-of-war without being perceived by the crew. Many experiments were about to be tried of the efficacy of this novel means of attack.

STATE OF SPAIN.—"To give you an idea," says a private letter in the Times, "of the state of Spain and its people, I may mention in incident which took place on the 30th, which was guard was mounted before the palace of the Queen Mother.

A MARRIAGE TO THE CAUSE OF HUMANITY. Some time ago we recorded the tragic end of a poor man named William Cumming who was executed for murder in Edinburgh, though, as it subsequently turned out innocent of the crime laid to his charge.

From the London Times of the 3rd ult. we derive the following account of the death of the deceased of Cumming's spiritual adviser: "Rev. Mr. Fergusson, Episcopal minister, who attended William Cumming, lately executed at Edinburgh, and to whose active benevolence the exertions used to obtain a commutation of the sentence were in great measure attributable, has died of the illness occasioned by anxiety and distress of mind on Cumming's behalf, aggravated by exposure to intense cold in the 'lock-up' on the night preceding his execution.

THE WRITER OF THESE LINES WAS WELL ACCQUAINTED with Mr. Fergusson, and can testify to the purity and noble character of his mind. To him we may apply Johnson's panegyric on Dr. Robert Levet: "In misery's darkest cavern known, Where his useful care was ever shown, And lonely went retired to die."

Colonial. We are told that the "Clergy Reserves" question is essentially an Upper Canadian question, with which the Lower Canadian is in no wise concerned, beyond voting with the majority of the Western section of the Province.

CONSCIENCE. A little boy called Jem Roberts, having been sent to weed in a gentleman's garden, observing some very beautiful peaches on a tree which grew upon a wall, was strongly tempted to pick one.

"If it tastes half as nice as it looks," thought he, "how delightful it must be!" He stood for an instant gazing on the tree, while his mother's words, "Touch nothing that does not belong to you," came vividly to his mind. He withdrew his eyes from the tempting object, and with great diligence pursued his occupation. The fruit was forgotten, and with pleasure he now perceived he had nearly reached the end of the bed which he had been ordered to clear.

From our English Files. MORE SUBMARINE MOVEMENTS.—The great invention of the day, the submarine navigation of Dr. Payerne, is about to be put in practice at Cherbourg, the company purchasing the invention having volunteered to cleanse that harbour free of expense to the government.

Why should he fear now, when he was almost at his father's tent? It was because he had heard that his brother was coming to meet him. But why should this fill him with such fear? Surely it would be a happy meeting; brothers born of the same father and of the same mother, who had dwelt together in one tent, kneeled before one father's knees in prayer, and joined together in the common plays of childhood—surely their meeting must be happy, now that they have been twenty years asunder, and God
