

of this admirable corps. After an honorable discharge from this service I struck the Great Western Railway, and at last came to anchor in H. M. Customs at Windsor, from whence it is not likely I will be ever able to hoist sail for another port.