

CONTENTS.

xi

CHAPTER XXI.

Communications from Mr. Canning on the Affairs of Spanish America, and steps taken under them. Further instructions on the proposed Negotiation. Further communication from Mr. Canning on the affairs of Spanish America..... 412

CHAPTER XXII.

Full interview with Mr. Canning on the affairs of Spanish America, and report of what passed to the Government of the United States. Further interview on the same subject; and on that of the Negotiation—to the opening of which England accedes. Mr. Huskisson and Mr. Stratford Canning to be the British Negotiators. Renewed interview with Mr. Canning on the affairs of Spanish America, and Report of what passed..... 428

CHAPTER XXIII.

Course of the United States in regard to Spanish America. Declarations of President Monroe in his Message to Congress, December, 1823, respecting the new states of Spanish America, and non-colonization on the American Continents. Their reception in Europe. Dinner at the Duke of Sussex's; at Mr. Canning's. Interview with Mr. Canning on the subject of the approaching negotiation; North West Coast of America (Oregon Territory), the prominent topic. Another interview with Mr. Canning; North West Coast again the topic. England objects to the principle of non-colonization, taken in the President's Message. Interview with Mr. Canning preparatory to opening the Negotiation..... 455

CHAPTER XXIV.

The general negotiation opens. Subject of the Slave Trade first taken up. Dinner at the Duke of Sussex's; at Mr. Stratford Canning's. Renewed interview with Mr. Secretary Canning, on the