The situation along the centre remains quiet, with both sides content to hold their own, and neither able to gain important advantage over the other. DISCREPANCY IN REPORTS.

Discrepancy is seen in the report from Berlin, received thru Rotterdam, that the Germans have crossed the border from Belgium into France, near the coast, and are now only ten miles from Dunkirk, which city is but eight miles from the Belgian border.

The Berlin report tells of German troops operating west and south from Ostend, and indicate that they have advanced virtually to the border.

The French official statement this afternoon puts the battle line in the extreme north, along a twenty-five-mile front, extending from southeast of Nieuport, which is but half-way between Ostend and the French border, to Roulers, a Belgian city.

AUSTRIAN SQUADRON STOPPED.

The Tribuna's correspondent at San Giovanni di Medua wires that an Austrian squadron of three cruisers, twelve destroyers and three secondary vessels sortied from Cattaro yesterday in an evident attempt to run for the Austrian naval base at Pola. Two aeroplanes of the allied fleet which were circling over the neighboring mountains discovered the vessels and apprised the Franco-British fleet at once. The Austrians were met with a heavy fire, and one of the cruisers was seriously damaged. The entire squadron then returned to Cattaro.

These operations are still so much in the dark that it is impossible to judge of the exact trend of events. The English and French papers naturally gather encouragement from the reports published from their side, while from the German point of view it is possible that the Germans have improved their position, and with the forces which besieged Antwerp and reinforcements from Germany, are attenuating along the germany are attempting along the coast another sweeping movement like that which carried them so far into France.

Canadian Press Despatch. PETROGRAD, Oct. 20 .- (Via London statement, M. Sazonoff said, was made because or attempts by the reactionary party in Russia to bring discord and awaken anti-British sentiment.

Recent avowals by this small element, as reflected in a few reactionary journals, M. Savonoff declared, went so far as to compliment Emperor William and laud the Hohenzollern family. They alluded exultingly, he said, to the fall of Antwerp as the approaching end of the war, adversely criticized England by stating that she was setting other countries to fight her battles, and also plainly forecast an Anglo-Russian rupture.

Futile Attempts.

"This small German element." said M. Sazonoff, "is wholly unrepresentative of Russia, and negligible, as far as Russian policy is concerned.

"I want to say most emphatically that there will be no rupture between England and Russia, and that there is no possibility of a premature settlement with our allies. It is preposterous to think that this element in Russia is going to have any hand in dictating Russia's policy during this war. The attempt of the German press to poison or pervert feeling all over the world has failed, at least in Russia."

ANTWERP IS REGAINING NORMAL APPEARANCE

Canadian Press Despatch.

LONDON, Oct. 19, 7.45 p.m.—The Amsterdam correspondent of Reuter's Telegram Company says that according to a despatch from Antwerp large numbers of refugees are returning to the Belgian city. This is attributed largely to assurances given them by Dr. Franck in a speech at Roosendaal. Gradually Antwerp is beginning to resume its normal appearance, says the despatch. It is particularly noticeable in the centre of the city, where the large hotels and restaurants have reopened. Several of the stores are again doing business, but in other parts of the city whole rows of streets still are as quiet as the grave.
