to superintend the Disembarkation of the Troops; and the King is pleased to leave it to you to appoint, which of the two Major-Generals you shall judge most proper for that Service; the other being at Liberty to return to London with you. I am, &c. W. PITT.

P. S. I fend you inclofed a Copy of a Letter I have wrote to Sir Edward Hawke, by which you will fee the Orders his Majefty has thought proper to give him for difembarking the Troops. You will acquirent the Major-General, whom you fhall leave to fuperintend the Difembarkation, that he may return to London, as foon as that Service fhall be completed.

A true Copy, Robert Wood.

SIR,

Numb. XLIII. Copy of a Letter from Sir Edward Hawke to Mr. Secretary Pitt, dated Ramilies at Spithead, Oct. 8, 1757, 1 P. M.

I Have the Honour of your Letter of Yesterday's Date, fignifying his Majesty's Orders for the Difembarkation of the Troops. As I have Permission to come to London, I have directed Vice-Admiral. Knowles to put these Orders in Execution as soon as the Weather will permit, it blowing very hard at prefent. I am, Ge. ED. HAWKE.

Numb. XLIV. Copy of a Letter from Sir John Mordaunt to Mr. Secretary Pitt, dated Portimouth, Oct. 8, 1757. SIR.

I Had this Morning the Honour of your Letter; and, in confequence of it, shall set out for London. To-morrow Morning early, and propose myself the Pleasure of paying my Respects to you on Monday Morning. I am, &c. J. MORDAUNT.

FINIS.

A true Copy. Robert Wood.

Mar Ball