Dr. Vogt's Organization, Assisted by Two Talented Artists, in Farewell Concert.

Celestial choirs may render heavenly music on a larger scale in spheres in the great to-be, but earthly voices are unlikely to excel the perfect singing of the Mendelssohn Choir in Massey Hall last night. Those who have not heard the choir may be pardoned for suspecting a strain of exaggeration in local references to Mr. Vogt's achievements, but the simple truth is that nothing better can be done with human means. The World was pleased to say as much two years ago before the seal of United States approval was set upon the efforts any action to suppress the illegal of the choir. Last night's numbers illustrated all the exquisite qualities the choir has become famous for. Judge Routhier's Chant National, "O Canaua," has been fitty and worthing given a setting by the Quebec composer, Lavallee-Richardson, which almost persuades one that the National Anthem problem has been soived. There is perhaps too much of the stately mountains and too little or the laughing yalleys of Canada in the composition to suit the national taste. Dr. T. B. Richardson's arrangement as sters from $40 to $45 a mount; third year $55; after three years $67; team-an eight-part chorus was spiendidly erformen from $15 to $16 a week; Police an eight-part chorus was splendidly effective, and the diapason effect of the male voices in the last stanza was imposing and solemn beyond conception. Lotti's "Crucifixus" was sung in a way to suggest that the New York indifference to this chorus must have been due to want of appreciation of the religious sentiment conveyed.
