Do It Now

Of proverbs and maxims we each have a store,
Wise counsel and preaching we've all heard before,
But if you will try them we think you'll allow
The value of three little words: "Do It Now!"

The number of losses, failures and other annoyances caused by not acting upon those three little words, "Do It Now," is hard indeed to estimate, nor are we going to try. What we wish to impress upon you is this—that if you're in need of summer clothing and wish to get the most comfortable, up-to-date goods shown see our 2-Piece Suits at from 4.50 up to 12.00—but

OLD WHITBY ENTERTAINED

vray, Toronto; James Brown, Judge McCrimmon, Judge McIntyre, John Ball Dow, B.A., LL.B.; Chas. King, Rev. Dr. Hare, Judge Smith, F. Howard Hunes, Ross Johnston, of Whitby; George Ham, Montreal; Geo. Burgess, of Cannington; Mayor James, Bowmanville

A touch of poetry was given to the gathering by Ross Johnston, one of the oldest old boy, reading a poem indicative of the sentiments dear to the home-comers. He was roundly applauded, especially when in making a speech he recalled the time when fifty years ago he taught school in Uxbridge. Mayor Blow's part was performed by reading an address of welcome to the old boys. Wm. Ross, M. P., replied on behalf of those present and absent. He remarked on the appropriateness of the occasion, July 1, for celebrating a jubilee, and paid a glowing tribute to the worth of the county's sons wherever found, and to the fertility of the soil, whose equal could not be found on the face of the earth.

George Ham, Orator.

He was followed by a real old boy in the person of George Ham, who made the address of the day. He was delightfully reminiscent, referring to the audience as "old boys and young girls." He said the curtain that hid the years rolled back and he felt a boy again.

"I remember," he recalled in plaintive tones, "that stern old disciplinarian, Donald Dundas, and my fingers tingle yet as I think of the old gentleman's birth. Some of those canings I deserved; some I didn't, tho I guess I averaged up pretty well all roun." He recalled an escapade of his youth in which he started Editor Dorland's paper and couldn't stop it. He looked at Whitby as his home, sweet home, and tho perhaps he would never come back to live here, yet he wished to lay his bones to rest in the old spot when the time came.

W. H. Hoyle, M.L.A., in vigorous words referred to the many men prominent in Canadian affairs who had been born or had lived in Ontario. The late M. C. Cameron had represented North Ontario in the legislature. The Hon. William McDougall was also a member of that riding in the federal house at one time. To-day John Millar, deputy minister of education, was proud to say he had been born in Brock Township. Prof. A. T. De Lury of Toronto University was a Cannington boy.

He told a story of Sir Sandford Fleming, who married a Brock Township woman. He had it from Sir Sandford's own lips. Love's young dream came to Mr. Fleming when he was out driving with his sweetheart. The horse ran away. Mr. Fleming was thrown out and his head struck a birdseye maple stump, rendering him unconscious. When he recovered he had lost his heart. "And," declared Mr. Hoyle, "that indentical birdseye maple stump was made into a cradle." (Laughter.)

Rev. R. M. Thornton recalled many incidents of the early days. G. H. Robinson read an address of classical English and George Burgess spoke for the Yorkshiremen in the county before the formal reception was over.

An Interesting Exhibit.

An interesting collection of portraits of pioneers, old china, military, cooking, musical and decorative curios is on exhibition in the gymnasium of the Collegiate Institute. Col. Farewell is in charge of this truly interesting and instructive exhibit.

Among the portraits are those of the late Drs. Foote and Gunn, Peter Perry and wife and John Ham Perry, Yeoman Gibson, Charles Fothergill and wife, John Hamer Greenwood, Thomas Hamer and Hugh Fraser, Wm. Till and Wm. Jeffrey.

Miss Cormack sends a collection of old china and a tea caddy 150 years old and Miss Greenwood exhibits a large Welsh bowl over 200 years old and Miss Dow contributes a grandfather's clock brought to this country by her grandfather and several family portraits.

Among the farming curios are what is described as "an indispensable" neck yoke in the sugar bush, made in early spring of 1834 and sent by J. Mothersill, Oshawa, the first cylinder made in the county and used for threshing and an old barley beard clipper, several old-fashioned spinning wheels and an elaborate barometer and thermometer made over 100 years ago in Scotland.

Col. Farewell sends a cot in which he slumbered while at camp in 1901. The colonel slept comfortably despite the fact that 100 years ago the same cot was used by Lieut.-Gen. Hunter, afterwards a governor of Upper Canada.

The flag carried by the steamer Commoder in 1837, tattered and torn, hangs suspended from the rafters in the middle of the building.

Mrs. Adams sends a collection of household and cooking utensils used in the early days, and altogether the curio exhibition is one interesting to antiquarians and ordinary citizens alike.

Back Home.

Twenty years ago seven Humphreys left Whitby for Toronto; to-day thirty-five returned to see their native town. They were beaten by the Halls, who to the number of six left town a few years ago to make their way in the world; to-day forty-seven signed the register at Allen's drug store.

Mrs. Davidson of Boston, with her sister, Mrs. Martin of Seattle, and her brothers, Charles Alexander of Troy, N.Y., and John of Detroit, the surviving members of the well-known Alexander family, held a reunion in their native town and held quite a levee in their carriage, receiving the greetings of many old-time friends.

H. M. Caldwell, the well-known publisher, of Boston and New York, with his daughter, is also on a visit to his boyhood's home.

Credit for the success of the celebration so far is due generally to the enthusiasm in Toronto, and the citizens of the town. Dr. Waugh, John Ball Dow, George A. Ross, Fred Burns, A. H. Allin and F. Howard Hunes have been the active local promoters. Major A. G. Henderson of Toronto is responsible chiefly for the good showing made by the city to-day. His efforts are the cause of favorable comment in the town among all classes.

Dr. Hare, as chairman of the reception committee, did the glad honors to all who came back to the old town.

RAIN AT PETROLEA.

Petrolea, July 1.—Petrolea celebrated the "glorious first" in good style, and a tremendous crowd was present. The parade started at 10.30, headed by Maj. Fairbanks and Charles Cotter. The 7th Regiment band of London, the civic departments and a large number of local firms contributed to the parade. The procession was a mile and a half long, and wound up with the callithumpians. At this point rain fell in torrents and other sports were mostly declared off. To-night fireworks and a concert by the 7th Regiment band concludes the day.

TROOPS CELEBRATED.

Kingston, July 1.—There were stirring times at Barriefield camp to-day. This forenoon Lord Aylmer, acting G.O.C., inspected the camp and afterwards gave the forces a ten-mile route march, reviewing them at the market square in the city.

He was evidently pleased and left at one o'clock for Ottawa. He had to hurry from camp to camp to perform his duties.

The afternoon was given over to sports, which were full of interest.

To-night a camp fire was an occasion of much enjoyment.

BIG TIME AT WOODBRIDGE.

Woodbridge, July 1.—(Special).—Dominion Day was to have been celebrated here by sports of various kinds and upwards of 1,000 people asembled on the agricultural grounds to witness the games. The rain spoiled a good deal of this afternoon's enjoyment; but a good exhibition of lacrosse was given despite the rain. Weston appeared to be unable to hold the ball on their sticks and were outplayed at every point by Woodbridge, altho at times some good combination play was shown and many attacks on goal were without scoring. The game resulted in 5 goals to 0 in favor of Woodbridge. The line-up was as follows:

Weston—W. Scott, goal; J. Coleman, point; Ed. Ray, cover point; H. Langham, first defence; J. Sosonski, second defence; D. Lawrence, third defence; Geo. Holly, centre; G. Rowntree, third home; P. McEwen, second home; B. Cameron, first home; N. Carter, outside; D. Charbmean, inside.

Woodbridge—W. Burton, goal; J. Kissack, point; N. Felker, cover point; J. Walace, first defence; R. Fawcett, second defence; A. Ashley, third defence; Geo. Haystead, centre; D. Carmichael, third home; W. Holingshead, second home; W. Morrison, first home; E. Patterson, outside; W. Sheardon, inside.

F. C. Waghorne of Toronto refereed the game and gave universal satisfaction. In the evening the Methodists held their annual garden party in the drill shed, where speeches were given, and an address by Dr. Brechen on his recent trip to Jerusalem.

FINE DISPLAY OF HORSES

was distributed by the honorable treasurer, W. A. Young, M.D.

The following was the order of the parade: Mounted police, trumpeters, Hunt Club and hounds, saddle horses, four-in-hands, harness horses, ponies, roadsters, commercial classes, old horse class, and band. Music was provided by the band of the Governor-General's Body Guard during the morning in the park and while the parade was taking place. Everything was free, there being no charge for entry, and souvenir catalogs were distributed to thousands of people.

Old Horses Most Interesting.

The old horse class had 25 entries. The first prize horse was "Libby," owned by Gowans, Kent and Co., which had been in actual service for 20 years. The second prize horse was "Maggie," a white mare, exhibited by the street commissioner's department, which had been in service for thirty years. The third prize horse had been in use for the same length of time.

Dr. And. Smith, F.R.C.V.S., and J. J. Kelso had their hands full in deciding this class.

In this connection it is of interest to know that T. C. Patteson has a horse 32 years of age still at work on his farm. Fair work and fair care is the key to longevity.

It would certainly be invidious to mention any of the entries beyond those selected by the judges, but a little invidiousness does no harm occasionally. As a class the furriers were perhaps the neatest and best appointed in the procession. The butchers, the laundrymen and the milkmen were close up, and one fish wagon was as neat in its way as anything entered. The Chinese standard floated on a laundry outfit, and Draco twined across a golden field of rich silk in honor of the celestial kingdom. The red ribbon of the dairies went to Robt. Purchase's Grey Dan and the Parisian Laundry first was an equally popular win. The C. P. R. win in Class 23 was splendidly merited, and the grand pair of the Christie Biscuit Co. were highly complimented by the award in such a fine class. The boys would have adjudged all the medals and ribbons to the wagon which kept up a candy scramble as the procession moved along.

George Gooderham's pair have run first for ten years and looked as tho they were used to distinction. Among the loudly applauded were Mrs. Wilmot in class 6; Dr. Young, who distributed the "envelopes," and Commissioner Bob, who drove up behind "Black Beauty" for his gold medal.

The first prize in Classes 1 to 20 was a gold medal and a red rosette; second prize, silver medal and blue rosette; third prize, bronze medal and yellow rosette; fourth prize, white rosette. In Classes 21 to 40 the prizes were the same, with the addition that $1 was given to each driver who started and finished in the parade. This was much appreciated by the drivers in these classes.

The rosettes were of a new design evolved by the committee, and were gorgeous and unique. Everybody wanted one.

"Charlie," the Favorite Name.

One of the odd features of the program was the names of the entres. By actual count, Charlie or Charles is the favorite, eleven animals so appearing. The next are Billy and Prince, with six entries each. Tom and Jack have five each, and Dick, Dolly, Sandy Bob, Nellie, Jessie, Dan, Queen, King, and Daisy are next favorites. One firm appeared to have the advertising agent in tow, having entered four horses named respectively Standard, Quality, Prompt, Delivery.

There were 380 entries and about 500 horses in the parade. This was more than double that of last year.

It is to be hoped that the Open Air Horse Parade Association will make this an annual affair, as it proved to be a splendid attraction for the citizens, and the number of entries from out of town was very large.

The thanks of the association are tendered to the judges from out of town who so kindly acted in the different classes, coming to the city and paying their own expenses.

An attractive part of the parade was the music supplied by the buglers of the Royal Canadian Dragoons, who sounded several fine calls while the judging was going on, and then led the procession with their stirring fanfares. The superintendent deserves a great deal of credit for the able manner in which he and the numbering arranged.

Everything Was Lovely.

The indefatigable and ingenious secretary, Gerald Wade, was weighed and not found wanting. Every detail was arranged under his supervision, and no hitch occurred that could have been avoided. The gaps in the procession due to the differing speeds of the various classes were not serious, and the weather was excellent until almost the close of the program.
