Stomach Troubles Due to Acidity

SO SAYS EMINENT SPECIALIST. So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, wind, stomach-ache and in-ability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence hat fermentation is taking place in the ood contents of the stomach, causing he formation of gas and acids. Wind the formation of gas and acids. Wind distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate fining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the fermenting food. Such fermentation is unnatural, and acid formation is not only unnatural, but may involve most scrious consequences if not corrected. To stop consequences if not corrected. To stop or prevent fermentation of the food con-tents of the stomach and to neutralize the acid, and render it bland and harm-less, a teaspoonful of bisurated mag-nesia, probably the best and most erfective corrector of acid stomach known ald be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water immediately after eating, or whenever wind or acidity is felt. This stops the fermentation and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments. Fermentation, wind and acidity are prevent them by the use of a proper antacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any drug-gist, and thus enable the stomach to do its work properly without being hindered by poisonous gas and dangerous acids.—

By a verdict returned by the jury under Coroner W. A. Young at the morgue last night, John McKeown, the driver of the motor truck which killed eight-year-old Elizabeth Bell, was exenonerated. McKeown was driving a large City Dairy motor truck east on Arthur street last Wednesday, when the little girl ran into the road and was struck. She was so badiy injured internally that she died half an hour after being taken to the Hospital for Silk Children. Evidence of witnesses corroborated that of the driver, that he had done all he could to avoid hitting the child. He had the motor truck in such control that he stopped within two feet of where the little girl was struck.

Audience at the Alexandra De manded Fifteen Curtain Calls on First Night.

Nothing so brilliant, so clever and so drama has been in Toronto for a long time past. "The Great Pursuit" is not unworthy of mention in comparison with some of the classics of English comedy, and the Royal Alexandra audience last night demonstrated their appreciation by their smiles and laughter, and by applause at the end of every act, which involved the raising of the curtain about fifteen times. The piece was heralded as a medium for the appearance of a galaxy of stars, but such appearances have occurred before without giving the stars a chance to shine. Veiller, and while it has been seen here on several occasions. it still has power to attract large audiences, as was shown by the bumper house last night. The play contains that most essential to a melodramatic offering—heart interest—and the scenes are so well laid and the story so intensely interesting that it retains the attention of the audience until the last moment. The play tells the story of a New York shop girl employed in a departmental store at a pitiful wage. Mary Turner, unjustly accused of theft, seeks revenge after her release from prison by consorting with a gang of "crooks" and preying upon society. Mary is a girl of superior intelligence and so she is wise enough to keep within the law. How she obtains revenge upon the hard-hearted employer makes up the interest of this play of strongly-drawn characters.

The "Mary Turner" of Helen Mar Stewart was a cleverly interpreted character, and was most appealing in its presentment, bringing a few tears, a lot more laughs and keeping one on the edge of the seat for over two hours. All the roles were well taken. There were "Joe Garson," the lovable forger; little "Asgie Lynch," the blackmailer; "Mr. Gilder," the stern employer, and "Dick," his jolly son, whom Mary manages to captivate, not forgetting "English Eddie Griggs," the "stool pigeon;" "Cassidey," the detective; "Inspector Burke" and "Helen Morris," the real thief.

"Within the Law" is a real melodrama, and when you see it and don't thrill you should—if you are of the right sort you will. It will no doubt play to big business all week and especially at the matinees on Wednesday and Saturday. stars a chance to shine. This time, however, the stars have continual opportunities of shining, and the effect is sparking and scintillating to the last degree. # DAVE MARION IS BACK

High Class Burlesque "Around the World" With Heavy Cast and Twelve Scenes.

Two years ago Dave Marion, known burlesque fans as "Snuffy, the Cabman," announced his retirement from the burlesque game. Unable to stay away from the footlights, at the close of the 1914 season he decided to stage a pretentious, high-class burlesque. "Around the World" was the title chosen, and when the curtain rose in the first act at the matinee in the Gayety Theatre yesterday afternoon, the inimitable comedian drove in on the stage in his old-fashioned English trap, and the veterans of the upper gallery, most of whom have graduated to the "bald-head" row, accorded him a grand reception.

"Around the World" contains a cast of the contains a c beautiful scenes. The lyrics and lines and chorus ensembles are from the pen of Mr. Marion, and the show passes on with plenty of snap and ginger, and could not have been better organized.

So well did the Canadian patriotic song which Mr. Marion wrote on the way to Toronto take that they have decided to hand the words over to a local song shop to produce.

There are 25 winsome girls in the chorus, who appear in the many different numbers, each time wearing a different change of bright Parislan costumes. Five male members aid the chorus in singing.

Mlle. Bartoletti, a graceful ballet Mlle. Bartoletti, a graceful ballet dancer, appears in many different ballets, and is very light on her feet for her size. Inez Deverder and Agnes Behler lead in different raggle songs.

During the change of the different scenes, a drop is lowered, and the vaudeville turns put on. The southern scene is laid in the cotton fields of old Kentucky, and to round it out complete a colored singer executes real old coon shouts. Scene four, the outside of a church on a winter night, is very fitting

AN ALLURING LINGERIE PARADE SHEA'S FEATURE

Well Assorted Variety of Vaudeville is Led by "The Bride Shop."

A well-assorted variety of vaudeville talent has been assembled in this week's bill at Shea's, which is headed by the familiar musical offering. "The Bride Shop." The big moment of this is an alluring lingerie parade, which for neglige realism challenges comparison with the pictures in the department store ads. Andrew Tombes, the comedian, is originally funny, particularly in his crossfire with Basil Lynn, as the Marquis. Lola Wentworth is the possessor of a rich soprano voice, which won her much applause. The Farber girls carried away the hit of the bill with their song and dance offering. Their comedy is noticeably broader than on their last appearance, but they give the audience what it wants, and the result is all-for them. Bert Fitzgibbon is, of course, Bert Fitzgibbon—the nuttiest of the nuts. "Discontent," a nice little novelty in the way of an allegory in vaudeville, is cleverly acted by Clarence Oliver and Georgie Olp. The Demacos, acrobats; Evans and Wilson, in "An Accidental Happening"; the Three Ankers, and moving pictures of the Dardanelles expedition, complete an entertainment in which there is never an uninteresting moment.

Barney Williams and Co. Have Playlet That Met Approval of Monday Audiences.

Barney Williams and Company have an effective little musical comedy playlet which heads the bill at the Hippodrome this week, in which pretty girls, plenty of costumes, songs and dancing combine in a bright offering. The setting is quite out of the ordinary and the chorus costumes good. the chorus costumes good.

Joe Towle is one of the hits of the performance. Making his appearance in a "stage-hand" uniform he quite hides his identity from the audience for several minutes until his talent leaks out in sparkling monolog and instrumental versatility. Frank Whitier and Company have an interesting skit of the kind that takes. Father, mother and promising son all have the mania for placing bets and each one has the happy faculty of detections the others. Gruet and Gruet are minstrel musicians and cause many laughs. Ad Carlisle's dog and pony circus provides a treat for the children and adults, too, a treat for the children and adults, too, for their tricks are very clever. Sleights of hand and magic feats are performed by the Mystic Hansone Trio, which, with several film comedies and this week's Blue Bird feature film, "The Grip of Jealousy," starring Louise Lovley and Lou Chaney, complete the bill.

Dale and DeNette have a military skit that gives them the vehicle for many "preparedness" puns and an opportunity for very graceful dancing. Holmes and Reilly have good voices, and won much applause last night with their rendering of operatic selections. Schrode and Mulvey did some very clever knockabout dancing, and had an amusing dialog. The Dietrix Bros. open the vaudeville bill with extraordinary balance feats and weightlifting, and their work brought much applause. The Newsboy Sextet are pleasing singers, and the pictures complete a good bill.

Way Belles at the Star.

Joe Marks and Frank McKay proved great favorites with the audience at the Star Theatre last night. Marks and McKay are very lively delineators of Hebrew comedy, and are very fast on their feet. Rose Hemley, the soubret, leads the lively Broadway Belles chorus, much to the delight of the audience. Stella Morrissey is a very attractive-looking prima-donna, with a good voice.

In the last burlesque, Anna Jackson, one of the members of the chorus, is afforded an opportunity to show her talent and introduce a novelty by flying over the audience in a large electric lighted moon. Harris and Lyman appear in the olio in a whirlwind tumbling act. Joe Wilton, who tells many a joke in the first act, is a straight comedian, and staged both acts. He sings several songs in the olio. There are about twenty girls in the chorus.
