AMUSEMENTS FOR OURSELVES AND OTHERS

NICKEL HAS FINE SHOW.

The Nickel programme last evening was thoroughly enjoyable for those who like good music and also for those whose chief delight is in the pictures. The happily constituted who take pleasure in both certainly were well entertained and pleased.

The Nickel has presented many singers, men and women, but none more finished and pleasing than Tom E. Clifford, the Boston baritone, who is delighting his audiences this week and will, it is hoped, for some time to come. Mr. Clifford's number last evening was a rollicking sea song, "Three for Jack"—jolly and catching, with the swish of the water in it and the scent of the brine. He has a rich, round, big baritone voice of good compass, true and pleasing and added to an artistic temperament and the dramatic force which made his singing of the number particularly fine. Mr. Clifford has won fame in his home country and St. John people are fortunate in having the opportunity of hearing him. They appreciate it and he is winning new admirers at every appearance.

Miss Bertha Dudley, the new soprano, sang a pleasing love song by Chas. K. Harris. Her voice is mellow and pleasing and she won the favor of all.

The pictures included a strong Biograph, The Way of the World, with all the dramatic force and detail which make these pictures so popular. An Edison comedy drama of the Klondike, and a French comedy full of laughter-compelling incidents. With all this and the Nickel orchestra's excellent music, it certainly was a good programme.

THE CLIMAX NEXT MONDAY, OPERA HOUSE.

What is promised as the real theatrical treat of the season is the forthcoming engagement of Joseph M. Heber's charming melody dram "The Climax," by Edward Locke, with incidental music by Joseph Carl Breil, which is announced at the Opera House next week.

"The Climax" is said to be one of the greatest plays of the century, abounding with delicious humor, absorbing romance and exquisite melodies which are entwined throughout the plot. The drama is having a most successful run at Weber's Theatre, New York, where theatrical prophets have predicted it will be seen for a year. There are four great characters in the play and the scenes are laid in New York city. The story is that of a young girl who is aspiring for an operatic career.

The cast to appear here includes Arthur Cohsie, Chester Barnett, Walter Leishmann and Miss Florence Webber, who is said to possess a beautiful soprano voice.

THE FOOL AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

"The Foll," a comedy drama in four acts, was presented by Davis & Knapp at the Opera House last night to a fair-sized house. Lester A. Davis was in the title role of Lord Augustus Doolittle and Mis Sadie Hilton had the leading feminine role of Dora Dane. The play will be repeated tonight.

THE GEM.

The Kalem feature, "The Further Adventures of the Girl Spy," the second of a series, proved a big drama, full of dashing excitement, containing may thrilling moments. The Kalem company have become famous for their war stories, and this headliner ranks in first position. "The Mask Maker" was all that could be desired in the dramatic art; this picture is the old school of acting, and made an immediate hit. The story depicts the death of the Mask Maker. A scenic film very interesting, showing the fastest iceboats in the world. The speed attainde by these boats ranges ninety to 100 miles an hour. The picture is taken on Lake Kohomkonha. The marevellous sped of the boats was simply dazzling. A long scream entitled "Miss Moneybags Wishes to Wed," was a happy conclusion for a splendid programme. During the evening a choice programme of music was rendered and Miss Culbertson scored a tremendous hit in her new song. This week Miss Ctlbertson will close her engagement at the Gem by introducing a big feature song. Matinees are in order each afternoon at the Gem. Special subjects for these performances are shown.

TONIGHT'S BIG RACE

The five mile race at the Victoria tonight, in which the champion Cameron and Corkery and Sterling wil compete, will be called at 9 o'clock after several preliminaries have been run off. Cameron spent last evening quietly, and this morning in company with the other runners had a try out to get acenstomed to the rink. The winner of the Boston Marathon says he expects the hardest contested race of his life tonight.

MR. SKAES' ITEM

It First Appeared in One of Mark Twain's Books

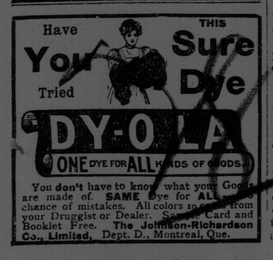
The famous "Mr. Skaes' Item" which appeared in the first issue of "The Jumping Frog of Calveras," was one of the late Mark Twain's happiest hits. It ran as follows:—

"Distressing Accident— Last evening, about 6 o'clock, as Mr. William Schuyler, an old and respectable citizen of South Park, was leaving his residence to go downtown, as has been his usual custom for many years, with the exception only of a short interval in the spring of 1850, during which he was confined to his bed by injuries received in attempting to stop a runaway horse by thoughtlessly placing himself directly in its wake and throwing up his hand and shouting, which if he had done so even a single moment sooner, must inevitably have frightened the animal still more instead of checking its speed, although disastrous enough to himself as it was, and rendered more melancholy and distressing by reason of the presence of his wife's mother, who was there and saw the sad occurrence nothwithstanding it is at least likely, though not necessarily so, that she should be reconnoitering in another direction when incidents occur, not being vivacious and on the lookout, as a general thing, but even the reverse, as her own mother is said to have stated, who is no more, but died in the full hope of a glorious resurrection, upwards of three years ago, aged 36, being a Christian woman and without guile, as it were, or property, in consequence of the fire of 1849, which destroyed every single thing she had in the world. But such is life. Let us all take warning by this solemn occurrence, and let us endeavor so to conduct ourselves that when we come to die we can do it. Let us place our hands upon our hearts and say with earnestness and sincerity that from this day forth we will beware of the intoxicating bowl.—First Edition of the California."

DRESSER BAGS

A convenient set of three small consecutive bags, which will prove wonderfully convenient if hung beside the dressing table, is made from a yard length of pompadour, Dresden or plain sash dibbon, divided into three equal parts, folded into bag shape, the edges overcast with heavy twist matching the color of the selvage and the tops equipped with sets of rather long ribbon hangers. The latter joined under the big rosette or a silk-covered cabochon.

The same design may be used for a desk accessory for preserving special scraps of paper, by making the triplet bags of chamois, bordered with ribbon and decorated with the embroidered initials of the owner, each bag compartment bearing a different letter.



LOCAL BALL SEASON HAS GOOD START

A 1 to 0 Game Won by St. Josephs—I.C.R. League This Evening—Cameron, Corkery and Stirling Tonight—Rickard Referee of Big Fight

I. C. R. League.

On the Every Day Club grounds this evening the I. C. R. league will open their season. The opposing nines will be the Creams of the Island Yard and the Colts of the Upper Yard. The boys have been utilizing spare time in getting into shape and in both teams there is some material for snappy players. All the teams have a good following and there is all kinds of interest as to the outcome of the first game as iti is figured that some line will then be had on what is considered two of the fastest teams in the league.

The game will start at 7 o'clock, sharp, with Arthur McHugh as umpire. There will be no admission fee.

A number of players of the Commercial League and some of the members of the Clippers of the South End League were out for work on the Every Day Club grounds last evening and the men are rounding into shape. Everything looks rosy for some gilt-edged ball on the grounds.

Local Season Well Opened.

The Inter-Society league was opened on the Shamrocks grounds last evening by a whirlwind game between the old rivals, St. Peter's and St. Joseph's, and was won by the latter by the score of 1 to 0. His Worship Mayor Frink officially opened the season by putting the first one over at 7 o'clock, sharp. About 1,000 people saw the game. The play was full of many exciting moments. It was not hitting that won the game, as each side had only one to its credit. The score follows:—

Major league managers are expected to devise a way to protect themselves from star players who handicap their teams during the first weeks of the season by refusing to report for the spring training trip.

George Stone, the Brown's left fielder, is a striking example of how lack of spring training may hurt a ball club.

Stone failed to condition himself at Houston with the other Browns. He is not yet in good condition. His lack of batting practice has been apparent in every game in which he had played. Had Stone been in condition at the opening of the season and hit anywhere near to form the Browns would probably have won half the games they have lost.

Managers seem willing to take a chance on a star out of condition rather than risk using a recruit in condition. That's the reason the club owners are talking of making the penalty so severe that even the stars cannot afford to cut their spring training.

Jack Taylor, the former star National League pitcher, as heady a boxman as ever operated in the big arena, has ben released by Manager Shay of the Kansas City American Association club. He worked in two innings with Minneapolis, allowing seven hits and eight runs, recently. He will probably return to Columbus, where he lives. Taylor did not cost Kansas City a cent. Shay signed him without paying one penny for his services and gave him a trial, believing that he might do the team some good in the early part of the season. Taylor hurt his arm in an exhibition frolic, and later said he was ready to pitch. He was tried out and was beaten.

Athletic

Cameron and Corkery Arrive.

Fred Cameron, of Amherst, and James Corkery of Toronto, who are to run a five mile race in the Victoria Rink tonight with Ernest Stirling, arrived in the city yesterday. Both say that for the present at least they will not join the professional ranks. Corkery announced that after tonight's race he will leave for his home in Toronto. Cameron said that he will rest during June, preparing for the Canadian ten mile championship which is expected to take place in this part of the country some time in July. Speaking of Stirling, Tom Trenholm, Cameron's trainer, said that with proper handling he could beat the best runners in America.

Tonight's race will not be called until about 9 o'clock, but the preliminary races will be called shortly after 8 o'clock. The entries for the preliminary events are as follows:

220 yards dash—Garnett, Peterson, Cunningham.

440 yards dash—Garnett, Willis, Peterson, Cunningham.

One mile — Willis, Danaher, Cribbs, Stubbs, Williams.

Through an error Horsman's name was entered in the five-mile race, but as this distance is not favorable to him he will not enter the race tonight.

The Ring

Stanley Ketchel, the middleweight champion, will perform at the Armory A. A., Boston, tonight, and Porky Flynn will be his opponent.

It's a big proposition that Flynn is undertaking to face such a famed fighter, and a champion at that, but he has been up against tough games and come off with flying colors, and, with his advantage of weight and reach, may prove a more stubborn opponent than he is given credit for.

It has been a rare things that Ketchel has not entered the ring since he won his spurs that he has not been the strong favorite. Against Johnson and Langford it was a different matter, but facing Flynn he will rate a top-heavy choice, in spite of what Flynn possesses in the way of ability in the defensive side of the game. The Ketchel shift and whirlwind battling are counted irresistible.

Dan McKettrick, the fight manager, has returned to New York from France with Jim Stewart, the heavyweight, and Ted Broad, an English bantam who is known as "Snowball."

Lewis lost only one battle in Paris, and that was when Billy Papke knocked him out. He is anxious for a return match and will challenge Papke after the latter's fight with Thomas. McKettrick announced that "Snowball" will make all the bantams look like novices when he gets along.

Packey McFarland, the little Chicago lightweight, who will meet Freddie Welsh in London, England, May 30th, finds the English climate to his liking and is getting himself down to the class weight with little or no effort.

Under the articles he must weigh in at 133 pounds at 2 o'clock, but as he weighed only 138 pounds two weeks ago, he has no fears.

Packey, however has a bigger object in view. If he can do 133 easily and be strong, his intention, should he defeat Welsh, is to go after Wolgast at once for the title, and accede to the champion's demand to make the lightweight limit at the ringside.

San Francisco, May 16—Tex Rickard, associated with Jack Gleason in the promotion of the Jeffries and Johnson contest, and who came into prominence four years ago, when he engineered the Gans-Nelson fight at Goldfield, Nevada, was selected today to referee the fight between the two heavyweights on July 4 at Emeryville.

In accepting the place, however, the Nevada promoter made it clear that he would step aside, if Jeffries and Johnson agreed on another man.

Bowling

Commercial Bowling League.

In the Commercial League bowling contest on Black's alleys last evening the Waterbury & Rising quintette took three out of four points from the sturdy five of the S. Hayward Company. Law, of the losers, bowled his usual good game, but his three high strings, averaging 96, failed to save his team from going down to defeat. Last night's game was a postponed match. The results of the scores are as follows:

Waterbury & Rising.

				Total.	Avg.
Thomas	84	77	75	236	78⅔
Holder	69	97	78	244	81⅓
Featherstone	79	98	95	272	90⅔

Joseph Hanington won out in the weekly roll-off on Black's alleys last evening with a score of 108. He received a box of cigars.

The Turf

(John H. Jewett in Horse Review.)

C. H. Nelson who has just been discharged from a Boston hospital where he was treated for a long standing trouble with his eyes, is receiving the congratulations of his friends upon the success of the operation. When he went into the hospital Mr. Nelson was almost totally blind, but now he almost completely recovered the use of one eye and hopes that another operation will restore the use of the other. Mr. Nelson was out to see the horses go at one of the matinee races last week, and on the way back made the remark that struck me as containing a lot of truth. "I don't see," he said, "what fun a man gets from racing one of those old-time race horses, broken down and only the ghosts of themselves. It always hurts my feelings to see some good game race horse that I have seen fighting gamely in a good old-fashioned three-in-five race quitting in these quarter-mile dashes." The man from Watterville says that he would think that the matinee men would get more fun in buying young, green horses, or racing colts of their own breeding, than they would in trying to get a few races out of an old patched up cripple. "Every time that I go to a matinee race," said Mr. Nelson, "I see some good old horse that I would like to take down to my farm and give a chance to have a good roll in the grass." This brings to mind the fact that at the matinee of the Old Colony Driving club, held last Saturday, the winner of one of the races, the bay gelding Baker, is credited with being 32 years old. This may be an exaggeration, but it is a fact that he is known to be more than 25.

Sport Briefs

What is said to be the most valuable dog in the world, Champion Chinehan Young Jack, an English bull is dead at the Long Island kennels of his owner, J. Cooper Mott, who recently imported him for $5,200. Richard Croker, Jr., paid $5,000 for Rodney Stone, another English bull, some years ago.

Champion Chinehan never knew a healthy day from the time he landed in America. His owner exhibited him once but he was out of condition and took only a second prize. The best veterinaries in the country prescribed for him in vain.

WOMAN OF 90 RECALLS VISIT OF COMET IN '35

"Falling Stars" Which Set Straw Stacks Afire—People Feared World Was to be Destroyed

Mrs. Adaline Degarmo, of Marion, Ohio, who celebrated her 91st birthday anniversary on April 8, was an eyewitness to the visit of Halley's comet seventy -five years ago and remembers distinctly the night of the falling stars the year before.

The night of the falling stars Mrs. Degarmo and her parents had retired.

"During the night," said Mrs. Degarmo, "mother came to my bed and awoke me and told me to get up and dress, as something terrible was happeneing. It was about ten o'clock, and the rain of stars continued until along toward morning. The sight was very beautiful, and I can remember it as well as if it only happened last night. The next day meteorites were found. Straw stacks in the neighborhood were set on fire, and the people became much frightened, thinking that the world was coming to an end. Many of the neighbors came rushing to our home, and I can remember how astonished they were af the calmness which we displayed. Some said to me, 'Adaline, aren't you afraid?' and I replied, 'No, I don't think God is ready to destroy the world by fire just yet.' Many became very ill and some died of fright.

"It was about a year after this that the comet made its appearance nd frightened the people, who were sure this time that God was going to destroy the world.

"The comet was very bright and was visible to everybody. I was then a little girl, but I can remember that it had a long tail that stretched across the sky. It was visible and very bright for a number of evenings, and then gradually disappeared. To us it was a very remarkable and awful spectacle, and while it was a beautiful sight yet it carried a sinister meaning that held the people in a great fear."

The feeble old lady, smiling, closed her narrative with these words:

"I knew God did not intend to destroy the earth just then by fire, because there was so much wickedness all about and He would surely not take the people without giving them a chance to repent. So I was not afraid, but many others were."

PUGILISTS AND THEIR PET PUNCHES

Every pitcher has a cute curve which he picks up to puzzle a batsman in a pinch, every slugger can kill a certain curve, every race horse is a fiend for a soft or hard footing to flash his fleetness, every grappler has a favorite grip and every fighter likes to fire his tape-bound fist to the mark in a certain groove to score his knockout.

The pet punch of a pugilist has often been predominantly powerful to a successfully executed ruse on the part of a foe which resulted in his downfall. The entire system of many fighters is built on their particular punches. They fight with the object of battering across the intervening space between them and their opponent past the guard, this favorite blow.

Jack Johnson, the present occupant of the heavyweight throne, relies on one wallop to stretch his foe senseless on the floor. He fights a slow, steady battle, watching like a hawk the chance to crash his glove with terrific impact on the vital spot.

The Texan has a masterly left hand, but a right hand uppercut is the ace in the hole of the champion, and with it he toppled over Tommy Burns, Stanley Ketchel, and it is the one with which he expects to execute his finishing stroke on the boiler-maker.

The hardest hitter in the American ring is Stanley Ketchel, the Michigan marvel, but he fights in wild spurts, and frequently clever fighters have been able to dodge the deadly missiles which Ketchel whips at them. Again Ketchel is always hitting and his guard is necessarily drawn wide open, leaving a path to his jaw for the punch of an opponent.

Battling Nelson bores in until he is leaning against the man and then he pounds away at the body, the kidneys and renal plexus being the spots he likes to batter best of all. The new champion, Ad Wolgast, seems to have a combination, but Wolgast will dote on a favorite dart with his fist before he has fought many more battles.

There was the old sorrel top, Robert Fitzsimmons. He planked his glove against a fellow's ribs and there flashed throughout the land the news of a new spot which was more susceptible, the solar plexus, than the jaw or heart, to a blow. Bob felled Corbett with that blow, and he used it on Sharkey. It was his best bet.
