SERIOUS OUTLOOK IN IRISH POLITICS

Boundary Question Involves Immediate Action by Parliament.

By H. N. MOORE (United Press Cable) London, July 30.—The decision of the judicial committee of the Privy Council that it was impossible to legally constitute the Irish Boundary Commission unless the United Government consents to appoint a member means immediate legislation reviving the treaty in order to carry out the British promises with respect to the boundary.

Unless immediate remedial steps are taken, the most serious developments in the Irish Free State, are expected. Elections would result inevitably in a Republican victory.
