AGRICULTURE Notes and Suggestions of Practical Utility. OR THE FARM, FIELD, GARDEN AND DAIRY. Cleanings of Interest for Our Country Readers. Plants like a rich soil. Plants breathe at every pore. Work on business principles. All animals like fresh food. Learn how to feed your crops. Sweet food makes sweet meat. A good start is half the battle. Cut the weed; don't let it seed. Quality stands first in the dairy. Eggs are not made without food. Give everything room to grow in. Do not let a tree mature useless fruit. Make a little improvement every year. The leaves of trees form a good mulch. Give free circulation of air everywhere. From poor food only poor results come. Manure broadcast rather than in the hill. Opportunity is necessary to show ability. See that clover-fed hogs have plenty of salt. Pluck back the vines if you want tomatoes. Treat not entirely to money in business. A sprinckler in the garden is indispensable. Hunger and poor fences make nearly stock. Get your product to market in good condition. The middleman's profits are the consumer's loss. Rest and recreation are parts of the duty of life. Feed only such animals as will pay for their keep. There is economy in clean, smooth methods. Sunflowers are said to make good poles for beans. The larger kinds of geese make the best returns. Don't be anxious to tell what you don't know. One step at a time leads to the top of the ladder. Who takes any more comfort than the farmer? A sudden change of diet is generally injurious. Weeds, if let alone, will take care of themselves. The better the pasture, the less the grain needed. Protection should always be guided by the demand. Everything needs time and room in which to grow. Misunderstanding is the mother of many lawsuits. A sensitive man does not like to eat his own pea. The good hen lays only an egg a day, but it counts. Americans are said to be extravagant flower devotees. A little lime is now used in spraying with arsenic. Stock may receive too much as well as too little care. Remember, food and air sustain the life of the animal. If you grind food, grind it fine and save maturation. What may be easily prevented is often slow to cure. Comfort the year round is the rule in penitentiary armies. The man dignifies the pursuit, not the pursuit the man. Soaking and drying farm machinery does not improve it. To make fat milk, you must have a fat-producing cow. Work in an orderly way and keep tools in orderly array. Never leave a nail sticking up through a board anywhere. In the case of burns, the first thing is to exclude the air. A farm without a tool house is like pants without pockets. If you send fowls to market alive, provide for their comfort. Independent thought is necessary to freedom and progress. No one yet knows the capacity of soil or how to best treat it. Give to working stock frequent but moderate draughts of water. Soiling water is said to be the best disinfectant for dairies. Many of the most labor-saving implements are for use by hand. Maturing worthless fruit is as exhaustive as maturing good fruit. Familiarity with objects is the only remedy for abating by a horse. It is necessary to wait for a rainy day in which to repair fences! Road-making machines appear to be increasing in popularity. Good work depends not so much on the tools as on the workman. Let the little ones help; they will be the happier and better for it. France will make a brilliant floral display at the Columbian fair. If you cannot have all your stock of the best have the best you can.

Parag. On All Subjects of Current Note at Home and Abroad. ANECDOTES, HAPPENINGS AND GENERAL COMMENTS. Clipped and Condensed for the Readers of The Globe. Los Angeles is engaged in a crusade against the masters. A strike of petroleum is alleged to have taken place at San Diego. The Board of Supervisors have ordered electric lights for Yuba City, Cal. 1,500,000,000 pounds of butter are consumed yearly in the United States. The Yuba river is being improved by a new steel bridge costing $25,000, at the town of that name. Redlands is building a system of storm water drains to avoid a repetition of the flood of a year ago. According to an Albuquerque daily, one of the conspicuous needs of New Mexico is a legal hanging. Ventura has a Chinese fire company. It is said to be more amusing than a fire to watch them fight a blaze. Redwood City is evidently a good town for rats. Two dogs killed 100 in one day, according to the veracious chroniclers of that burg. San Bernardino county is contemplating the making of a native salt palace for the World's Fair, using blocks of crystallized salt that measure 12x24 inches and are perfectly transparent. LOTTERY SWINDLES. One Apparently Prudent as to Face—Three Men Arrested. The headquarters of two lottery concerns which have been circulating their tickets throughout the city of San Francisco were raided by the police. One of the schemes exposed had the appearance of being a rank swindle. Its business was transacted in rooms at 508 Montgomery street and the tickets sold purported to be for weekly drawings of the Louisiana State Lottery. (There being no lottery drawings of this kind, the tickets were at once set down by the police as bogus. An officer disguised as a sailor, called at the offices and made arrangements to go out as an agent for the concern. He was to receive 100 tickets for $10. The tickets were to be sold for 25 cents each so that he could make 15 cents on each one. He, in fact, had no money to put into the scheme and can save time and labor enough in running it to pay the investment, or can get enough more better out of the milk or enough to buy the cow. He was finally produced under arrest and charged with maintaining a lottery. At the city prison he gave the name of William Hampton but his true name is believed to be E. W. Hambrook. The man is unknown to the police, quantity of lottery tickets and 100 tickets were seized. The circulars bear the name of D. D. Deane of the bottom. The other police raid was at 850 Market street, the headquarters of a scheme known as 'E. Fox & Co's Louisiana Lottery.' Thom McCallan, an ex-politician, and J. A. Frost were arrested for keeping the lottery place and for selling lottery tickets. Several hundred tickets were seized.

FOREIGN PAPER MONEY. The Bank Note Currency of Various Countries. The Bank of England note is five inches by eight in dimensions, and is printed in black ink on Irish linen water-laid paper, plain white with ragged edges. The notes of the Banque de France are made of white water-laid paper, printed in black and white, with numerous mythological and allegorical figures, and running in denomination from the twenty-five franc note to the 1000 franc. South American currency, in most countries, is about the size and appearance of American bills, except that cinnamon brown and slate blue are the prevailing colors, and that Spanish and Portuguese are the prevailing languages engraved on the face. The German currency is rather artistic. The bills are printed in green and black. The Chinese paper currency is in red, white, and yellow, with gilt lettering and gorgeous Hing hand-drawn devices. The bills, to the ordinary observer, might pass for washing bills, but they are worth good money in the Flowery Kingdom. Italian notes are of all sizes, shapes and colors. The smaller bills—five and ten lire notes—are printed on white paper in pink, blue and carmine inks, and ornamented with a finely engraved vignette of King Humbert. The 100-lire note of Russia is barred from top to bottom with all the colors of the rainbow, blended as when shown through a prism. In the centre in bold relief stands a large, finely executed vignette of the Empress Catherine. This is in black. The other engraving is not at all intricate or elaborate, but is well done in dark and light brown and black inks. The Australian bill is printed on light-colored thick paper, which shows none of the silk fiber marks or geometric lines used in American currency as a protection against counterfeiting. Mr. Standardill: 'Is it my daughter you want, or is it her money?' Tobias Howens (amateur champion hundred yards): 'Mr. Standardill, you surprise me. You know very well that I'm an amateur athlete.' Mr. Standardill: 'What's that got to do with it?' Tobias Howens: 'A great deal, sir. It debars me from taking part in any event for money.'

JINGLES OF HUMOR. A Little Nonsense Gathered for Leisure Reading. Mother—When that boy three stones at you why didn't you come and tell me instead of throwing them back? Little Son—Tell you? Why you couldn't hit a barn door. Sis—You men are so changeable! Before we were married you didn't go to the club every night. He—I couldn't, my dear, when I had to call on you every night. I'm not away from home any more now than I was then. First Seaside Girl—There's a great man-eating shark down on the beach, dead. What do you suppose killed him? Second Seaside Girl—Starvation, probably. He was a man-eating shark. Squidgie—Is Red Cloud that Indians real name? McSwilligan—I suppose so. Why do you ask? Squidgie—I thought it might be a Sioux name. Brown—Isn't Jones a man of very strong opinions? Gray—You wouldn't think so if you should hear how violently he expresses them. 'Is your father at home?' asked Mr. Smith. 'No, sir,' answered Dan; 'but you will find the grandchildren in the shed.' 'I do not care for the grandchildren,' replied Mr. Smith. 'What makes you think I did?' 'Because papa says you never come here unless you have an axe to grind,' answered Dan innocently. Smart Boy—Please ma'am, it was two minutes after nine when you got here. What we are late you keep us after school. Teacher—Very well. You can all stay and keep me after school, if you wish. (Smart boy subsides. He—Tell me, dearest, did you ever love before? She—I must be frank with you Harry. Yes, I did love once, but that was many years ago. When quite young I had a warm attachment for a doll with a black face. I did love that doll devotedly, but Harry, that is passed now, and you need not be jealous of that old, old love. Jakey—Fisher, a shentimen's hall fallen true do coal hole! Isaac—Cute & cover offer him kerwick mill shoh, vils I runs for a policeman. We'll arrest him for trying to steal to coal or he'll sue for tamper? Lammie—I never knew a woman who could throw straight. Skingullet (travelling)—Miss Ophelia threw me straight enough. Wife (after the theatre)—How lovely the moon is John! Husband (it was a five-act play)—Yeah m' dear (his) both of 'em beautiful. Elder Jones—Well, Brother Smith, how many have you in your new church? Elder Smith—Oh, two hundred and some odd. How many have you? Elder Jones—Two hundred and all odd. 'Happy couple' mused Pomper, as Mr. and Mrs. Fresh passed by. 'What trusting love! Why I've known that man to wear a home-made smoking jacket and imagine that it fitted him!' 'I came here,' said the youth to the Boston girl, 'for a little rest and peace of mind.' 'Ah,' she said, 'you appear to have peace of mind; when do you expect the rest?' X was paying attention to a rich widow. 'Madame,' he said, as he offered her a bouquet, 'you grow more and more beautiful every day.' 'You exaggerate, my dear sir,' exclaimed the lady, 'yet not as very often as you say.'
