The Great Liberal Convention—Mr. slake's Academic and Me igious Ut-ierances—The "clobe" Moving on its Axis—Free Library—Extension of the Franchica

Franchise, &c.

[FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.] Toronto, Jan. 8.

The delegates to the great Grit convention have gone to their homes, taking favorable impressions with them and leaving favorable impressions behind them. It was undoubtedly the greatest political gathering ever seen in the greatest political gathering ever seen in Canada whether as regards numbers or importance. There were over six thousand accredited delegatest comprising, the use a very hackneyed expression, the bone and sinew of Oaterlongse, and the brains too for that matter, Well hight the Honorable Mr. Mowat fell a flush of pride in tooking round at the see of face assembled to do him honor and promise support, and well do him honor and promise support, and well might the Conservative leaders feel despair at their hearts as they saw such a host of opponents, each commanding a certain number of votes in his district. But, besides being large, the convention was also respectable, though the Mail did say they were 'drawn hither by half fares and cheap whiskey. And talking of the Mail reminds one that that singular sheet is acting in a most eccen-tric fashion and has been doing so since its editor lost his wits on the "Marmion" question. There is nothing to gain by so grossly insulting some thousands of the most respectable men in Ontario, though they are Grits of more or less hard shell tendencies, no more than there was in having maligned the Catholic hierarchy of Ontario. The only explanation that can be offered for this ruining of the prospects of the Conservative party, at least in so far as this Province is concerned, is that the editor of the Mail is an imbecile. It is rumored that he will soon receive a Government appointment, and that Mr. Eiward Farrer, at present editing the Winnipeg Times, will be installed in his place. The great misfortune of the present editor's life is that he happened to have been on the ediforial tripod when the national policy swept the country at the general elections last June. Since then nothing can persuade him but that it was his writings fired the protective heart of the country.] Mr. Mowat's address was a masterly one. Mr. Mowat is less of an orator than a debater. His voice is not powerful, but it is sweet and distinct. He was, of course, listened to with prolound attention, for as he is the man most prominent in two such great questions as the Boundary Award and the Disallowance of the Streams Bill, it | their lives if they had obeyed orders. They was felt that his words would be fraught with importance, as, indeed, so they were. When he said Ontario would not surrender her rights in the disputed territory his manner was not dramatic in the slightest degree, but it was very sincere and impressive and evoked such enthu-slaam in the great gathering as would convince Sir John, were he present, that the people of Ontario are in no mood for trifling but that they will, if necessary, resist force by force if driven to it. The Hon Edward Blake followed the Provincial Premier. His speech was academic and argumentative. His rewas account and argumentative in the ference to a late hot-gospel meeting was not appreciated. The truth is, Edward has a touch of the Y. M. C. A. about him which he cannot divest himself of. It does his party no good; but as he is making an earnest effort to throw away his Puritanism and pomposity and to come down from his elevated tilits, he may also be successful in letting the gospel be preached by ministers of the (lospel. He threw out sparks of brighter fire when he said in reference to the

Tory assertion that Mowat must go: And shall Trelawney die? And shall Trelawney die? Then thirty thousand Cornishmen

Will know the reason why. The Convention was very anxious to hear the Hon. Mr. Fraser speak, but were disapcointed. Your readers will regret to learn that that gentleman, the rival of Blake in eloquence, and a far more pleasing speaker, has not been by any means well these past few months. He was willing enough to speak at the Convention, but was dissauded from it by his friends, who feared the effect was too much for him. It is to be hoped that the summer weather will enable him to recuperate. The Hon. Mr. McKensie spoke also, but it is evident his ancient force has departed from him. It was seen at a glance his health was not good; indeed he has grown thinner, and older looking by ten years than when he was in power previous to September, 1878. For the rest, the Liberal speakers were not up to much. Mr. Patterson, of Brant, delivered what is termed a rattling speech; Mr. Peter Byan, of Toronto a practical one, and for the rest was feelers put forth by the Vatican to ascertain the not of the dead level of Grit cratory? it not of the dead level of Grit oratory? how the British public would view such an while all this political palaner was going eventuality."

was keeping up with it. This paper is now fully in accord with Blake and Mowat, and is prepared to endorse their policy, both Federal and Provincial. Since the accession of Mr. Cameron a change has taken place in the leatures of the organ; and, certes, for the bet-ter. It looks less heavy and more newsy. Mr. Hawke, the news manager, was decapimr. tiawke, the news manager, was deceptated soon after the bead of Gordon Brown rolled in the saw dust. He is a young man full of zeal, industry and energy, who by those qualities and a little key-hole business in Ottawa, lifted himself from the position of local reporter with eight dollars a week wages to news editor of Canada's greatest paper at $1,500 a year. Such a rise, is liable to turn the head of a young man, and Mr. Hawke siter awhile be'll blow in it and charge you five shiltings locked in the mirror and saluted bimself as tor repairs. the Napoleon of journalism. Heaven sneered at the management of the New York Herold. He expected, though not legitimately, that he would succeed Gordon Brown, but was disappointed and then revolted against the Cameron men. A news editor is hardly a necessity on the Globe, he might be done without altogether without loss, as he is really only a walking boss, such as you would see in a well regulated dry goods store. He is gone, but the Globe rolls on its axis all the

Apropos of affairs municipal, the news that

Mayor Beaudry is likely to offer himself once more has been received here with a grin half cynical and half sardonic. His Worship is not loved with any degree of enthusiasm in the city of Toronto. A good many people in this Province believe he is a Jesuit in disin this Province believe he is a Jesuit in dis-guise, or worse (which would mean he is an anti-Christ, 1 suppose). It is doubtful if the extension of the franchise asked for at the late Reform Convention will be given this season, though it will in all probability next year. It does seem rather absurd that farmers sons should enjoy the franchise and merchants sons be excluded from it. The difficulty is in drawing the line, for it is manifest there is an element in the cities who would not heaftate in voting away the blankets from off your bed this cold weather I observe the Hon. Mr. Mousseau is more reasonable on the great question of education than Chapleau, but then that is perhaps because he is not sure of a majority. A news-paper is a wonderful thing truly. I presume the present system, with its silent system and palatial mansions so substice and severe in their beauty will be swept out of existence.

ILLEGITIMACY IN SCOTLAND .- At a meeting the Royal Society of Edinburgh on Monday Mr. G. Seton, advocate, read a paper on "Illegitimacy in Scotland." Mr. Beion said that for many years there had been going on in England and slee in Scotland, a perceptible improvement of the number of illegitimate births. Do at the 34 years ending in 1879 the proportion of illegitimate children in England had fairen from 6.7 to 4.7 per cent. Of the births in Scotland dur-ing the two decades ending 1870 and 1880 there was a diminution of nearly one per cent., the fall being from 9 . 7 to 8 . 8 per cent In both decades Banfi retained the discreditable distinction of being at the top of the list, with an illegitimate child in every six hirths, or nearly double the percentage for the rest of Scotland. This large pro ortion of illegitimacy had been attributed to the low moral tone among domestic and farm servants.

COLUMBIA. VICTORIA, B.
