

19

He realised that after being away for some time that he had committed an offence against the Army Act, realized from the point of view of his own family it would be better to give himself up and accept punishment meted out to him and so he left the fair job at a dairy farm to report voluntarily to the army.