WOMEN AND UMBRELLAS.

One Man's Way of Rending Members of the Gentler Sex. man who sat nearest the window aid he didn't mind the wet weather. "It gives me a chance to see how people carry their umbrellas," he said. "I have such faith in my umbrella deductions that I wouldn't be afraid to choose a wife with them for a guide."

"I'm glad I'm not out there in the street," she said. "You'd be picking out all the kinks in my disposition along with the rest of them." the rest of them."
"Oh," said the man, "I sized you up a long time ago. You carry an umbrella when it's furled just like that woman across the street. You grab it in the middle and go forging ahead with the ends of the handle digging into the unfor-tunate pedestrians who go before and fol-

"And what does that signify?" asked the woman on the left.
"Alertness, activity, selfishness and inonsiderateness."

"Um-m-m," said the woman "But just look at the third woman in the procession," said the man. "I pity the men folks about her house. I'll warrant they have to get their own breakfast about six mornings out of seven. I never yet saw a woman who dragged her umbrella along so that you could track her by the trail of the tip who wasn't dilatory and shiftless. She never sews on a button or darns or mends, and her breakfast dishes are seldom washed before 2 o'clock. "That other woman who is bustling along holding to the top of the umbrella handle like grim death and pointing the tip down and forward in a kind of south by southwesterly direction is altogether different. She would set the world on fire if it wasn't waterlogged. I am not sure that I'd want to be married to her, either. She'd be too energetic. She'd push everything before her and when she took a notion to clean things up a mere man would have nowhere to lay his head. What she is good for is serving on "That woman in the gray skirt is a yea and nay sort of person. She wants to agree with everybody and follows wher-ever led. Women who carry their umrellas with the point backward and downward are always unassertive.

"But just look at that girl who spins along swinging her umbrella around in a along swinging ner umbrella around in a circle as if it were a magic wand. I like her. She's jolly and good natured and gets more pleasure out of life than ten ordinary people. There's a woman carrying her umbrella swung across her shoulder like a she're. der like a shotgun. She's a true soldier of fortune and was never known to say die. I can't think of anything that would feaze her.

The man paused. "And what would you say," asked the woman, "about that girl who carries her umbrella horizontally across the small of her back and catches either end into the crook of her elbow?"

"Well," admitted the man, "she is a new one on me. I never met her before, but I wouldn't be afraid to wager that she is conscientious to a degree and has a heart as big as all outdoors. But here, nes the most even tempered woman of the lot. She cuddles her umrella protectingly under her arm as if she doesn't want even it to get hurt in the crowd. That woman is gentle and thoughtful and kind."—St. Louis Repub-

The Teasing Habit.

Recognizing the causes which produce the teasing habit, the cure is self evident. "Let your communication be yea, yea, and nay, nay," and never let it be "nay, rea." or "yea, nay." Let the word spoken be unchangeable even though you change your mind and conclude that you might just as well let the pleader have his wish. If possible to do so, yield your attention at once to his requests; give due consideration to the request before you grant or refuse; if you cannot decide immediately, ask for a little time to consider, but let the child know you are thinking the matter over and will reply a soon as you can; then, having given your verdict, let it be unchangeable.

Prompt recognition of the child's wishes, a judicious consideration of their character and then a quiet, firm and unreversible decision in regard to them will soon teach the child the uselessness of teasing.—American Mother, Ann Ar-bor, Mich.

THE VALUE OF PAIN.

There's a Story in Morning Tiredness. It Calls Attention to the Fact That Pain is not disease; it is a symptom calling attention to the fact that disease exists. We do not remove the disease by stopping the pain.

Headaches usually arise from disturbances in digestion, due to overeating, eating freely of soft foods, too much of a variety at meals, etc. Fermentation and decay of the foods with the formaand decay of the foods with the forma-tion of poisons and irritants result. The danger is reported at headquarters. The thing to do is to heed the voice of the faithful sentinel, assist nature to get rid of the impurities generated, either by washing out the stomach, drinking freely of water, fasting for a day, by vigorou exercise or eliminative baths. Recognize in the pain the voice of a friend calling attention to the fact that we have done wrong and resolve never to violate the laws of health on this point again. In a day or so the transgr would feel well and would be able to keep from getting into the same or worse condition by avoiding the causes.

This is not the way these symptoms are usually treated. Pain is looked upon as an enemy, not as the voice of a friend. The sick one goes to a physician and demands something that will stupefy or paralyze the nerves—the pain must stop at once. He is given an opiate; the pain stops; the food still keeps on decaying in the stomach; he imagines he is well. The disease still exists; the symptom alone has been removed. The faithful sentinel has been knocked down. The means of telegraphic communication to headquarters have been severed. The en-emy has his own way and is able to go ahead undisturbed in his destructive work. The watchers are asleep under an anæsthetic or opiate. The enemy enters the camp. Poisons that are generated in the stomach through errors in diet overwork and irritate the liver, the lungs and kidneys, through which they are eliminated, and finally result in Bright's disease, or the lungs, being weakened, are not able to resist the germs of dis-ease that are inhaled. He falls a victim to tuberculosis and is now in a serious if not an incurable, condition.

The only safe way is to study the human body and become familiar with the laws upon which health, happiness and life depend. Prevent pains, woe and sickness by avoiding their causes.

Metropolitan Sidelights. In speaking of the features of city life that are incomprehensible to country peo-ple a successful publisher said:

EVERY Housekeeper must often act as a family physician. Pain-Killer for all the little ills, cuts, sprains, as well as for all bowel complaints, is afford to pay $2,500 a year rent should have an income of at least $10,000, and the presumption is that his income is more than that. I am familiar with opportunity to look over the list of names of men who lived in this apartment house New York na there was not one on the list with which I was familiar. I never had heard of any of them. Here were ten men who lived next door to me, each of them having an income that would mean wealth in the country, and none of them was known to me. It is by such sidelights as this that one may get an idea of the wealth of this city.' The Heron Nests High.

Heron colonies are rare enough to excite interest in their location and the peculiarities of the nest building of thes birds. They live and rear their young year after year at the same place, unless some catastrophe in bird life or the intrusion of unwelcome residents cause them to move.

There are three known heron colonies in New England. One of them is on the plantation just to the north of Sebec lake. On a point of land reaching out into the on a point of land reaching out in pond is a growth of tall silver birches, and there are at least one hundred nests in the tops of those trees. The trees are tall, without limbs for forty feet or more from the ground. It is a well known fact that herous never build a nest in a tree with limbs much less than forty feet from the earth. The nests are constructed from small sticks. The nest is at least two feet across.

His Candid Opinion. A young man contemplating matrimo-nial felicity took his fair intended to the home of his parents that she might be introduced to the old folks.

"This is my future wife," said the young man, proudly turning to pater-familias, who was a canny Scot. "Now, father, tell me candidly what you think

The old man eyed the blushing bride elect critically for fully two minutes, then answered with deliberation, "Well, John, I can only say you have shown much better taste than she has."—London Tit-Bits.

Unchained.

An English alderman of one of the new boroughs in the provinces, meeting a friend who occupied a similar position of dignity and usefulness in a neighboring district, said:
"We have provided our mayor with a splendid chain. What are you doing for yours?"

"Oh," replied his friend, "we are going to let our bounder run loose."

Money Talks. Justice—Will you swear that you saw the accused smoking a cigarette? Witness—I don't swear, your honor, but I'll bet you $10 to $5 that he was.
