FIRST PART.

Vocation of the Apostles

Et secute sunt Jesum,—And they followed Jesus.

HE Saviour's disciples had given a perfectly true if somewhat concise summary of His life : " He was mighty in words and works." Our subject still deals with the first part, His works, which, as we have already stated are of two kinds, natural and miraculous.

The vocation of the Apostles apparently belongs to the natural order, yet to the miraculous as well. Two disciples of John the Precursor, having heard him designate the Messiah by these
