Truth.

Tis strange, but true; for truth is always strateg;
Stranger than fiction: if it could be told.
How much would novels gain by the exchange?
How differently the world would men behold! behold! How oft would vice and virtue places change The new world would be nothing to the old, If some Columbus of the mortal seas Would show mankind their souls' antipodes.

A bashful young man mortally offended the bride of his most intimate friend by stammering, when taken aback by a request for a toast at the wedding: "Tom, my f-fr-friend, may you have a wedding once a year as long as you live."

A negro held a cow while a man who aquinted was to knock her on the head with an axe. The negro observing the man's eyes, in some fear enquired, "You gwine to hit whar you look!" "Yes," "Den," said cuffee, "hold de cow yourself. I ain't gwine to let you hit me."

Brougham one day, speaking of the salary to be attached to a rumored appointment of a new judgship, said it was "all moon-hine." Lyndhurst, in his dry and waggish way, remarked, "May be so, my Lord Harry; but I've a confounded strong notion that, moonshine though it be, you would like to see the first quarter of it."

A teacher once said to a little how this have

A teacher once said to a little boy whom he was trying to bring up in the way he should go: "You must never envy those little children who are rich and wear fine clothes." "I don't, not a bit." "Why don't you envy them, Johnny?" "Because they have to wear clean clothes, and they can't wade in the gutter, and make mud cakes, and they have to say please to everybody, for everything they get."

A Disreputable Linen Duster.

I hurriedly called for my linen duster (ever since my uncle in Califoroia left mo $390,000 I always wear a linen duster when I travel; I feel as though I could afford it and society rather demands it of me), and climbed into the train and waited for it to start. By and by I reached into the capacious pockets of that duster, and in an idle, vagrant kind of a moment, drew forth a Police Gazette, radiant with the usual astronomy. tonishing display of all kinds of stockings in all manner of attitudes save proper in all manner of attitudes save proper ones, with female figures attached to them. Now, I never buy and I never read that journal, and I was amazed to find it in my pocket. I went down again and brought up a couple of beer tickets. Then I raked again and found a piece of billiard chalk, several grains of coffee, and a bit of lemon peel. It seemed to me that my ordinary and well-behaved and exemplary duster, had evidently been out with the duster had evidently been out with the boys last night, instead of reposing in the quiet of the coat-room. Curious to know just how far this iniquity went, I reached into another pocket and found a cork-screw, three dice, revelling in luxurious afflue ce of three aces apiece, and a poker deck containing four kings of spades. I was ashamed of that duster. Not only had it asiamed of that duster. Not only had it been out with the boys, but it had fallen among thieves, and was itself the meanest thief of the lot, and unworty to be called one of the boys. I was almost afraid to examine the last pocket, but I finally sent down the grapple and up it came with a whiskey flask, very empty, but very odor-

I began to wish the train would start so that I might watch my opportunity and throw that duster, with all its manifold iniquities on its wicked head, into the river. I stealthily felt under the bottle and found a pair of brass knuckles. That settled it. My duster was irrevocably bad. I would wear it as far as the first river or I would wear it as far as the first river or the first tunnel, and I would wear it no farther. Would the train never start?

Just then a gentle hand touched my shoulder. I statted guiltily, and looked up to see a policeman. If I had been arrested on any charge, theft, burglary, murder, sheep stealing, treason, anything, I should have given right in and gone along. I hadn't enough confidence in myself to deny anything. But when I looked up I saw a kind, tender face, and I heard the voice of a Methodist clergyman. I would wear it as far as the first river or you and I have exchanged dusters. I only noticed the change this moment, when I found some letters and lecture tickets bearing your name in the pockets. The mistake is my own, I have no doubt. I am so very careless, and our dusters are what to say nor where to look, but I had just along hense left to say, yes, that it was my duster he held in his hands. That I couldn't find my own in the coatroom, and took the only one that was left. And then I gave the good, innocent man the villainous old sin-dyed Phillistine that had been corrupting my morals all the morning.

And then, to sit there and never look around, but just listen to that man's exclamations of amazement and horror. First he found the billiard chalk. He car full of people just rose as one man and yelled and howled, and trampled on their hats, and wanted to get out and tear the bottom out of the car and throw it into the Shanango river to express their feelings. I never saw so great an enthusiasm over such a little thing. And the fainting clergyman came to me, holding the dis-reputable, character-destroying old gallows bird of a duster in his trembling hands. "Sir," he said, with patient rebuke and his own duster and gave up the robe of un-righteousness to the ambass dor. The man

First he found the billiard chalk. He didn't know what that was, so he only said "H'm!" Then he found the coffee grains—but he didn't exactly understand them, and he just said "Ha!" Then he fished out the cork-screw, and he seemed to comprehend that in a general way, for he said "What?" in a staccato of astonishment that elicited an encore from the entire audience. The poor man's "Merciful heavens!" that greeted the appearance of the whiskey flask was drowned in a perfect torrent of applause and wild cries of "Go on, go on," and "More." And then when he pulled out the Police Gazette and the brassknuckles he fell back into his seat with an audible gasp of horror, and the whole

HUMOROUS.

"You have too much style," said an old critic to a young writer. "Style is only a frame to hold the thoughts, as a window sash holds the panes of glass. Too much sash obscures the light."

A young lady recently presented her lover with an elaborately constructed persuiper, and was astonished the following Sunday to see him come into church wearing it as a crayat.

But I steeled my heart against him, because I was as innocent as himself, and it was the pulpit and the rostrum for it.

EQUIPPED WITH OUR NEW RAKE

When we tell you the Imperial Harvester is the most perfect reaping machine nade, we also lay before you the facts in order that you can judge for yourselves. Not only does this machine possess more valuable patented improvements than any other machine made, but in construction it is the simplest; in strength, and durability, combined with lightness, compactness, symetry of design, convenience in handling and capacity for performing extraordinary ranges of work with ease and perfection, it has no equal. It is adapted to work on any farm field, in any kind of grain, and it possesses advantages over all others, equipped as it is with both of the acknowledged perfect rakes now in use, either of which farmers can choose when purchasing.

Farmers, be not deceived by any statements made by agents anxious to sell you reapers of other makers. You now have the opportunity of purchasing the only perfect machine in the market, and do not let that opportunity slip from you.

The Imperial is sold under full guaranty that it is just as we represent it. You run no risk in buying it. It will do all we say, and more too. Therefore send in your orders at once. It costs no more to purchase now than it will at harvest time. By having your machine at home before you require to use it, you will become so familiar with its construction and operation that when you begin harvesting you will be able to go right through without a single delay. This to every farmer is a matter of great importance.

Our agents will have sample machines at different points for inspection during the winter and spring months, where you can see them and leave your orders. Or you can send your orders to us direct. We will ship you a machine, and if it does not fulfil every representation we make concerning it, when you receive it, send it back and we will return your order. This is the way we do business. The deposits bear interest compounded half-yearly. The whole of the Income, from the repayment on Loans, together with the Capital Stock of the Society, are pledged by Act of Parliament as security for the proper repayment of deposits. The Funds of the Society are entirely invested in Mortgage on Real Estate only; thus rendering the Security to Depositors both complete and permanent. Dedosits of One bollar and upwards received, subject to withdrawal, and interest all owed thereon at the rare of five and six per cent. per annum, as may be agreed upon at time deposit is made.
