Interesting Letter from France.

The following letter was received by Mrs. Arthur Johns, Lakeville, from her husband in France.

My Dear Wife:—

I suppose by the time you get this letter the news of this battle will be stale and you will be fed up with it. However the Canadian boys did not spoil their reputation but rather put more lustre upon it. I think it was a great surprise to Fritz as the prisoners have been coming in by the thousands and there are many dead lying around and any amount of machine guns and heavy guns of all sorts. The affair was kept very secret and we were moved around a lot and we never knew where we were going until we got there.

I was for six days and five nights that I only got about four hours sleep in the whole time. On the day before the scrap started my officer said to me "I want you to take thirty-five men at 10.30 tonight and meet me at—Go up in battle order, and I will give you instructions as to what to do." I smelt a rat and he told me a thing or two. He said "I guess we will get a rough trip this time." Anyhow off we goes at 10.30 p. m. and marched about eight miles and when I got to the place he mentioned I could not find him. We had passed all kinds of troops and tanks on the way up. I asked some fellows the name of the place and they told me and said don't go any further as you are nearly in the front line. After an hour or so I met the officer and we placed our men and he gave me full instructions as to what to do. Then we waited a while. Everything was as quiet as anything. Not a gun was firing except the rat tat-tat of a machine gun once in a while.

At 4.20 a. m. a gun fired a single shell, then a battery fired four more, and then all hell broke loose. I shall never forget it as long as I live. Fritz was taken by surprise and was sending up flares to his artillery for help and they were not long in responding. When the racket started we were about a hundred yards from Fritz's post and some how got mixed up in the communication trench with a battalion that was going over. We worked our way out but it was the hottest place I have been in as Fritz was putting his 5 9's and 9-2's and other souvenirs into our corner at a very rapid rate and the machine gun bullets were coming about a million a minute. I was saying to myself here's where little Willie goes West I never expected to get out of it, and I remember that through it all I was saying to-morrow is Amy's birthday I wonder will it be a happy one: You could not see 10 yards in front of you for smoke and dust. We had a few men wounded and my officer was killed outright by a piece of shell. I don't know how I missed it for I was with him. However after about an hour our fellows got most of their machine guns and then got to his field and heavy guns and things around our corner got quiet and since then Fritz has been going so fast that I am now about fifteen miles from the scrapping, but expect to move up to-morrow.

It was a grand sight to see our fellows going up the hills in open order just as steady as through on parade. The ground around here is very hilly. Well Dear that is enough about the war. We don't get any news but there are stories to the effect that Fritz is getting the greatest wallop of the war. Good luck to him. I hope they will throw up the sponge soon. I hope your Red Cross Drive was a great success as the funds are sorely needed. We have not had such a lot of casualties considering the magnitude of the success. The wounded are mostly slight cases and we are as happy as sand hogs. I guess we will all be home before Christmas as I have no doubt that this is the decisive battle and will help finish the war sooner.

Your loving husband.

WHY not give your lad the same training?

"When I was a growing lad, and came upon many words in my reading that I did not understand, my mother, instead of giving me the definition when I applied to her, uniformly sent me to the dictionary to learn it, and in this way I gradually learned many things besides the meaning of the individual word in question—among other things, how to use a dictionary, and the great pleasure and advantage there might be in the use of the dictionary. Afterwards, when I went to the village school, my chief diversion, after lessons were learned and before they were recited, was in turning over the pages of the 'Unabridged' of those days. Now the most modern Unabridged—the NEW INTERNATIONAL—gives me a pleasure of the same sort. So far as my knowledge extends, it is at present the best of the one-volume dictionaries, and quite sufficient for all ordinary uses. Even those who possess the splendid dictionaries in several volumes will yet find it a great convenience to have this, which is so compact, so full, and so trustworthy as to leave, in most cases, little to be desired."—Albert S. Cook, Ph.D., LL.D., Professor of the English Language and Literature, Yale Univ. April 25, 1911.
