There was a hardy fellow named Bronston who lived in a shack on a des-ert claim just at the edge of the Wyo-ming hunting groupds who had a repu-tation for being about as handy with his fists as the next comer. The hunting grounds, despite the presence of Bronston, became more pop-tlar year after year, until finally he had to be a little more select in his operathat your arty your, in the select in his opera-tions, as there were altogether too many visitors to allow him time to do the whole lot justice. He finally announced that in future he was going to whip no-body under the gank of colonel in mili-tary life and nobody who in civil life wasn't at least a mayor of a big town or a president of a railroad. By following this plan he succeeded in filling his time comfortably without overworking him-self. AN ANCIENT CHURCH.

AN ANCIENT CHURCH. A Boverly (Mass.) Structure Nearly Two Centuries Old. The remodeled Second church, that of the Congregational society, at North Beyerly, Mass., is 184 years old and is the first and only house of worship the society has ever had. The Second parish of Beverly is one of the old societies of the county. When incorporated by the general court in 1718, it was as the "precinct of Salem and Beverly." Ob-jection has been made on the part of certain Beverly People to the separation of the parish. The first meeting toward forming the society was held in November, 1718, and a committee supointed. At a later meeting the sum of £350 was raised to-ward building a meeting house. The house was built and finished and dedi-cated the following year. Originally it was 50 feet by 40. In 1771 a porch was added to the front end by Caleb Dodge at his own expense. In 1781 is steenle was built and a 100

1771 a porch was added to the front end by Caleb Dodge at his own expense. In 1751 a steeple was built and a 400 pound bell was purchased. Two years later Robert Hooper gave a bell to the church. The house was placed on its present site in 1837, when it was en-larged and thoroughly remodeled. When General Gage was stationed at Danvers and lived in the Collins house, at the time he sent his messenger down to Salem to terminate the sitting of the assembly because it was about to form a

An Actor's Speech.

An Actor's Speech. The oratorical and speechmaking habit on the part of some of the stage luminaries often leads to striking if not ridiculous results. De Wolf Hopper, decked ont as a Spanish soldier of the sixteenth century, in the act of reciting the performances of the immortal Casey is a case in point. Could anything more absurd be imagined than Francis Wil-son, in the costume of a vagabond, mak-ing a serious speech, assailing his ene-mies and hurling figures of speech at his detractors. To be called on for a speech wher robed in such habiliments-would be sufficient to disconcert any-body, including the actor. Jerome Sykes, when with the Bostonians, was called upon for a speech in Philadelphia Sykes, when with the Bostonians, was called upon for a speech in Philadelphia under peculiar circumstances. Dr. J. Curtis Webb, an eminent Eng-lish physician, recently lectured on this subject. The lecturer said that hysteria was a symptom of nerve exhaustion and was a state in which the ideas control-led the body and produced morbid changes in its functions. If allowed to go on uninterrupted, nervous exhaustion and breakdown followed. The seeds of this really terrible disease were in 99 cases out of 100 sown and watered dur-ing the period of education and training of girls at and after a critical period of life. Such cases were more frequent asince the introduction of the system of higher education of women, for the ad-vocates of this made the great mistake of assuming that there was no real dif-ference between 'girls and boys between garbed thus to have an audience set up a cry for a speech. Sykes squirmed, while McDonald said, "Go ahead, Jer while McDonald said, "Go anead, ser-ome; say something." Sykes ambled down to the footlights and said: "Ladies and gentlemen, Mr. McDonald, my compariot who sits up there, informed me just a minute ago that he had a neat little speech prepared that he'd like to have a chance to try on the andience. I hope you'll give him vocates of this made the great mistake of assuming that there was no real dif-ference between itils and boys between the ages of 14 and 21. He mentioned the frequent occurrence of cases of anema and breakdown among girls and attributed this to excessive mental work and the lack of healthy exercise. He advocated golf, oyoling, lawn ten-nis and other games as a preventive and corrective and insisted upon the neces-sity for regular indulgence in physical exercise. It was not work which hurt, but perseverance in work after nature had held out her danger signals in the shape of constant lassitude, loss of ap-petite and irregularity of functions. Nervous exhaustion sometimes courred as a result of excessive physical exer-cise, and among middle aged ladies as a result of worry. The remedy in the last-ter case was to live easier and according to rule. The complaint was also met with in young children and was in these cases generally due to the forcing of mental faculties or constant scolding and nagging.
