Theatrical

The second number of the Lyceum Course in the Hawthorne Musical club was given at the Grand last night to a fair audience. It was a very enjoyable entertainment, some of the numbers being specially good. Mr. Osgood as uncle Rauben in a violin sketch was very funny and had to respond to several encores. The descriptive numbers first of the county fair and the last A Trip to New York C.ty were fairly well rendered.

JIM'S CLUE

Three young lads about fourteen or fifteen years old became fascinated with Guy Bros. Minstrels, who were in the city yesterday, and made up their minds to go to see the famous show. In the evening they left their small change in their other clothes and didn't have the price, so in some way they gained admittance. Someone who saw them intimated the fact Chas. Hicklin, the strong man who for many seasons has held down the job of Ticket taker at the head of the second stairs. Charlie simmediately instituted a search, but the youngsiefs weren't to be found. At last, however, they tired of their secret hiding place and wondered what was doing in the outside world -and they found out.

They hadn't been in the room off the hallway but a few minutes until they were found by an usher, Max McCormick. Charlie Hicklin soon had the three of them by the collar and was taking them down stairs at fast rate. Manager Fred Brisco was summoned and told Charlie he had better lock them in the office down stairs, while he want and got a policeman. This was a cue for the boys and they all started for the stairs. Charlie caught two of them by their coats, but one of them got around the bannister and was hanging by that until half of it gave way and the boy was gone, not before, however, he had shared his coat with Mr. Hicklin. Charlie handed the piece of coat to Big James Clements, the gods policeman. Charlie said, "There's a clue, Jim, for you to

The Amenities of Politics

Mr. Balfour's remarks at Haddington on the good feeling really existing between members of the rival political parties in this country may ot altogether have been to the liking of the thoughtless, out and out party man in the provinces, who hugs the delusion that the rival leaders mean what they say in another's dispraise in Parliament. These do not understand that the leaders have often to do this sort of thing to keep honest dunderhead d supporters in good humor. Disraeli, when leading the House, used on principle to level a few sarcasms at the leaders opposite to keep up the heart of his followers. Good Conservatives and good Liberals, who take their party politics very seriously, were astounded to see the announcement that Mr. Chamberlain was spending a few days with Sir William Harcourt at Malwood in the week following the former's "Why you and Lord Rosebery weren't on talking terms with one another!" by way of retort to Sir William's banter about the rela-Lord Salisbury and Mr. Chamberlain. It is merely a part of the game. No; the real opponents do by no means necessarily sit opposite one another.-London Saturday Review.

AN ARAB'S PRAYER.

The Plea That Was Uttered by a Pile

grim to Mecca. A correspondent of the London Post who witnessed a pilgrimage to Mecca records the following prayer which he heard delivered there by an Arab pil-

"O Almighty God," he cried, "now I am sure you will not send me to hell! A place in paradise is surely reserved for me. You know I was not rich, being only a poor barber, but through my economy and perseverance I laid by some money. My first intention was to buy a wife with my savings; but, being, as you know, a sensible man, I thought it more advisable to make use of them to come to your house first of all to insure to myself a houri in paradise, and remember, O my Lord, that I want a palace as well. I do not want to be a shaver in the next world. We read in the traditions that those who hold high positions here will be miserable hereafter, whereas the wretched in this life will be rich in heaven. So I implore you, in the name of Mohammed, our prophet, who was created before this world was made and who will sit down on your right hand on the day of judgment and plead on behalf of his people, to listen to my requests. When I return home, I have nothing to live on. Therefore I want a comfortable living to begin with, and, since it may be long before I meet the houri you are reserving for me in paradise, I want to have a nice little wife now. You know the kind of woman I like. Nothing is hidden from you. I am not greedy, and so I shall not ask you for many. But, O Lord, may I ask you for two? For, as you kn)w full well, it is not in the nature of a man to be contented with one."

papers were never so filled with advertisements of remedies that wil lcure every known disease, as they are to-day; these are invariably accompanied by letters from people, testifying in the strongest terms to the virtue and merit of the particular preparation advertised; because so much is claimed for the medicine, it has come to the point where most people regard such testimonials as pure "fakes" and made up out of whole cloth.

We are glad however to vouch for the reliability of the following from Mr. Wm. Lichtenwalter, proprietor of the largest printing house in Canton, Ohio, regarding the Pyramid Pile Oure, for which nothing is claimed except that it will cure any and every form of Piles.

"For several months past I have received so many inquiries from sufferers asking if my testimonial is authentic, that I am inclined to send in a bill to you for postage and stationery.

It is now two years since I was last troubled, and my rectum is as clear and clean as any man who never had piles, although I suffered with protruding, bleeding and internal piles for twenty-seven years I will not attempt to detail the agony I suffered, being too happy to say I believe I am cured, after wo years of evidence.

What will cure one man will sometimes not cure another; whether it was the Pyramid Pile Cure that cur ed me, I cannot say; but I have been free from piles for two years after using your treatment. I leave sufferers to draw their own conclu-
