The Hansard At Westminster.

It looks as if the British House of Commons would shortly remodel its Hansard on the lines of the Canadian Parliament. The new labor members object to being reported in the third person, and as not much better can be done under the existing arrangements it is likely that a staff of stenographers will be engaged to sit on the floor of the House and take notes. The present galleries are overcrowded, and it is difficult to hear. It will be interesting in such an event to see what attitude is allowed in regard to revision of speeches by members, and whether the like Ottawa members, they will take back in cold blood what they uttered in the heat of debate.—Toronto News.

Nature's Way Is Best.

The function strengthening and tissue building of treating chronic, lingering and obstinate cases of disease as pursued by Dr. Pierce's is following after Nature's plan of restoring health. He uses natural remedies, that is, extracts from native medicinal roots, prepared by processes wrought out by the expenditure of much time and money, without the use of alcohol, and by skillful combination in just the right proportions.

The above native roots also have the strongest possible endorsement from the leading medical writers, of all the several of the diseases named above but also for indigestion, torpor of liver, or biliousness, obstinate constipation, kidney and bladder troubles and catarrh, no matter where located.

You don't have to take Dr. Pierce's say-so alone as to what he claims. The writings of the most eminent men in the medical profession, A. Reuben, by post, or letter, addressed to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for a little book of extracts from eminent medical authorities endorsing the ingredients of his medicine, will bring a little book free that is worthy of your attention if needing a good, safe, reliable remedy of known composition for the cure of almost any old chronic, or lingering malady.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two mild cathartics.

The most valuable book for both men and women is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A splendid 1008-page volume, with engravings and colored plates. A copy, paper-covered, will be sent to anyone sending a recent stamp, to pay the cost of mailing only, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y. Cloth-bound, 50 stamps.

Too Good For That Table.

John Williams is a Labor member of the British Parliament. Before entering politics he was ordained as a Congregational minister and still preaches. The other day he sat down at one of the dinner tables of the House of Commons usually reserved for members of the Ministry or Cabinet. "Are you a Minister?" asked the waiter. "Yes," was the reply. The waiter's face betokened incredulity, but he went away. Presently another waiter came. "What department are you a Minister in?" he asked. "The gospel department," answered Mr. Williams. "Oh," said the waiter, with a smile, "you are too good for that table, sir."

THE KING AS A GOLFER

The ancient game of golf has always been known as the royal game, and different Kings of England have played it in the past, and are tolerably certain to do so in the future. One of the most cherished trophies of the game, which is annually competed for by the members of the premier club—the Royal and Ancient of St. Andrews—is the King William IV. medal, and it is spoken of as a possibility that a future King, in Prince Edward, may aspire to win this prize, whose name it bears. At all events, he will probably become the temporary possessor of the Queen Adelaide medal, presented by the consort of the sovereign just mentioned, and which is formally held by the captain of the year. If he does he will only be following in the footsteps of the royal King, for it may be forgotten now that His Majesty was once actually the captain of the Royal and Ancient Club, and it is probably by this means that he has obtained an excellent case on record of such an exalted personage having been captain or patron of any club devoted to a mere game.

This was in 1883.

The fact is that young Prince Edward and Prince Albert of Wales have lately been practicing golf more than any other game, and they are said to be attaining such proficiency at it as is only to be obtained in youth, and which invariably leads to the playing of a fine game in after life. It is said that King Edward, by his advice and encouragement, is indirectly being put to the game at this early stage. "It is a magnificent game," said the King not long ago when on a certain link with a friend. "I only wish I had been set to it properly when I was younger, then I might have played and time has become too precious." These regrets on the part of His Majesty are just those of so many other golfers whose studies of the game have been to some extent neglected in their youth. But His Majesty did play the game when young, and is still a great enthusiast at everything connected with it. As a boy he was occasionally seen with a club in hand on the famous links at Musselburgh when he was suiting his studies at the royal high school in Edinburgh. It is said that the King used to hit a very good ball with his driver, and that he was a very accurate player on the putting greens.

His Majesty is a good judge of playing clubs, and in his time he has had several sets made to his own order and design. One of the last of these was made only three or four years ago by the famous North Berwick club-maker and professional, Bernard Stammers, who received a special commission for the purpose.

His Majesty is familiar with several courses, and particularly with some of those on the continent. He knows the Biarritz links well, and not long since, when at Marienbad, he took part in the opening ceremony of a new golf course there. But the links to which he is most attached are those of which he was himself the architect, these being situated in the grounds at Windsor, commencing on the East Terrace and extending for two miles. This course, lodged to the royal links, is a masterpiece of the King himself, the Prince of Wales and many other celebrated people have very frequently played. Mr. Balfour, when Prime Minister, often took his clubs with him when he went down to Windsor to play over this course.

INTERNATIONAL S. S. LESSON FOR TO-MORROW.

The Two Great Commandments—Mark 12, 28-31, 38-44.

Golden Text—"Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart."

For the third time in one day our Lord is tested by hard questions from Herodians, Pharisees and Sadducees; heartily hating each other, yet unitedly opposing Jesus of Nazareth. Though they were actuated by evil motives, we may be glad in that they called forth answers from Him which throw floods of light upon most precious truths otherwise obscured.

The central truth of the lesson is, that supreme and undivided love of God is the first and great commandment, and that love for our neighbor is measured by our love for ourselves. The questioner might have expected some outward rule, of ritual, ceremony, or sacrifice, but our Lord turns from outward expectations to inner affections. To get right with the Lord means get a new bottle; the new wine needs a new bottle; to fail here is to fail for ever. Love is the fulfilling of the law; love feast service afterward. Any affection we have that clashes with the love of God is sin. Our love for God can be greater than love for self, but love of our neighbor, Jesus says, is as we love ourselves, whence comes the golden rule. Love is not a mere emotion, but a supreme desire and willingness on our part to do everything possible to secure the welfare of another. No human brotherhood can accomplish this. When our Elder Brother, the Son of God, unites all who trust Him by His Holy Spirit, this is the real brotherhood of man.

Note the Judge of All, as He sizes up the long faces, long robes, long prayers, love of applause, the best part in the church, best seat at the feast, that show no mercy to the widow's household.

Verse 38—Jesus Christ to-day is watching our collections as He did then; mark what He calls a good collection—the poor widow's two mites came from her rich, mighty love, "for she of her want did cast in all that she had," while others only gave of their superfluity.

Our love of God and our fellow-men is measured by our self-denying sacrifices in service.

Friend, where does the mercury stand in thy thermometer? God gave us His Son!

SUFFERED FOR YEARS WITH A COMPLICATION OF PELVIC DISEASES.

Robust Women Who Owe Their Restored Health and Usefulness to Pe-ru-na.

Read the Letters of Gratitude From Women Who Have Been Benefited By Dr. Hartman's Advice.

A Multitude of Such Letters Are Received Every Year.

A TYPICAL LETTER.

Mrs. Carry Peduzzi, Linstad, N. Dak., writes:

"I take pleasure in telling you that through your wonderful medicine I am entirely cured of catarrh of the stomach and pelvic organs."

"I was so rundown on account of my illness that I could no longer attend to my housework. I could not eat or sleep and had terrible pain in my back. I took Peruna and in five months I was well. I have not felt so well for a long time."

"I wish everyone who is sick would take Peruna and thus recover their health. I have Peruna in the house continually. I thank you for all that you have done for me."

A Medicine of Merit.

Miss Katie A. Washer, 1706 Prentice street, Louisville, Ky., writes:

"As my experience has been so favorable from the use of Peruna, I unhesitatingly state that I believe that it is a medicine of unquestioned merit for all the ills that we women suffer from."

"I find that it strengthens and infuses new life into the system, and whenever I feel rundown or over-tired, a few doses of Peruna will strengthen me again."

Found a Friend in Need—Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. Florence Aitkens, 1104 Front St., Toledo, Ohio, writes:

"Peruna cured me of catarrh of the uterus. I took about four bottles when I noticed an improvement and five bottles cured me."

"I do not know what I would have been like to-day had I not obtained Peruna, for I was in a terrible state. I had pains all over and was cross and irritable. I was losing hope of ever being well again."

"I am to-day a well woman after suffering for nine months. I cannot tell you how happy I feel, but you will know."

"Peruna is the best medicine on earth. My husband is now taking it and I will always keep Peruna in my house. Peruna is the best friend I ever had. It cured me."

America is the Land of Nervous Women.

The majority of women are nervous because they suffer from some form of pelvic catarrh.

The greatest obstacle in the way of recovery is that they do not understand that catarrh is the main source of their illness.

Women who are in doubt as to their ailments should write to Dr. Hartman, President of The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio, who will give their letters prompt attention, without charge.

Miss Anna McGinn, 161 Plain street, Providence, R. I., writes:

"I wish to let you know of the good your medicine has done for me."

"I had what the doctors called heart trouble. I had been doctoring for a year before I tried your Peruna. I got a bottle of your Peruna and after a week's use of it I began to feel better. I could not eat, sleep, or work, but I have at last found that the medicine that will cure me is Peruna."
