THE PASSING SAINT.

As to-night you come your way, Bearing earthward heavenly joy, Tell me, O dear Saint, I pray, Did you see my little boy? By some fairer voice beguiled,

Once he wandered from my sight; He is such a little child, He should have my love this night. It has been so many a year,-Oh, so many a year since then !

Yet he was so very dear, Surely he will come again. If upon your way you see One whose beauty is divine, Will you send him back to me?

He is lost and he is mine. Tell him that his little chair Nestles where the sunbeams meet, That the shoes to used to wear Yearn to kiss his dimpled feet.

Tell him of each pretty toy That was wont to share his glee; Maybe that will bring my boy Back to them and back to me.

Through the glad and sparkling Bid those bells ring high and low For a little child that's lost! O dear Saint, that blessest men

With the grace of Christmas joy, Soothe this heart with love again Give me back my little boy ! -Eugene Field.

THE THREE KINGS.

(A tradition prevailed throughout the East that a child would be born in Judea who should become the King of the Jews, and was to be worshipped as divine. The visit of the three Kings to the oradle of Jesus was in response to the admonition of this tradition. The 6th of January is ago at the Shrine of Regina Propherent in commemoration.)
