RESIGNATION. BY HENRY W. LONGFELLOW.

poetry.

There is no flock, however watched and tended But one dead lamb is there ! There is no firenide, howsoe'er defended, But has one vacant chair !

The air is full of farewells to the dying, And mournings for the dead ; The heart of Rachel for her children crying Will not be comforted !

Let us be patient ! these severe afflictions Not from the ground arise. But ofteatimes celestial benedictions Assume the dark disguise.

Distances of

We see but dimly through the mists and vapor Amid those earthly damps What seem to us but dim, funeral tapers May be heaven's distant lamps.

There is no Death ! what seems so is transition This life of mortal breath Is but a suburb of the life elysian, Whose portal we call Death.

She is not dead-the child of our affection-

But gone unto that school, But gone unto that school, And Christ himself doth rule. Where

In that great cloister's stillness and seclusion By guardian angels led, Safe from temptation, safe from sin's pollution, She lives, whom we call dead.

Day after day we think what she is doing In those bright realms of air: Year after year her tender steps pursuing, Behold her grown more fair.

Thus do we walk with her, and keep unbroken The bond which nature gives, Thinking that our remembrance, tho' unspoke May reach her where she lives.

Not a child shall we again behold her ;

For when with rapture wild In our embraces we again enfold her, She will not be a child.

Bat a fair maiden in her Father's mansion, Clothed with celestial grace : And beautiful with all the soul's expansion Shall we behold her face.

And though at times, impetuous with emotion

Anguish long suppressed, The swelling heart heaves moaning like the ocean That cannot be at rest.

We will be patient ! and assuage the feeling We cannot wholly stay ; By silent sanctifying, not concealing The grief that must have way. —Sartain's Magazine.
