

Leaves for Ireland to Enter College

Ferryland is Proud of Mr. T. J. Devereaux.

Mr. T. J. Devereaux left to-day for St. John's where he will board the s.s. Siberian en route to Ireland. He will enter the Sacred College of All Hallows, Dublin, where he will begin his ecclesiastical studies. The boys of Ferryland were not aware that their young friend would be leaving so soon, as the fact was not made known to them till this morning, and having but a few hours at their disposal to be up and doing, the result was that when Mr. Devereaux met them in the T. A. Hall in the afternoon he was handed a cheque for one hundred dollars, also a purse of gold and the following address from the T. A. & B. Society, of which body he is a true member:—

Address to Mr. T. J. Devereaux.

Dear Sir.—We, the members of the T. A. & B. Society, take this opportunity of conveying to you our warm congratulations upon the sacred vocation you have chosen.

Judging from the exemplary traits of character which you have evinced since childhood, we predict for you a virtuous and honourable course through all your studies for the sacred ministry.

The Society has always recognized in you a true friend and most zealous member, and although the blue waters of the Atlantic shall divide us for many years, still we feel sure that the best interests of our Society will ever be dear to your heart, and we will look forward both with pleasure and pride to the day when you will return to us as the chosen minister of God.

Accompanying herewith is a small purse of gold which we ask you to accept as a more substantial proof of the high esteem in which you are held by the Society.

In conclusion we wish you a pleasant passage across to old Ireland, every success in all your studies, and a safe return to Ferryland's most worthy sod.

Signed on behalf of the Society,

J. M. Costello, President; J. L. Sullivan, Vice-Pres.; E. J. Johnston, Treas.; Wm. Barnwell, Asst. Treas.; Wm. J. Costello, Secretary.

Reply.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen: Mr. President and Members of the T. A. & B. Society.—Our meeting here this evening has, I assure you, come to me quite unexpectedly, and in rising to thank you, both for the kindness you have shown and the purse with which you have presented me, I can scarcely find words to express my gratitude or conceive ideas to portray my feelings for you who, needless to say, have by your actions this evening shown your generosity and loyalty of opinion for one who has never deserved anything from you.

Be assured, gentlemen, that the events of this evening will never fade from my memory. No words of mine can convey to you my heartfelt appreciation of your goodness. I shall always look back on this evening's events and regard them as those of the most memorable of my life, and as I stand here before you perhaps for the last time, but surely for the last time for a number of years, I can truthfully say that the memory of your friendship, kindness and generosity will never sway from my mind.

I will not delay, you gentlemen, but before leaving I ask you to pray for me, because I assure you that the road which lies open to me is not one of pleasure, but one which requires increasing prayer and perseverance.

I shall be always glad to hear from our Society and will ever pray for a continuation of its victories over the evils of intemperance, and I hope when, please God, I again return amongst you, I shall see the same smiling faces before me.

Thanking you, gentlemen, for your attention, and thanks one thousand times for your good will and generosity, and remember that wherever you go there will be at least one who will be ever interested in you.

I remain, sincerely yours,

T. J. DEVEREAUX.

The meeting then closed with hearty cheers for the success of the young student, who carries with him the good will and best wishes of all.

HIS REPRESENTATIVES.

A leading merchant was once asked how it was he had no representatives on the road. He replied:

"I have the best representatives in the world. They always tell the value of my goods in plain language. They always attend to business. They are always polite. They never miss an appointment, and they are at work early in the morning till the last thing at night. They take no holidays, and work the whole year round. MY REPRESENTATIVES ARE MY ADVERTISEMENTS and I know exactly where they are in every city and town, and know to a cent what they cost me."—Printers' Ink.

Wedding Bells at Bonne Bay.

LAING-CAINES.

The Church of the Good Shepherd at Bonne Bay was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday, August 18th, the contracting parties being Mr. Arthur Caines and Miss Mary Laing, daughter of Mr. Arch Laing. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. I. Parsons, and the church was filled with friends of the bride and bridegroom. The bridesmaids, numbering six, were Misses Lizzie Caines, Lizzie Harding, Dora Organ, Maud Kennedy, Kate Humber and Clara Humber, and they looked charming in dresses of silk muslin with large picture hats. The groom was supported by Messrs. Bryant Harding, Thomas Caines, Michael Ryan, John Samms, Walter Squires and John Tucker. Walter Squires also presided at the organ. Precisely at four o'clock the bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, McAndrew Laing, entered the church and met the groom at the chancel steps. She made a very beautiful picture in her gown of cream crepe de chene, with silk floral trimmings, and silk tucked net; a long bridal veil fell over a coronet of orange blossoms, and she carried an enormous bouquet of lilies of the valley, tied with white silk ribbon. At the conclusion of the ceremony the minister gave a short address to the bride and bridegroom, after which "How welcome was the call" was sung, and the bridal party retired to the vestry to sign the marriage register. Then, amidst showers of rice, they proceeded to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Caines where a reception was held, at which nearly two hundred guests attended, and the dancing was kept up till the wee sma' hours. The wedding presents were very numerous, testifying to the esteem in which they were held by their many friends. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Caines unalloyed happiness on the wedded sea of life. XENOS.

Passing Strange.

Editor Evening Telegram:

Dear Sir.—A paragraph appears in the "Daily News" giving us another example of how the average mortal delights to be "gulled"—as the old Roman philosophers tersely puts it: "The people wish to be deceived." The article is headed

"WARNED OF AN ICEBERG."

It goes on to tell how Dr. Grenfell's mission ship warned the C. G. S. Stanley by a Marconigram of the presence of a dangerous iceberg in the Straits of Belle Isle, "South by west eighteen miles from Point Amour!"

The first sensation of the ordinary reader is a burst of enthusiasm for the wondrous knowledge, observation, philanthropy, charity, etc., etc., of the noble minded missionaries who have so recently "discovered" Labrador! How few there are who will even think of questioning the truth, or even the probability of the statement! Yet a moment's thought ought to show how absurd it is.

In the first place, as a general rule, there are not one only but dozens of icebergs about the Straits at this time of the year, and all vessels keep a sharp look out for them. Any information by Marconigram would be absolutely useless. The Straits at this point are only twelve miles wide, and if an iceberg is there it will not require a Marconigram to find it out; especially as the tide is rushing in and out there at a rate of nearly twelve miles an hour, so that an iceberg located at a certain point by one slip will have moved some miles away before the next ship arrives.

But the humour of the whole thing lies in the fact that the precise spot so minutely and accurately located by the clever navigators of the "Strathcona," viz., "Eighteen miles south by west from Point Amour"—happens to be on the top of the Long Range mountains on the Petit Nord Peninsula of Newfoundland!

Will Bless Statue.

The handsome life-size marble statue of the Sacred Heart, which has been presented by Mr. James Bogan to adorn the facade of the Church of Our Lady of Good Counsel, Military Road, will be blessed by His Grace Archbishop Howley on Sunday next near the church. It will be placed on the pedestal erected for it in the front of the edifice next week. The work is being done by W. J. Ellis under the supervision of Mr. James Coady, and specially heavy tackle is being rigged up to get it in position.
