EDS OF CRIME.

The Tel ible Plague that Perdes the Cities.

Poverty and Vice in New rk and Brooklyn.

ic Discourse by Rev. Dr. De Witt Talmage.

New lork, April 12.—Dr. Talmage preached tlarge audiences to-day on "The Plague of Gime." He took for his text Exodus vi, 90: "All the waters that were in the rive wer turned to blood."

Among il the Egyptian plagues none could have been worse than this. The Nile is the wealth of Egypt. Its fish the food. Its waters irrigate gardens and fields. Its endition decides the prosperity or the doom of the empire. And now in the text that great river is incarnadined. It is a red gash across an empire. In poetic license we speak of wars which turn the rivers into blood. But my text is not a poetic license. It was a fact, a great vimson, appalling condition described. The Nile rolling deep of blood. The modern plague which nearest corresponds with that is the plague of crime in all our cities. Its halts not for bloodshed. It shrinks from no carnage. It bruises, and cuts, and strikes down, and destroys. It revels in the blood of body and soul, this plague of crime rampant for ages, and never bolder or more rampant than now. The annual police reports of these cities as I examine them are to me more suggestive than Dante's Inferno, and all Christian people, as well as reformers, need to waken to a present and tremendous duty.

First come the public criminals. You duty.

First come the public criminals. You ought not to be surprised that these people make up a large portion in many communities. The vast majority of the criminals who take ship from Europe come into our own port. In 1869 of the 49,000 people who were incarcerated in the prisons of the country 32,000 were of foreign birth. Many of them were the very desperadoes of society, oozing into the slums of our cities, waiting for an epportunity to riot and steal the debauch, joining the large gang of American thugs and cut-throats. It is their business to committerime; no thought of the immortality strikes them.

things and cut-throats. It is their business to commit crime; no thought of the immortality strikes them.

Added to these professional criminals there is a large class of men who are more or less industrious in crime. In one year the police in this cluster of cities arrested 10,000 people for theft, and 10,000 for intoxication. Drunkenness is responsible for much of the theft, since it confuses a man's idea of property, and he gets his hands on things that do not belong to him. Ten million dollars worth of property stolen in this cluster of cities in one year?

You cannot, as good citizens, be independent of that fact. You might as well think to stand in a closely confined room where there are 50 people and yet not breather the vitiated air as to stand in a community where there is such a great multitude of the depraved without being somewhat contaminated.

We are all ready to arraign criminals. With great gusto we put on the handcuffs and the hopples; but what preparation are we making for the day when the handcuffs and the hopples one off? Society seems to say to these criminals, "Villain, go in there and rot," when it ought to say, "You are an offender against the law, but we mean to help you. Here are Bibles and tracts and Christian influences. Christ died for you. Look, and live." Vast improvements have been made by introducing in dustries into the prison; but we want something more than sermons on the Sabbath day. Society must impress these men with the fact that it does not enjoy their suffering, and that it is attempting to reform and elevate them. Many of the people who go to prison go again and again and again. In some of the city while, and in a logic of word and content and the lates to reclaim these people. We want more than sermons where, as the air is like that of the Black Hole of Calcutta. I have visited prison where, as the air swept through the wicket, it almost knocked me down. No sunlight. Young men who had committed their first crime crowded in smong old offenders. I saw in look of vagrane some things that belonged to them some wasted and have been made by introducing industries into the prison; but we want something more than hammers and shoe lasts to reclaim these people. We want more than sermons on the Sabbath day. Society must impress these men with the fact that it does not enjoy their suffering, and that it is attempting to reform and elevate them. Many of the people who go to prison go again and again. In some of the city prisons the air is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from beair is like that of the Black Hole of Caling that would have given them a roof, some jewel which, brought to that orphan gir in time, might have kept her from bear them of him who "came to seek and afficied." The object in pursuing this course is to become rapidly and affilicted. The doctor treat

In there with her child amid the most abandoned wretches of the town. Many of the offenders in that prison sleeping on the floor, with nothing but a vermin-covered blanket over them. Those people crowded and wan and wasted and half suffocated and inturiated. I said to the men. "How do you stand it here?" "God knows," said one man, "we have to stand it." Oh, they will pay you when they get out. We want men like John Howard and Sir William Blackstone, and women like Elizabeth Fry, to do for the prisons of the United States what those people did in other days for the prisons of England. Again, in your eflort to arrest this plague of crime you need to well consider untrustworthy officials. "Woe unto thee, O land, when thy king is a child and thy princes drink in the morning." It is a great calamity to a city when bad men get into public authority. Why was it that in New York there was such unparalleled crime between 1866 and 1871? It was because the judges of police in that city, at that time, for the most part, were as corrupt as the vagabonds that came before them for itself. Those were the days of high saving and cold, working night after night, until sometimes the blood spurts from nostril and lips.

I have preached this sermon because I want you to know who are the uprotting in and lips.

I have preached this sermon because I want you to know who are the uprotting in your charities. Because I want you to he made they unto a dispuse of lips, and your hands open with charity. Because I want you to be more discriminating in your hards open with generosity and your hands open with charity. Because I want you to be made the sworn friends of all eity evangel. Evangers it want you to be more discriminating in your charities. Because I want you to be made the sworn friends of all eity evangel. Evangers it want you to be made the sworn friends of all eity evangel. Evangers it want you to be made the sworn friends of all eity evangel. Evangers it want you to be made the sworn friends of the ity and all children's aid so between 1866 and 1871? It was because the judges of police in that city, at that time, for the most part, were as corrupt as the vagabonds that came before them for trial. Those were the days of high carnival for election frauds, assassination and forgery. We had all kinds of rings. There was one man during those years that got $128,000 in one year for serving the public. In a 55 years it was estimated that there were $35,000,000 of public treasure squandered. In those times the criminal had only to wink at the judge, or his lawyer would wink for him, as the question was decided for the defendant. Of the 8,000 people arrested in that city in one year, only 3,000 were punished. These little matters were "fixed up," while the interests of society were "fixed down."

You know as well as I do that one villain were "fixed down."

You know as well as I do that one villain Were "fixed down."

You know as well as I do that one villain who escapes only opens the door for other criminalities. It is no compliment to public authority when we have in all the cities of the country, walking abroad, men and women notorious for criminality, unwhipped of justice. There you find what are called the "fence," the men who stand between the thief and the honest man, sheltering the thief, and at a great price handing over the goods to the owner to whom they belong. There you will find those who are alled the "skinners," the men who hover around Wall street, with great sleight-of-and in bonds and stocks. There you find the confidence men," who borrow money of you because they have a dead child in he house and want to bury it, when the never have a house or a family, or they wut to go to England and get a large proarty there, and they will send you the money back by the very next mail. There are the "harbor thieves," the "snoplifters," the "pickpockets," famous all over the cities. Hundreds of them with their faces in the "Rogues' Gallery," yet doing nothing for the last five or ten years but defraud society and escape justice. When these people go unarrested and unpunished, it is putting a high premium upon vice, and saying to the young criminals of this country, "What a safe thing it is to be a great criminal."

try, "What a safe thing it is to be a great criminal."

The police stations of this cluster of cities furnish annually between 200,000 and 300,000 lodgings. For the most part, these 200,000 and 300,000 lodgings are furnished to able-bodied men and women. When they are received no longer at one police station, because they are "repeaters," they go to some other station, and so they keep moving around. They get their food at house doors, stealing what they can lay their hands on in the front basement while the servant is spreading butter on the bread in the back basement. They will not work. I like for that class of people the scant bill of fare that Paul wrote out for the Thessalonian loafers. "If any work not, neither should he eat."

Again, among the uprocting classes I lonian loafers—"If any work not, neither should he eat."

Again, among the uprooting classes I place the oppressed poor. Poverty to a certain extent is chastening, but after that, when it drives a man to the wall, and he hears his children cry in vain for bread, it sometimes makes him desperate. I think that there are thousands of honest men lacerated into vagabondism. There are men crushed under burdens for which they are not half paid. While there is no excuse for criminality, even in oppression, I state it as a simple fact, that much of the scoundrelism of the community is consequent upon ill-treatment. There is a vast underground New York and Brooklyn lite that is appalling and shameful. It wallows and steams with putrefaction. You go down the stairs, which are wet and decayed with filth, and at the bottom you find the poor victims on the floor, cold, sick, three-fourths dead, slinking into a darker corner under the gleam of the lantern of the police. There has not been a breath of fresh air in that room for five years, literally. The broken sewer empties it contents upon them, and they lie at night in the swimming fith. There they are—men, women, children; blacks, whites; Mary Magdalen, without her repentance, and Lazarus, without his God. There are "dives" into which the pickpockets and the thieves go, as well as a great many who would like a different life, but cannot thieves on a well as a great many who would like a different life, but cannot get it. These places are the sores of the city, which bleed perpetual corruption. There are the underlying volcanothat threatens us with a Caraccas earthouse.
