

7TH FIELD CO. C. E.
7TH DETACHED GUARD.
CANADIAN DENTAL CORPS.
A. S. C. DETAILS.
NO. 1 A. M. C. DEPOT.
PERMANENT CORPS.
HEADQUARTERS STAFF.
C. O. C.
OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS.
NO. 10 HOSPITAL.
BAYONET SCHOOL.
NO. 1 POSTAL CORPS.

MILITARY NEWS = AN GOSSIP =

OF CORPS, UNITS AND BATTALIONS OF NO. 1 MILITARY DISTRICT AND OF LONDON'S MOBILIZATION CAMPS AT CARLING HEIGHTS, ADJACENT TER- RITORY AND COVE RANGES.

91ST BATTALION.
110TH BATTALION
111TH BATTALION
118TH BATTALION
135TH BATTALION
142ND BATTALION.
149TH BATTALION.
153RD BATTALION
160TH BATTALION
161ST BATTALION
168TH BATTALION
186TH BATTALION
241ST BATTALION

BAYONET FIGHTS AND PHYSICAL EXERCISES DELIGHTED BIG CROWD

Men From Training Class Are Agile and Skillful.

BRISK SPARRING BOUTS

Fine Program at Queen's Park
Concluded by Patriotic
Tableaux.

A large crowd witnessed the exhibition of bayonet fighting and physical training being held at the barracks. The exhibition was one of the most of its kind ever witnessed in this city, and was greatly enjoyed by the crowd who turned out to see.

The exhibition opened with a drill in physical exercises, which was followed by three brisk sparring bouts, which were keenly enjoyed by the audience. The exhibition of bayonet fighting was the feature of the evening, and was enthusiastically received.

The program was concluded by a number of patriotic tableaux. All through the evening, despite the efforts of three sergeants to keep the crowd silent, enthusiastic applause broke out at the conclusion of every new evolution of the class.

The bands of the 112nd and 118th Battalions provided the music for the evening.

UNITS IN CAMP WANT PERMANENT KITCHENS

Agitation Started for Improved Cooking
Facilities of Overseas Men.

The engineers will erect a frame kitchen for the use of the A. M. C. at the rear of the 11st Battalion. It will be fitted with gas ovens, and will measure about 50 feet by 15 feet, affording ample space, and vastly improved facilities for the preparation of food for the patients.

An agitation has been started to provide permanent kitchens with gas ovens for all units in camp. At present a number of battalions are doing their cooking on an inadequate number of stoves, it being impossible to obtain more from the manufacturers. It is felt that permanent kitchens with gas connections would settle definitely all stove troubles, besides affording improved facilities for the preparation of the men's needs.

ADDITIONAL COMFORTS FOR MEMBERS OF 110TH

Oil Heaters and Tent Floors Being Provided by Organizations.

The men of the 110th Battalion will soon be provided with wooden floors and heaters in all tents. The lumber has been ordered for the floors, and it is expected that the men will do the work of converting it into floors themselves during off time. Over 300 heaters have also been ordered. The expense will be met with out of regimental funds.

After the men have been provided for it is thought that additional comforts will be purchased for the use of the officers.

Most of the money for these expenditures have been provided by the various women's organizations of the district.

ORDINATION SERVICE AT ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL

Number of Huron College Graduates
Advancing to Deacons.

Rev. R. J. M. Perkins, rector of Ingersoll, will be the preacher at the ordination service to be held at St. Paul's Cathedral, Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. When the following graduates of Huron College will be raised to the order of deacons: Harold Payne, B. A., E. A., London; John Nixon Hamilton Mills, B. A., Orangeville; John Harrington Whalen, Princeton; John Richard Lee, London; Edward Howard Stevenson, Hamilton.

Six young men who have been in charge of parishes for the past year will be raised to the order of the priesthood as follows: Rev. Reginald Ernest Charles, B. A., St. David's, London; Rev. Henry Blackford Metcalfe, B. A., Courtwright; Rev. William P. McMillan, Middleton; Rev. William Ashe-Evers, Theford; Rev. James Cottam, Muncey; Rev. Walter Jones, Walter's Falls.

The members of the ordination class, both for the order of deacon and priest, have been examined during the past week by Rev. Canon Howard, Chatham, and Rev. Dr. G. B. Sage, St. George's Church, West London.

HOOPER SEES BISSING.

Berlin, June 8.—Via London, June 10.—Alexander J. Hemphill of New York, treasurer of the commission for relief in Belgium, who is here with H. C. Hoover, chairman of the commission, had an interview with Governor-General Von Bissing preliminary to the trip through Belgium and Northern France to inspect the work of the commission. Von Bissing expressed himself as being pleased with the work of the commission and offered every assistance and facility. Mr. Hemphill and Hoover will leave Berlin Saturday morning.

B.S.M. of 110th Veteran Soldier of Many Wars

Fought in Northwest and With
Kitchener at Khartoum—
Son Killed at Givenchy.

Battalion Sergeant-Major John MacDonald of the 110th Overseas Battalion is a veteran of more than one campaign. As one of the 2nd Battalion of the Highland Light Infantry (Happy Little Infantry) he served with Wolseley on the Northwest Indian frontier and under Kitchener in Egypt.

When his days of soldiering appeared to be over he came to Canada and settled in Stratford.

When the present war broke out he was keen to get back in the ranks but his son demanded the privilege of representing the family at the front, and the father gave his consent.

His son, enlisting as a private, was attached to the 1st Battalion, and after the battle of St. Julien was made a lieutenant for bravery on the field. Unfortunately he did not live long to enjoy his well-earned promotion. He was killed at Givenchy.

When his father heard the news his mind was made up. He would take his son's place in the fighting line. He enlisted with the 110th Battalion. Recognizing his value as an experienced soldier, Lieut.-Col. Delamere made him battalion sergeant-major. Officers claim they will never have cause to regret the choice.

HERE AND THERE ABOUT THE CAMPS

NO LONGER EFFECTIVE.
The temporary appointment of Lieut. W. E. Craik, A. M. C., as medical officer of the 186th Battalion ceases to be effective from May 28.

OFFICIALLY APPOINTED.
The appointment of Capt. F. L. Neeley, A. M. C., as medical officer of the 112nd Battalion is approved in today's orders.

MADE SIGNALLING OFFICER.
Lieut. John Gaskin, Doherty has been appointed signalling officer of the 142nd Battalion.

MADE MAJOR.
Capt. A. Lockhart, 118th Battalion, has been promoted to be major.

CEASES ON JUNE 9.
The appointment of Capt. W. S. Dakin as temporary medical officer of the 111th Battalion ceases to be effective from June 9.

ARRIVAL OF 160TH IS ONCE MORE DELAYED

Seeding Operations Keeping Bruce Battalion From Camp Now.

The arrival of the 160th (Bruce) Battalion, of which Lieut.-Col. Weir is O. C., has been postponed. The unit was expected in camp on Monday, but it is not thought that it will reach London much before the 20th inst.

Seeding operations in the northern county have been greatly delayed by the continued wet weather, and as a great many of the men of the 160th are absent on seeding, it is probable that the battalion was not able to mobilize with the other units of the district.

BATTERIES ARRIVE HERE FROM GUELPH TODAY

63rd and 64th Under Canvas at Richmond North Camp.

The 63rd and 64th Depot Batteries under command of Major Kenneth Cameron and Major Walker respectively arrived in the city at 10:15 this morning from Guelph.

They detrained at the Richmond street station of the C. E. R., and marched to camps at the north end of Richmond street, by the river. The camps were placed in readiness a few days ago by advance parties.

Only a few people witnessed the arrival of the batteries, but those who saw them remarked on the clean and soldierly appearance of both units.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES

Wounded—Lieut. William Harry Basil Bevan, Niagara Falls, Ont.; No. 3185 Corp. Bliss W. Ryan, Calgary.

Died—No. 30024 Gunner George Sulzer, Bothwell, Ottawa.

Missing—Lieut. Harold Statton Matthews, Peterboro, Ont.

Wounded—No. 40139 Gunner Joseph Banville, Belleville, Ont.

Army Services.
Wounded—Nos. 458119 Pte. Cyril William Morgan, Lucky Lake, Sask.; 805 Driver Sydney James Black, kin at 42 Ellis avenue, Swansea, Toronto; 4111 Pte. Harry Shields, kin at 107 Metcalfe street, Montreal.

Wounded—No. 888 Lance-Corp. Wilbert Watford McNish, Rosetown, Sask.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wood of Queen's avenue, announced the engagement of their only daughter, Florence, to Dr. R. G. Doupe of Upsala, Minn. The marriage to take place the last of June.

SMALLPOX ABOARD.

New York, June 10.—A case of smallpox in the crew of the Spanish liner Montserrat, which arrived here today from Barcelona, necessitated the vaccination at Quarantine of all the passengers and the crew, and the disinfection of the ship. The smallpox patient was removed to Swinburne Island.

LONDON OFFICER BELIEVED WOUNDED IN YPRES FIGHTING

Lieut. Eric H. Zeigler.

Thousands of the citizens of London witnessed the march of approximately 9,000 soldiers of the big military camp here yesterday afternoon. Twice postponed on account of rain, weather conditions yesterday proved favorable for what is described as the greatest military spectacle in London's history.

Headed by the headquarters staff officers, including Col. L. W. Shannon, D. O. C., Col. Sir Adam Gordon Graham, G. S. O., Lieut.-Col. Coburn and Major Gordon Ingram, the parade started from the Oxford street entrance of Carling Camp at 2 o'clock sharp.

Following the staff officers came the 110th Battalion, senior unit of the camp. The 111th Battalion at the last minute decided not to parade as it is duty battalion this week, and most of the men are employed on fatigue, guard and picket duties.

The 118th and 135th from Carling Camp followed the 110th, and the other units from the different camps fell in behind in order of their numbers, the 142nd behind the 135th, and 149th, 153rd, 161st, 168th and 186th, following in succession. No. 1 Ambulance Training Depot, A.M.C., and the No. 10 Stationary Hospital (Western University unit), brought up the rear.

The route followed was down Oxford to Talbot, down Talbot to Dundas, to Ridout, to King, to Wellington to Queen's avenue to Adelaide street. There the battalions dispersed to their various camps.

A March Past.
At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

MILITARY PARADE OF 9,000 MEN WAS FINEST EVER HELD

Streets Were Thronged With Enthusiastic Citizens.

TROOPS MARCH PAST

Overseas Men on First March-
Out Made a Splendid Impression.

Thousands of the citizens of London witnessed the march of approximately 9,000 soldiers of the big military camp here yesterday afternoon. Twice postponed on account of rain, weather conditions yesterday proved favorable for what is described as the greatest military spectacle in London's history.

Headed by the headquarters staff officers, including Col. L. W. Shannon, D. O. C., Col. Sir Adam Gordon Graham, G. S. O., Lieut.-Col. Coburn and Major Gordon Ingram, the parade started from the Oxford street entrance of Carling Camp at 2 o'clock sharp.

Following the staff officers came the 110th Battalion, senior unit of the camp. The 111th Battalion at the last minute decided not to parade as it is duty battalion this week, and most of the men are employed on fatigue, guard and picket duties.

The 118th and 135th from Carling Camp followed the 110th, and the other units from the different camps fell in behind in order of their numbers, the 142nd behind the 135th, and 149th, 153rd, 161st, 168th and 186th, following in succession. No. 1 Ambulance Training Depot, A.M.C., and the No. 10 Stationary Hospital (Western University unit), brought up the rear.

The route followed was down Oxford to Talbot, down Talbot to Dundas, to Ridout, to King, to Wellington to Queen's avenue to Adelaide street. There the battalions dispersed to their various camps.

A March Past.
At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

At Waterloo, where Queen's avenue a march past was held, Col. L. W. Shannon taking the salute.

The marching of the men was characterized as splendid. Old soldiers were enthusiastic. The units maintained their proper distance from each other, and there was little crowding in the temporary huts. The performance was considered good in a body of what are practically raw troops in line for the first time.

While many people appeared to have their favorite battalions, it would be very difficult to single out any particular unit for special mention. The march was hard and fast, and there are many splendid specimens of manhood in every unit on the march.

We Are Ready With New Home Furnishing Ideas

To the June bride and others who are going into a new home—we are in a position to take care of your window shade, curtain or drapery needs; a splendid