Mr. Walcott of New York, devoured his twenty-ninth brace of quail on Sinda. last in the presence of Mace, 'oburn and Siade, who, by this way, has taken to parting his hair in the middle, and others of the sporting fraternity. He thrust his fork into the first bird at precisely 4 o'clock and 21 minutes, and had finished to before the lingering hand of the clock had traveled four minutes and a half. The spectators applauded, and Mace said it was one of the quickest rounds he had seen in thirty five years. After trying with the second quail rix minutes and a half, to the great satisfaction of the crowd, Mr. Walcott showed that 1 is appetite was still good by attacking the green peas and canned co.n. after which he gallantly knocked out the dessert.
