Benjamin Franklin and the Grindstone. "When I was a boy," writes Franklin, "I remember one cold winter's morning I was accosted by a smiling man with an axe on his shoulder. 'My pretty boy,' said he, 'has your father a grind-stone?' 'Yes, sir,' said I. 'You are a fine little fellow,' said he, 'will you let me grind my axe on it?' Pleased with his compliment of 'fine little fellow,' I answered, 'Oh yes, sir, it is down in the shop.' 'And will you, my little man,' said he, patting me on the head, 'get me a little hot water?' How could I refuse? I ran and soon brought a kettleful. 'How old are you, and what's your name?' continued he, without waiting for a reply; 'I am sure you are one of the finest lads I have ever seen! Will you turn a few minutes for me?' Tickled with the flattery, like a fool I went to work; and bitterly did I rue the day. It was a new axe, and I toiled and tugged until I was almost tired to death. The school bell rang-I could not get away—my hands were blistered, and it was not half ground. At length the axe was ground, and the man turned to me with. Now you little rascal, you've played the truant; cut to school, or you'll rue it.' Alas! I thought it hard enough to turn the grindstone this cold day, but to be called a little rascal too much. It sank deep in my aind, and often have I thought of it When I see a merchant overpolite with his customers, throwing his goods on the counter, I think within myself, the man has an axe to grind. When I see a man flattering the people, making great professions of attachment to therty, who is in private life a tyrant, methinks: Look out, good people, that fellow will set you turning

The following is the substance of a conversation with an "old trader" bebetween Queensland and some of the Polynesian groups: There might be some forty schooners go out on an average in the course of the year to some part or other of the South Seas. Money is not yet understood by most of the islanders, though they are beginning to take particular notice of it. What they generally get is tobacco, pipes, calico, American axes, knives, &c. Sometimes too, I fancy the "boys" we get are sold to us by others who have captured them, and are glad to get something for them. In a few instances we pick up people who are running away from enemies. this is not common, but I remember one case. Two boats were lying off an island in the usual way, the first close by the beach with the "cover" boat a little way behind it, when a beautiful young woman plunged off a point of rock into thg.surf, and, after, diving under the heavy breakers, reached the smooth water and soon had hold of the gunof the finest specimens of the human race I have ever seen; her features small and exceedingly regular, her eyes almost black, with long lashes, and had beautiful hands and feet. While sitting in the stern sheets of the boat, which was fast distancing the shore, she was casting anxious looks back to the spot from which she had The Wicked Bible. This extraordinary back to the spot from which she had leaped, and of a sudden her beautiful eyes brightened up, and there was a smile that had some sort of devilment in it playing over her face, caused by her having caught sight of her pursuers, three in number, with box and arrow in hand. The foremost of hem went down owing to the zeal of Dr. Usher the on his right knee, and the girl motioned the men to look out, and before he could take his aim the boat's sail was run half of the king's letter directing that the way up the mast, and was a protection for all in the boat. Sun'it Rooms. No article of furniture should be put a room that will not stand sunlight, or every room in the dwelling should have the windows so arranged that sometime during the day a flood of sun-light will force itself into the apart-ment. The importance of admitting the light of the sun freely to all parts of our dwellings cannot be too highly estimated. Indeed perfect health is nearly as much dependent on pure sunlight as it is on pure air. Sunlight should never be excluded except when so bright as to be uncomfortable to the girl, isn't she?"
"Yes, and she'd be the belle of the town if it wasn't for one thing."
"What's that?" "She has catarrh so bad it is unpleasant to be near her. She has tried a dozen things and nothing helps her. I am sorry, for I like her, but that dozen't make it any less disagreeable for one to be around her." And walks should be in bright sunlight, so that the eyes are protected by a veil or parasol when the light is too

A sun-bath is of more importance in preserving a healthful condition of body than is generally understood. A sunbath costs nothing, and that is a mis-fortune, for people are deluded with the idea that those things can only be good or useful which cost money. But re-member that pure water, fresh air and sunlit homes, kept free from dampness will secure you from many heavy bills of the doctors and give you health and vigor which no money can procure. It is now a well established fact that the people who live much in the sun are isually stronger and more healthy than those whose occupation deprives them of sunlight. And certainly there is nothing strange in the result, since the law applies with equal force to every animate thing in nature. It is quite easy to arrange an isolated dwelling s that every room may be flooded with sunlight some time in the day, and it is possible that many town houses can be so built as to admit, more light than
