

Origin of Words.

The origin of a large number of words is given below as far as I have been able to learn them. The second column gives the origin of those found by Gibbs:

	Felts.	Gibbs.
English .....	570	67
Chinook .....	198	200
French .....	147	90
Chehalis .....	64	32
Nootka .....	23	24
Nisqually .....	13	7
Onoma .....	12	6
Clatsop .....	10
Twana .....	6
Canadian French .....	6	4
Wasco .....	5	4
Nittinat .....	5
Clallam .....	4
Yakima .....	4	1
Kalapuya .....	3	4
Nez Percé .....	2
Klikitat .....	2	1
Clyoquot .....	2
Snohomish .....	2
Bellabella .....	1
Makah .....	1
Tillamook .....	1
Chippeway .....	1
	1,082

This leaves the origin of 320 unaccounted for, or rather something over that number, as occasionally a single word in Chinook jargon is referred to two or more different languages for its origin.

Spelling.

The spelling of the words is a curiosity. The earliest writer who published a dictionary for popular use (Lionnet, in 1853), instead of following the phonetic method, the only one suitable for Indian languages, tried to follow the English method; in other words, no method at all. Gibbs, Gill, and Hibben have
