circumstances of the peculiar positio of the political parties to-day at Ottawa, it is highly improper and exceedingly unwise for a man of serious judgment, to spring such a resolution upon the House. There are other ways of gaining a name, and same bought at the risk of a country's cause is short-lived.

No resolution passed to-day at Ottawa could add one iota to the influence of the resolutions of former years; but, if defeated, or even passed with a slim the abundance which a kind Providence the good that has been done. Moreover, it is not resolutions that Ireland's Home Rule Party requires; it is money for the coming elections. And even were the money in hand, to whom would we send it? The fact of Lord Salisbury's Primerose League speech being so clearly the announcement of an Anti-Irish programme, added to the attitude of the since you will have aided him in gather-Ulstermen, all combined with the certainty of a general election this summer, will, we are confident, cause the different who proclaim to all nations the sweet sections of the Parliamentary party to unite, to sink all individual feelings, likes or dislikes, in the general cause. Then, as far as means are concerned, we will know exactly with whom we are dealing; then it will require action not mere resolution, tangible assistance not merely speeches and expressions of sympathy.

For these, and many other reasons, we believe the member for Ottawa County, has made a grave mistake, has allowed his patriotic zeal to overcome his calm judgment, and we trust he will be wise enough not to persevere in his undertaking.

We repeat, the resolution was uncalled for, untimely, and eminently menacing to the cause, which, next to that of his Faith, an Irishman should hold most sacred and inviolate.

JUNIORATES

Or Institutions for the Education of Young Missionaries, Founded and Conducted by the Oblate Fathers of Mary Immaculate.

On every side the cry arises: "We want missionaries. Send laborers into the Lord's vineyard. The harvest, indeed the Lord's vineyard. The harvest, indeed $100.00. Those who would contribute is great, but the laborers are few. Messis such an amount would leave after them quidem multa operarii autem pauci."

northern snows as well as under the tropical suns. The first words, that fall of contributing a half, or even a smaller from the lips of the missionaries, when portion of such a scholarship. in behalf of their beloved missions, they appeal to Christian generosity, are those of the Gospel; "The harvest, indeed, is great, but the laborers are few."

portion of such a scholarship.

2nd. By adopting a young man. To do this, it is simply required to pay his yearly tuition of $100.00 until he has completed his studies.

This appeal has found an echo in our hearts, and we feel confident of being enabled to respond, But even were it in our power, it is not our desire, nevertheless, to reap single-handed the glory which awaits those who contribute to the saving of souls and to the extending of God's Kingdom on earth. We are desirons of associating generous souls with our entreprise, nor can we succeed without their concurrence. All do not feel themselves called upon to make the heroic sacrilices consequent on the Apostolic vocation; all cannot go forth and, by their own ministry, revive the smouthering embers of faith in the souls of the lax and lukewarm, or penetrate into inhospitable regions to announce to "the children of the forest" the "joyful tidings" of the Gospel;—this is the blessed portion of the few; and yet, many or those who feel themselves called to deport on the lives and energies to such a sublime mission, find themselves at a loss to do so, owing to the absence of the necessary material means. We have however, discovered a means by which heroic sacrifices consequent on the Apostolic vocation; all cannot go forth tidings" of the Gospel ;-this is the blesloss to do so, owing to the absence of the necessary material means. We have, however, discovered a means by which apostolic vocations may be protected and encouraged,-a means which will enable a large number of fervent souls to participate in the merits and rewad of these apostles. Our plan is to facilitate the satisfying of the pious aspirations entertained by such of our Catholic youth as are desirous of God's glory and the salvation of souls.

We have already opened, in Ottawa, an institution where a certain number of young men, removed from the baneful influences of the world, are brought up under the protecting shadow of the Altar and where they may apply themselves to the acquisition of that virtue and knowledge required by the sublime func-tions which they will be, one day, called upon to exercise.

How many others are there not, who, hearing the call of the Divine Master and wishing generously to respond to it, apply to us for admission to our institution. Unfortunately, the financial means at our disposal are in sufficient, and to our deep regret, we are often forced to turn away many of these young "heroes of the Cross."

If we find not the means requisite for our undertaking, these promissing vocations, subjected to such a trial in their very bud, will fail to frauctify, and those poor souls whose evangelization depends upon their maturing, will suffer an irreparable loss.

What a charitable work you would accomplish by aiding these youthful aspirants in their magninimous projects How many souls, redeemed at the price of a God's blood, would you not open the gates of heaven to, through the ministry of those zealous priests whom your liberal contributions would enable to carry on the work of their apostolate? our What treasures of grace would you not and obtain through the intercession of those apostles who, in your name, and thanks to your generosity, had consecrated themselves to the service of God; through the mediation of those souls that would be saved by your co-operation, and who, in heaven, would form the brighest gem in your diadem of glory? Form some idea, if you can, of the merits of a Christian who would have aided a St. Francis Xavier in his apostolic labors—him, whose hand poured the "waters of duit Company, of New York, says the baptism" upon no fewer than a million reason of the establishment of a Canadian beauty of the start of the s souls; or a St. Parrick, who converted a ian branch at Hamilton, was the tariff. whole ination to Christianity! Consider This is another point for the N. P.

the eternal gratitude that these souls will entertain for their benefactors and the reward which God reserves for those who labor for His greater glory; and then, you will have, perhaps, a faint conception of the good you can do by promoting the interest of our undertaking and of the happiness which will await you in Heaven as the reward of your benevolent deeds. We know of no work so meritorious majority, it could certainly nullify all has been pleased to place at your diswords of the Gospel.

We entertain, therefore, bright hopes for the success of our institution. We daily repeat: "Give us this day our daily bread," and the Heavenly Father, who feeds the birds of the air and clothes the lilies of the field with their enrapturing beauty, will not see the lustre of our expectations tarnished. He will inspire true Christians with the desire of becoming the foster parents of those young men who will shortly become missionary priests. Nor are such generous natures confined to a narrow sphere. In every class of society they are to be met with; in schools and in religious communities, among the clergy and in all ranks of the laity, but, more especially among the humbler classes.

We feel confident, therefore, that such persons are to be found in our midst, and trust accordingly, to your unbounded magnanimity. The future of our institution, we place in our hands. Consult your means, and, taking counsel, listen to the promptings of your generous heart Let your liberality speak for itself, and you will lay up for yourselves imperishable treasures in Heaven.

Among the many ways in which the Juniorate may be aided, are principally the following:

1st. By Scholarships. This may be done by placing in the hands of the Juniorate authorities such a sum of money as will bear an annual interest of quidem multa operarii autem pauci."

3rd. By donations. These may assume the form of an annual tribute paid to the Institution, and may be in keeping with the generous impulses of each Catholic heart. Such offerings, moreover, be they made perpetual or temporary, will always meet our grateful acceptance.

Death of the Rev. James O'Donnell.

The death is announced of the Rev. James O'Donnell, at Stanstead, at the age of $4, from a cancer. He was the brother of Rev. Canon O'Donnell, cure of $8. Denis, and a native of Rochdale, England. The deceased graduated at $6. Hyacinthe, and was for many years parish priest of Blanstead, after which he was attached to the diocese of Newark, N.J. In 1890 he returned from Los Angelos, Cal., where he had gone for the benefit of his health.

Off to the North-West.

Rev. Father Morin started for the North-West by the C.P.R. Tuesday night with 225 French Canadian settlers for the neighborhood of Edmonton. Besides these there was at the station a large crowd of Montreal workingmen who wished to go west, but could not pay their fare. These attempted to secure free passages by mingling with a gang of 25 men whom the C.P.R. Company had engage to work near Winnipeg. The train was delayed an hour by the work of sifting out these would-be "dead-heads."

Month of May Services.

Let our readers not forget that at the Cathedral chapel, every evening, during the month of May, there are prayers, beads, Benediction and sermon. Also at St. Patrick's and at the Jesuits Month of Mary services are held every evening. It is the same at Notre Dame and in all the city parish churches. So there can be scarcely any excuse for missing the exercises of the Month of May. Moreover, the weather is most delightful and the walk most charming. Little more than half the month has gone past and it is to be hoped that all who have missed these devotions so far, will make up for lost time.

The Bishop of Providence.

The Bishon of Providence.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Harkins, Bishop of Providence, R.L., was in Montreal last week and was a guest of the pastor of St. James' Church, on St. Denis Street. His Lordship, who is a halo and hearty prelate, full of life and strength, and remarkable for his zeal in the cause of the clurch in general and devotion to his large diocese and his faithful flock, in particular, has many good things to say about Canada and especially about Montreal. His stay was very short, but he managed to see a great number of his many friends and admirers in this city. We had the pleasure of a personal interview with His Lordship and were rejoiced to find, from all appearances, that he is likely to have long years of useful life before him, to be consecrated, as have those of the past, to the advancement, glory and prosperity of the Catholic cause in the great Republic to the south of us.

The New Minister of St. Mary's College.

The Rev. Father J. H. Foran, S. J., who has been called to fill the position of Rev. Minister of St. Mary's College, made vacant by the elevation of Father Hudon to the rectorship, is one of the youngest Jesuit Fathers who has ever held office in Montreal. Father Foran, is an American by birth, being born 37 years ago at Brooklyn, N. Y., but he was principally reared in Colorado, where his family removed shortly after his birth. He was educated at the College of Nicolet, P.Q., and joined the Society of Jesus in 1879. After the ordinary course of literary studies he became a professor of mathematics at the colleges of St. Mary and the Immaculate Conception, positions that he filled until October, 1889, when he went to Dublin to complete his theological course. He returned to Montreal only a few months ago, and has since resided in this city. He is a deep student, and highly respected by the fathers of the order who have received his appointment as minister with pleasure and satisfaction. The New Minister of St. Mary's College.
