

In conclusion I want to stress that, for Canada, the evolution of an effective international regime for direct investment is an essential part of economic development and the North-South challenge. We believe our primary goal must be to ensure that transnational corporations are given an opportunity to contribute to world development through their dynamic profit-making activity and to ensure that the benefits derived from their activities contribute to rational global development. To achieve this, we must work towards balanced international co-operation in order to achieve a more constructive investment climate.

I believe that if we can produce clear rules of understanding and conduct for host and home governments as well as transnational corporations, we will have made a significant contribution to a more rational and balanced world development.
