No man ever lived to tell
Just what it means to die.
Swift toward life's terminal I trend.
The run seems short tonight;
God only knows what's at the end—
I only hope the lamps are white."

A Poet and a Man.

Poet and man of affairs, dreamer and doer too, his life was full of action, light and shade. Born on the farm, he was educated in the common school at Greenup, Ill., and the inspiration of his songs came from the simple scenes of the countryside. He was first a farmer and then passed on to be a grain broker. From boyhood his letsure hours were spent, however, in literary purere spent, however, in literary pur-uits. The railroad builders were ts. The railroad punders were stopping their ribbons of steel across continent and the fascination of roading took hold of young War n. He was 25 years old when he of his grain brokerage office in Po-thontas. Iil., and then he proceeded lorado, but the venture was unenorts in his songside where he after the failure of this newspaper owning enterprise, his "Doing the Railways for the Rocky Mountain News':

I assured him that the railroads, to I could talk about train orders, and could write on lead and lap, I could banquet with the president or if I chose could take

Doing the railways and the many ther duties that fell to a reporter on hat newspaper did not appeal to Cy. arman. He was busy with the ise, and in the fall of 1892 he was introduced to the American public as "the Poet of the Rockies," by The New York Sun. Dana, the editor of the induced him to come to New ork. He rode a railway locomotive om New York to Chicago in the folowing year and wrote as a result a lowing year and whole are a great dear of attention: It was published in McClure's Magazine and was en-In McClure's Magazine and was entitled "A Thousand Miles in a Night."
Becoming established as a literary free lance whose prose and verse found a ready market Cy. Warman took a two-year tour in Europe and the Orient. In 1904 he joined the Grand Trunk ervice, with which he was connected without interruntion until his death. without interruption until his death.

His Tenderer Side.

Cy. Warman in his songs frequently outhed the great heart of the world. if he had written a ballad other than "Sweet Marie." his fame would have been assured. With its tender sentiment and sweet lifting music, "Sweet Marie" appealed not only to the people of the North American continent, but had Indeed world-wide popularity. It has been sung by millions, and is as popu-lar in the Australian bush and the in the Australian bush and the Mining camps of Alaska as in New York or Chicago. There are many of younger generation who remem-"Sweet Marie" as one of the songs rooned over them in their early child-lood. WONDERFUL MAP FOR PANAMA EX

Canada Will Teach the Great est Geography Lesson at Exhibition.

A DREAMER AND DOER FIFTEEN MONTHS' WORK

J. T. Edwards, F.R.G.S., Producer of the Mammoth Model of Canada.

The nations assembled at the Pana-The nations assembled at the Panama Exposition will be Canada's geography class for the most remarkable lesson ever given in physical geography. The class will be innumerable, international; the lesson will be correspondingly gigantic—the greatest prescriation of animated geography that has ever been devised. For this special occasion a mammoth map model of Canada is being produced by Mr. L T. Edwards, F.R.G.S., Toronto. The water powers of Canada from Atlantic to Pacific are shown, carrying an impressive message in the universal an impressive message in the universal language—the language of the eye: color. light, substance, dimensions, nature in miniature.

For fifteen months engineers, artists, material electricians, and mechanics

For fifteen months engineers, artists, modelers, electricians and mechanics will be shaping this huge "page" of Canadian geography. Completed the upright portion of the exhibit will be forty feet long by twenty feet high. Its base projecting horizontally for twenty feet is the foundation for fourteen models. Five thousand electric lights. 2000 jewels and 200 miles of wires will be used in the color illuminations. In conception—mechanically, artistically and from educational and advertising standpoints—this map-model will be standpoints—this map-model will be an excellent piece of work. Its greatest triumph arises from the fact that it is being produced in Canada from Canadian raw materials. Indicative of abundance of manufacturing material abundance of manufacturing material as well as power.

To one beholding Canada, as presented by the map makers, there is this unescapable conviction: To meet the manufacturing need in every province of Canada there is available abundant cheap hydro-electric energy in a thousand waterfalls flowing thru a country inexhaustibly rich with pulp. a country inexhaustibly rich with pulp, timber, nickel; gold, silver, fron, clay.

timber, nickel, gold, silver, fron, clay, copper, oil, grain, cattle, fur, mica, hides, wool—every variety of raw material for manufacturing.

When ablaze with electric lights this animated geography of Canada will be a marvelous study. Rivers, streams, lakes and canals vein the land with blue transparencies; here and there gleam red jewels denoting developed water powers; green gems betoken the a marvelous study. Rivers, streams, lakes and canals vein the land with the mechanical shops of the Denver Rio Grande Railroad. Later he become an engineer of the company's comotives. With the knowledge of liferary talents he left the cab of e locomotive for the editor's desk, king charge of The Western Railway editor. they represent.

Above and beyond this huge descriptive map looms the firmament, dark blue, silver-fiecked with stars, a beautiful setting well balanced between art He next struck out for the gold blue, silver-flecked with stars, a beau-felds. He started a newspaper of his with the mining camp at Creeds in and utility.

At the base of the huge map is a side of Chicago, adding 16 countries twenty foot foundation, upon which to the 30 already dry and barring are ranged fourteen models portraying the sale of intoxicants in approxithis the progressive story of water power his in Canada. The history of Canadian water powers opens with the model of the "first hydraulic engineer"—the beaver—at work building his dam. It is but a step in the story from the beaver to the old water wheel, famed in picture and story. Then the spray of the world's most famous cataract—Niagara Falls—claims the centre of attention. This model with a noisy cascade of water leaping from a height is tention. This model with a holsy case cade of water leaping from a height is cade of water leaping from a Niagara an ingenious miniature of Niagara Falls at night, and ranged about are the myriad power houses of Canada's greatest electric centre. By one model an intimate, intricate view is given of an intimate, intricate view is given of the interior of a modern electric power house. This mechanical model is the zenith of the modeler's art.

A miniature model of this work can be seen at the exhibit of Mr. Edwards at the City Development Exhibition, Arena, 'April 9 to April 15.
