Thus said, a god-like form was instant seen,
Whom solemn majesty and order grace;
This hand led on a youth, with brow serene,
And that sustains a maid, with beauteous face,
Hymen and Cupid soon obeisance yield,
And b'ned to the mandates she reveal'd.

Philander this morning his Daphne demands,
As love join'd their hearts, so the priest join'd
their hands.

The youths of both sexes assembled, but wait,
Your arrival to deem their gay pleasure complete.

Britannia.

Ye gods, from your agreement concord spring;
While I the first example hither bring.
This blushing daughter of my southern seat
Implores your favour for the bliss complete,
Whether soft infancy collected flow'rs,
Or needle's riper task employ'd her hours.
In rural innocence the housewife's art
Seiz'd all the emulation of her heart:
No courtly, vicious fashion kills the time,
But virtue's dictates regulate her prime.
This youth, when tender years his pow'r con-
find,
To great Mathefis bent the pliant mind,
Or from idea mark'd on ev'ry coast,
The pencill'd ship, in paper tempest tost,
But in maturity now realis'd;
Experience gives the pleasure fancy priz'd,
Him late I saw, when doubtful battle rag'd,
When my brave offspring Gallia's pride engag'd,
Dauntless of death the glorious laurel won,
And beauty, fee, rewards my fav'rite son.

An ENIGMA.

A Nigmatif, my wondrous name declare,
I'm neither fire nor water, earth nor
air;
Soon after man's creation I'd my birth,
And shall exist as long as man's on earth;
Within a moment's space (so great's my pow'r)
I build a city! citadel, or tow'rs!
I cause the fish to quit the wat'ry main,
And graze with herds upon the verdant plain!
Can make the lucid moon neglect her race,
And nimbly frisk about from place to place!
I promontories rise, and they appear
High above head, like castles in the air!
Sometimes with music gratify your ear,
At other times I terrify or scare;
Perhaps with hidious peals of thunder make
The spacious round of the creation shake!
Sometimes I'm mild, and then what scenes
arise,
Prest on the soul, and charm the wond'ring
eyes?

Such gay moment'ry landscapes greet the sight,
As overwhelm the spirits with delight!
When that immense, amazing orb of day
Declines i'th West, and gently falls away,
Then comes grim night, when I my feats perform,

Which are destroy'd before th' approach of
morn.

Peruse the Riddle, and I make no doubt,
By what I've said, you'll eas'ly find me out.

Wrangle,
Oct. 16, 1759.

Geo. Langley.

Pbillis.

Britannia thus ending, the youth and the maid
By Cupid and Hymen united are blest;
The scene so delightful with transport survey'd,
And in extasy starting, I walk'd from my rest.
But see! from the village Alcondar appear,
Delight in his countenance smiles;
A message of pleasure but listen to hear,
His language no art e'er beguiles.

Alcondar.

Yon Shepherd and Shepherdess, quickly advance,
To ring the loud bells and to lead up the dance.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

Abstract of a Letter from the Hon. Brigadier General Townfend to the Right Hon. Mr. Secretary Pitt, dated, Camp before Quebec, Sept. 20, 1759.

SIR,
I Have the Honour to acquaint you with the Success of his Majesty's Arms, on the 13th Inst. in an Action with the French,

on the Heights to the Westward of this Town.

" It being determined to carry the Operations above the Town, the Posts at Point
Levi, and l'ile d'Orleans being secured, the General marched, with the Remainder of
