YESTERDAY AT EXHIBITION

rows visited the grounds officially yesterday and made a tour of the booths and stands in search of liquor. They found none. The fair, this year, has been cleared of "blind tigers" than it ever was.

EXHIBITS WORTH SEEING.

The World Over.
When it comes to manufacturing biscuits, Christie, Brown and Co. can show pointers to the world. But they don't.

That isn't their object and they are kept busy supplying the demand that is made on their own special brands. Altogether this firm manufactures over 600 varieties, and one variety is just as good as the other. There are waters and biscuits the world over, but a first glance will reveal the fact that a great big portion of them are Christies. The people have nothing better to ask for when they buy biscuits, so it naturally follows that the sales of Christie, Brown and Company are enormous.

An Eye-Opener.
Morrison's brass goods as exhibited in machinery hall are a truly wonderful display of what skilled workmen can do when the demand for useful as well as ornamental articles becomes imperative.

A visit to the Morrison exhibit will be surprisingly agreeable. Your eyes will be opened and you will realize that you might just as well get profits from this firm before purchasing. You'll be pleased in the end.

Soothing Effect.
Those who visit the natural history building will be instructed to a great degree. The L.C.R. exhibit, in charge of Mr. Lindsay, is the big attraction, clear and as much like nature as possible, have a peculiar soothing effect that is pleasing to all who experience it.

There are also some fish globes with daintily marked denizens of the deep at play in the water.

Moose heads form a part of the artistic decoration scheme.

Grand Trunk Popular.
The Grand Trunk Railway is among the foremost institutions in the country. And due to its system the unpopulated districts in Ontario are becoming tenanted by sturdy settlers who have the way for modern civilization.

The effect before and after can be actually seen by making a call on the G.T.R. exhibit in the natural history building.

One big broom, among the large number that line the walls of the log cabin, pictures a scene of desolation and howling wildness.

Then comes the pioneer with his ax and trappings.

It's all very much like moving pictures. A village has sprung up, with stores, houses, saw mills, mines and other municipal requisites.

Thus is New Ontario growing into a state of modernization, and it's a sight to watch and study.

Blow! Blow! Blow!
Go in and see the glass blowers blow. Then come out and blow that you saw them and the artistic that was "blowed."

You can blow all you want to, and people will not call you a blower.

Everybody knows that your blowing is the real genuine article, and you will come off first best.

Communion Caps.
The Le Page Individual Communion Cup Company are among the foremost exhibitors in the manufacturers' building. Their wares are unique inasmuch as the cups stand for all that is salutary and clean.

By a peculiar device the cups have been made with unbreakable points.

Run on Wheat.
There is a run on the Shredded Wheat exhibit every day.

The exhibit is in the south wing of the process building, and you wonder why the crowds end up at that particular spot.

If Nature designed you short of stature, then you will have to edge thru an interested "jam" of people to see how Shredded Wheat is made.

The process is simple and satisfying. Nothing that is nutritious is extracted from the wheat.

This seems contrary to all ethics of milling, but the Shredded Wheat people do not "mill." They clean the wheat and take any foreign substance out, and then machinery for shredding and baking complete the operation.

Visitors can be seated and enjoy a light lunch at this exhibit.

Chapman Ball Bearing Company.
One of the most attractive exhibits in the machinery hall is that of the Chapman Double-Ball Bearing Company. This year they are exhibiting several new applications of their bearings, and the one that is attracting the most attention is an ore-car from the mines of the Dominion Coal Company at Glace Bay, C.B. This is mounted on a track and while the load of the coal and car is 5600 lbs., yet it can readily be moved along the track with one finger. Similar cars have been in operation for some time in the mines of the Canadian Copper Company, Copper Cliff, Ont., where over double the load is now being hauled with the same power that was formerly necessary with the old journal bearing equipment.

This feature is attracting considerable attention among mining men, as it means practically cutting in two the cost of bringing their ore or coal to the surface.

Another new feature which the company is pushing is the adaptation of their bearings to vehicles for both light and heavy service, and this promises to be one of the largest fields open to this bearing.

A visit to this exhibit will amply repay those interested in vehicles or in the generation and transmission of power.

Carpet Company's Exhibit.
The exhibit of the Toronto Carpet Manufacturing Company is in the manufacturers' building.

There you can see the finished article ready to be used.

Over in the process building this firm have their looms. This is an interesting and educative sight.

The loom in the process building is one taken out of their plant, and they received from the makers a few years ago has many important improvements added by the Canadian firm.

The not the pioneers in establishing a carpet factory in Canada, yet the energy and enterprise of this firm has placed them in the front rank of carpet manufacturers of the world.

This is not an exaggeration, as the many fine carpet men to Canada are willing to admit.

The Toronto Carpet Manufacturing Company have a full staff of wool buyers and sorters. They carry and sort their wool and worsted yarns, and for this process the most modern machinery has been installed.

In dyeing, chemistry has advanced so steadily, that methods which a few years ago were known to a few, are now better known to any laboratory chemist of a textile manufacturer than they were twenty-five years ago to the "rule of thumb" expert.

This company employs its expert chemist, who examines all stock and dyes which are used.

A visit to this exhibit is well worth while. A collection of the best rugs and carpets will hold the interest of the observer.

The many beautiful designs would please the eye of an art connoisseur.

Industry of Novelists.
How many novelists are there today who produce but 50,000 to 100,000 words a piece in eighteen months? With a pretty wide acquaintance of my fellow-novelists, writes "A. Novelist" in The Westminster Gazette. I must confess that I cannot name one who works on this principle of lordly luxurious leisure. One or two whose books appear at comparatively long intervals go far beyond the number of words named by your contributor in each story; the many who keep to that limit more or less closely produce on the average, two novels a piece per annum, and in several cases three or more. Have we not indeed, a periodical cry that the modern novelist, with his two, three or four novels a year, is far too prolific? Scott's performance of a novel in six weeks is now almost eclipsed—a novel in three weeks is now nothing very rare among the more energetic of Scott's successors.

The successful novelist of to-day has, of course, many advantages. For one thing, he enjoys uncommon freedom. He may choose his environment (within limits) and do his work when and how he pleases; but he would very speedily cease to be successful were he to adopt the system which, according to your contributor, is general. His calling is, in truth, peculiarly exacting. There is, perhaps, no other which demands so constant and vigilant an alertness of mind. Thackeray knew this when he said that a writer of fiction must always be at his best. If he disappoints expectation he is condemned out of hand. We tolerate dull sermons, dull speeches in parliament; nay, we often praise them in proportion to their dullness; but for the novelist who nods or lapses there is no forgiveness; no kindly critic by to point out that when he writes this or that passage which falls to please he had a racking headache, and, altogether, was miserably out of sorts.

Sang With a Fractured Skull.
Whitlat in the canteen a private of the 4th Essex regiment fell and struck his head on the concrete floor. He was then removed to the detention room on a charge of drunkenness. He was singing during the night, and spoke when remonstrated with, but next morning he was found unconscious, and died shortly afterwards. At the inquest the regimental surgeon, Col. Daly, of the hospital staff, said that never before in his experience had a man with a fractured skull been able to walk and talk ten hours after receiving the injury.

MURDER; ALMOST LYNCHING

Two Incidents Which Are a Result of Gans' Battle.

New York, Sept. 4.—A quarrel between a white man and a negro over the Gans-Nelson fight almost resulted in the lynching of James Marbine, a negro, at Tompkinsville, S.C., to-day. Marbine quarreled with Charles Curry, knocked him down and fired a shot into his thigh. A crowd of men from a neighboring saloon overtook Marbine after a chase, brought him back to where the wounded man was lying and sent for a rope to lynch him. Policemen saved the negro.

CANADIAN GEOLOGISTS BRAVED VOLCANO'S FURY

Clambered to Crater of Mount Colima, Mexico—Never Before Visited.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—A despatch from Mexico City says: "With their bodies severely burned by the fire of Mount Colima volcano, fourteen venturesome delegates to the International Congress of Geologists, which meets in this city this week, returned here yesterday."

The trip to the crater of the volcano was a perilous one, and had never been accomplished before by anyone.

The party established camps at different points on the ascent, and made a certain amount of progress each day until the summit was finally reached.

"The volcano was pouring forth great volumes of smoke, but this did not deter the explorers from advancing to the very edge of the crater. A hot and sudden blast of fire from the depths below badly scorched their bodies, and they beat a hasty retreat."

"Frank M. Adams and A. Bancroft of Montreal and A. P. Coleman of Toronto were among the daring party."
