WHO WILL GET CONTRACT FOR WESTERN SECTION?

Will Be the Costliest Work on New Transcontinental--Labor Market Good.

MONTREAL, Jan. 7.—(Special.)—As the labor situation has become a great deal more satisfactory than it was a few months ago, matters are looking up considerably along the line of Grand Trunk Pacific and the Transcontinental Railways, and the contractors and sub-contractors do not curing labor during the present year. the effect that whereas men were couple of months ago they are now n ten thousand men will be required next season on the several trans-continental contracts in the Provinces great deal of interest also centres on the contract to be given out in the very near future from Prince Rupert because from a contractor's point of view it is the finest piece of work on the entire line from the St. Law-rence to the Pacific Ocean. There will be a large amount of rock cut-ting, tunnel work, and above all side il work, and experts declare that a od deal of this section will cost 00,000 per mile and perhaps some miles will even exceed this estimate, hich is said to be a conservative During the last ten days or more

. Paul Railway contracting firm of oley Brothers, and Larsen, had been n the city, and his oft-repeated visits the city, and his off-repeated visits of the head offices of the Grand runk Pacific have given people to inderstand that the British Columbia tork just alluded to is not foreign that gentleman's sojourn in the y. Tenders are also in for the on of two hundred miles of the G.T.P. west of Edmonton to the foot hills, altho William Wainwright quoted as saying that this contract had already been awarded. It may be said that the information is erroneous, and most likely Mr. Wainwright was misreported. It is highly probole, however, that this section will be under contract in the near future d that operations will be under way How Contracts Are Progressing.

Altho the strict adherence to the four-tenth grade by the Grand Trunk Pacific has made the work a good deal Winnipeg and Edmonton than that attending the construction of the other trancontinental lines in the past, it seems to be taken for granted that while the whole line from the Red River to the banks of the distant Saskatchewan, some 800 miles and more, will be completed and ready and more, will be completed and ready son, Col. the late Edward Hanlan have won appreciation for the honor brought to his native city, not alone in the purely BILLY CARROLL athletic world, but among citizens in general, was strikingly afforded by the impressive ceremonials of yesterday, when the greatest of all oarsmen was committed to his last resting-place.

The funeral cortege, which extended for nearly three-quarters of a mile, and included 155 carriages, was one of the most representative in character that Toronto has witnessed, and many thousands viewed the funeral train as it moved about 3.30 p.m. from New St. Anderw's Church to the Necropolis, following the route of King, Yonge, Gerrard, Parliament and Winchester-sts.

The cortege was headed by about one hundred members of the Toronto Rowing Club on foot, the number of marchers being in itself a striking tribute to the dead oarsman, who had been an honorary member. P. J. Mulqueen, J. F. Scholes and other warm personal friends were included in this solemn
