His story was ridiculed by his honor and he was fined $8 or twenty days and the same penalty meted out to Logan and Vanhorne.

Fred Chapman, who has been in jail on remand, was fined $8 and John Tapley was again remanded.

SEWING MACHINE AGENT IN COURT

Interesting Case Disposed of in Police Court This Morning.

In the police court this morning after Magistrate Ritchie had adjudged William Close and James Nesbitt acquitted of the charge of assaulting James Rogers, a salesman in the employ of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, his honor censured the policemen who without mediation entered the premises of private individuals without warrants. "The time has passed," remarked his honor, "when action is unlikely, and it is imperative that every policeman who violates the law in this respect should know that he must take the consequences."

In this particular case his honor said a writ of replevin should have been secured by Rogers to validly seize a sewing machine over which the alleged assault originated.

Rogers testified that he sold the machine to a son of Nesbitt and as no payments were made he attempted to remove it from Nesbitt's home on Kennedy street yesterday while the latter was absent and only his daughter was in the apartment. While he was removing the machine he claimed Close, an uncle of the girl, entered and laying his hands violently on him whirled him around. He also claimed that Nesbitt, who made his debut shortly, took off his coat and invited him to participate in a fist encounter. Several persons followed him to the door after being ejected by Nesbitt and one of them had a baton. Witnesses denied striking Close or knocking him down, and denied striking one of the women inflicting a cut on her mouth. Roy Mitchell, another sewing machine canvasser who accompanied Rogers to the house, testified.

Policeman Silas Perry of the North End division was subjected to a rigorous cross examination by Close, which elicited replies revealing that Perry did not act discreetly in espousing Rogers' side of the dispute.

He accompanied Rogers to the Nesbitt domicile after being requested by Rogers because he did not desire to see the latter beaten.

He admitted that he might have been in the wrong, but was not sure. He was not aware that a policeman should know right from wrong. He did not ask Rogers for his authority in entering the house, but thought he did right to afford "protection to a citizen," as he phrased it. He admitted that he (witness) had no right to trespass on the premises and that he had been Rogers' word that he was assaulted.

Mrs. Close, the mother of one of the accused, saw Rogers assault her son, and after being ejected, threatened to kill the latter with a stone, and also attempted to strike him with a whip. She heard Perry say, "Go ahead, I'll protect you," and put his foot on the steps, but withdrew on advice from a bystander. The young man to whom Rogers disposed of the machine has not yet reached the age of maturity, and has been harassed by Rogers with threats of sending him to jail.

Pearl Nesbitt, daughter of one of the accused, said Rogers used her roughly and assaulted Close. Mitchell aided the latter.

William H. Close testified that Rogers knocked him down and assaulted him. He also hit his sister on the lip. The witness desired the machine to remain in the house until Nesbitt arrived, a few minutes later.

ABOUT REV. MR. ROBINSON

The following item is from the Plainfield (Ill.) Enterprise of Saturday's issue and pertains to Rev. Mr. Robinson, who assumes the pastorate of the Lindow street Baptist church on Nov. 22.—"The members of the Baptist church were much disappointed on October 18 to receive the resignation of their pastor, Rev. W. R. Robinson, who finds it necessary to remove back to New Brunswick for his health and the ill-health of Mrs. Robinson's mother there, whose condition is such that she requires the constant attention of her daughter. Plainfield can ill afford to part with a man of Mr. Robinson's talent and character. Since his arrival in Plainfield he has made many staunch friends by interest in others and has been preceptor of his duty as pastor and willingness to stand firm for what he believed in. The community will sustain a loss by the removal of Pastor Robinson and family, and many kind wishes will follow them across the northern border."

BRIDGETOWN NEWS

Bridgetown, N. S., Oct. 26.—The Baptist people are sending their pastor, Rev. A. S. Lewis, to Ottawa as a delegate to the Canadian Baptist Association, that convenes in that city on Nov. 5 and 6. Revs. Lewis and Johnson, of the Law and Order League, have been busy the past week returning the Conservative rum back to the original shipper. Our seizure consisted of seven barrels of fire water.

THE TAI TOI WILL BE GOOD

Amoy, China, Oct. 24.—The Tao Tai of Amoy was interviewed to-day regarding the revolutionary plot to assassinate Chinese officials during the stay here of American warships, which was unearched last week. He declared every precaution to prevent trouble had been taken. "Guards will be stationed every ten feet along the road from the landing wharf to the Namporto temple," he declared, and there will be one hundred guards at each of the entrances to the grounds. No Chinese will be admitted to the grounds without passports."
