There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, proved to be a constitutional disease and therefore require constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by E. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 2 to 5 times a day. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case that fails to cure. Send for treatise and testimonials. Address: E. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by Druggists, 7c.

INQUEST BEGUN.

He said he had been drinking.

The inquest was adjourned until this evening at seven o'clock. The inquest into the death of Elmer Letette, of Sackville, who was killed at Gilbert's Lane crossing about two weeks ago, will also be continued this evening.

Our manager advised me to try Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, so on my way home I bought a bottle, and after taking four doses I was cured. We always keep a bottle in the house. We have also used it for our children, and find it an excellent remedy for summer complaint."

Something You Ought to Read By RUTH CAMERON

"So different are the colors of life as we look forward to the future or backward to the past, and so different the opinions and sentiments which this contrast of appearance produces that the conversation of old and young generally ends with content or pity on either side. One generation is always the scorn and wonder of the other; and the nature of the old and the young are like liquors of different quality and texture which never can unite."
We had been discussing the political situation and our political ideals. A very enthusiastic young man, radiant with youth's beautiful belief in a possible panacea that should promptly do away with all the trouble in the world, had been pronouncing some very progressive ideas. "Does your father agree with you, David?" someone asked. "Oh, no," said the young man with an evident touch of bitterness. "Of course he doesn't. Dad and I never agree. I think, because I'm a radical." This young enthusiast evidently thought he was describing a peculiar condition of things due to his father's unusual temperament. As a matter of fact he was voicing the struggle of the ages, the eternal conflict between youth and age. I haven't a doubt but that twenty-five or thirty years ago David's father was fulminating because his father was so unprogressive; and I'm equally sure that twenty-five or thirty years hence David's son—if he exists—will be just as bitter against his father's lack of progressiveness. Now there is a certain great essay on this subject which I think would help every man and woman of us to read just about once a year. Probably many of you already know what I am going to say. I am speaking, of course, of Robert Louis Stevenson's essay on "Crabbed Age and Youth." To be sure Mr. Stevenson is rather inclined to take the part of youth in this essay, but it seems to me that any old man or woman who has been young once will forgive him. And as for those old dry bones who never were young—what does it matter what they think, anyway? Now I am not just saying all this to fill space. I really want you to see this essay; I believe it will give everyone, old and young, a wiser point of view on the whole matter. When a firm wants to introduce a new product it not only advertises it by prizes but also by samples. Please permit me to offer the following little sample of my wares. "It is held," says Mr. Stevenson in the course of this essay, "to be a good taunt, and somehow or other to clinch the question logically, when an old gentleman waggles his head and says, 'Ah, so I thought when I was your age.' It is not thought an answer at all if the young man retorts: 'My venerable sir, so I shall most probably think when I am yours.' And yet the one is as good as the other. . . . When the old man wags his head and says, 'Ah, so I thought

TAKE 3 DAY CURE FOR DRINK HABIT
No Hypodermic Injections-- No Injury to Health
Stimulants afford only temporary relief to tired nerves. When a man gets to the point where he begins to feel that he needs a brace before he tackles his job he ought to regard that as a danger signal. The effect of the brace passes away. The depression grows on what it feeds on. Depression is sure to follow. Next time the drink will be bigger; then it will take two and next three to brace up the system to the sticking point. The drink habit once acquired soon becomes the master of its victim. His friends fall from him as he goes downward. The road down hill is easy. It leads to unhappiness, to pauperism and to crime.
BUT--The habit can be cured. The poison can be eradicated from the system. Instead of a craving for liquor, a revulsion against it and a loathing for it may be set up. This has been demonstrated in the case of over three thousand patients who have taken the Neal Treatment. The Neal Cure is not a Gold Cure. It does not involve hypodermic injections, which leave the limbs, discolored, swollen and seared. No opiates or other powerful drugs are used. The Neal Cure is absolutely harmless and the Neal Cure is a sure cure. It never fails. It cures in just Three Days. It makes no difference whether the patient is a habitual drinker, whether his sprees are continuous or periodical, whether the habit is of long standing or whether he is merely in the first stages of alcoholism. In either case the Neal Cure eradicates the poison from the system. It sets the man who takes it on his feet. It makes him the master of the liquor habit instead of its slave. It is the greatest discovery of the age—a message of good cheer to men disheartened and to women hoping against hope for the victim whose weakness is destroying their happiness
If you have a relative or one who is near and dear to you, a friend or acquaintance, who needs this treatment, persuade him to go to the
