AN OLD FEUD RENEWED.

Mrs. George Harding Assaulted and Badly Injured by John Connolly.

Twelve years ago the Harding-Clark troubles at Westfield created a great stir in legal circles in this city, and owing to their peculiar nature and the fact that the quarrel was due to family differences the quarrel soon excited widespread interest in both town and country. Yesterday the quarrel was partially revived again by an assault made upon Mrs. George Harding by John Connolly, at the Clark homestead, Harding's Point.

To deal with the event of yesterday it is necessary to glance back at the former troubles. James Clark was the owner of a lot of land in the parish of Westfield on the river bank opposite Westfield station. He died, and his mother, brother and sisters became his heirs, as he left no will. The heirs could not agree upon a disposition of the property, and it was over this that the Harding-Clark feud arose, Mrs. Harding being a sister of the deceased James Clark. The stories told by the different witnesses in this case differed so widely and as the case had no practical ending it is impossible to say who was right or who was wrong in this remarkable case. Coincident with the proceedings at Westfield an action was brought by in the probate court to settle the estate of James Clarke. During the progress of this case Robert Clark produced a bond which he attested was signed by his brother James, agreeing to give him one half of the property. The end of the matter in the probate court was an order to sell the half interest of the deceased James Clark. This interest was bought in by G. R. Pugsley, presumably for Robert Clark. At all events, Robert Clark afterwards figured as the owner of the property, and mortgaged it to A. H. DeMill. Latterly the place has been offered at private sale, and when the other heirs heard this they decided to prevent the sale, and inserted an advertisment in the morning papers, warning people not to buy as they had claims against the property which were unsatisfied. Among those who protested against the sale were Ann Clark, mother of James and Robert and her daughter Mary.

Robert Clark who has been absent from home for some time returned recently and took possession of the property which had been in the occupation of his mother and sister during his absence. The next step taken by Robert, was to make up friends with his mother and a few days ago Robert and his family accompanied by his mother left for the States again. Before going he gave a boat to John Connolly and leased the place to a man named Doherty, a brother-in-law of Connolly's.

Mary who had been dispossessed by her brother and deprived of her mother's heir to rent to the shore and took the boat Robert had given to Connolly claiming it as her property. This does not appear to have caused any trouble but the fact of the property being in the occupation seems to have caused a family council to be held. Mary called in her sisters, Mrs. Harding and Mrs. Reid, and they seemed to have gone to Doherty the lessee of the property, and to have told him that Robert had no power to grant the lease he had given him.

Doherty took the matter quite coolly and said if they were the rightful owners of the property he would vacate. Subsequently he acquainted his brother-in-law with the state of affairs and together they visited the house. Connolly, it is said, assaulted Mrs. Harding with a chair on entering the house and then beat her with a stick and kicked her. He next grasped a gun and fired a shot out into the grounds, which passed close to the body of Lem. Reid, the son of Mrs. Reid, who had accompanied her to the farm. George Harding arrived about this time, and Connolly went away.

Mrs. Harding, it is said, is badly hurt, and has been spitting blood ever since she was injured.

What the end will be no one knows.

SPIRIT OF THE TIMES.

For a private price Byron McClelland has sold Kindora, chestnut colt, 2, by George Kinney, dam Endora, to L. and G. Straus, this city.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—A despatch from Terre Haute, Ind., says: The great mare Sunol, the property of Mr. Bonner, may come here from California next week into winter quarters. Several horsemen stated that Mr. Bonner had decided to place the mare in Budd Doble's charge and have him train her for next season. Doble's stables are located here, and in them are Monbars, Delmarch and other noted racers. Marvin brought Sunol here a year ago and the climate agreed with her.

The Ring.

PITTSBURG, Oct. 31.—Pugilist Jim Corbett arrived in the city this afternoon. "Will I fight Peter Jackson for $5,000 a side and the best purse a Northern club will offer?" he said, repeating the correspondent's question.

"Well, I will and I won't. At the present time I have prospects of a match that will bring me in more money, and that is what I am looking for.

"I have challenged both Mitchell and Slavin to fight before a San Francisco club for $10,000 a side and a purse of $10,000. Mitchell and Slavin are to be in this country next month, and I expect one or the other to cover my $1,000 forfeit. I will meet them in New York on their arrival.

"In case neither of them accepts that proposition I will, of course, accept the Jackson offer."

THE OPERA HOUSE.

A Fine Performance by the Jane Coombs Company.

Those who attended the opera house last evening had reason to feel pleased at the admirable performance they witnessed there. The piece presented was a dramatization of Bleak House, one of the masterpieces of Charles Dickens. Miss Jane Coombs who has already won an admirable reputation elsewhere and whose fame had preceseded her took the double role of Lady Dedlock and Hortense. She is a lady with a fine bearing and appearance, an excellent voice and is graceful in every movement. Her manner of rendering the part of Lady Dedlock produced a great impression. Miss Coombes is destined to become a great favorite in this city. Mr. J. Leslie Gossen took the part of Tulkinghorn with much ability and proved himself an admirable support. Mr. Rowley was very amusing in the character of Guppy and showed himself to be a good actor. Miss Hunter as Esther Summerson did her part well, and the other members of the cast gave good support. Bleak House will be repeated this evening, and there should be a large audience present. Last evening the attendance was excellent, and the audience were well pleased with the play. We congratulate the Opera House management on the excellent company which they have secured.

Now that St. John has a good opera house and an excellent company, the people of this city ought to extend to it their patronage. The want of a suitable theatre has long been felt here, and now that the want is supplied the public can do no less than show their appreciation fo the efforts of those who have at much trouble to themselves secured the building of the opera house. We feel satisfied that the people of this city will not be slow to do their part towards supporting it properly.

Zera Semon at the Institute.

Zera Semon, the king of mystery, was greeted with a large audience at his opening entertainment in the Institute last night. He has gained a great reputation here and doubtless will have crowded houses every night this week while his engagement lasts. His feats of magic were most wonderful, those with the trained birds exciting much applause. His little 3 or 4 year old son in assisting him added much to the interest of the programme, especially on the part of the ladies, "He was such a cute thing."

The performances of the famous juggler Nelton, was thrilling and beautiful. In one act he unfortunately cut his hand badly on a plate which he was handling and which, unknown to him, had been broken on the edge by the carelessness of some one in setting the stage. The accident, however, will not prevent him from giving his performances.

Zera's ventriloquism in the talk and singing of the puppets and the painted hand tickled the audience into roars of laughter. At the close of the show he distributed 100 handsome presents to persons in the audience. Mr. J. Crow of Main street got the gold watch, J Coes of Indiantown the china tea set, Frank Bowes of City road the chamber set, C Forsyth of Crescent street the barrel of flour. Miss May Jenkins, Oscar McAvity, John Bridges were amongst the number to receive expensive presents.
