OLDEST CHURCH IN MADAWASKA COMPLETE LOSS

St. Basil Church entirely destroyed by fire, in spite of valiant efforts to prevent. - Edmundston Fire Brigade ineffective, for want of water.

One of the oldest landmarks in the province disappeared on Saturday morning, October 22nd, when the Roman Catholic Church at St. Basil, built in 1860, was completely destroyed by fire.

Mass was held at 7:30 in the morning, when everything was in order but by 9:30 smoke was seen issuing from the building, and the main body of the church was discovered to be full of smoke.

The Edmundston Fire Brigade and the C. N. R. fire train were early at the scene of the disaster, but aided by a strong wind, the fire gained headway rapidly, and in spite of valiant efforts, the church was soon reduced to a mass of smoldering ruins, for want of water.

Loss is estimated at approximately $25,000. The only things saved were the two bells in the church tower, which were carried to safety through heroic efforts of town-people, who clambered up the tower. Insurance on the building covers part of the loss.

The church, which was situated on the western side of the main road between Edmundston and Grand Falls, in the parish of St. Basil, was the oldest church in Madawaska county.

Rev. Father J. P. Levesque is the priest in charge.

CONVICTION FOR SPEEDING IS DISPUTED

Following collision with town fire team, local man, convicted by Magistrate, appeals to Circuit Court. - Judgment reserved for later.

BEFORE JUDGE HAYWARD EDMUNDSTON, Oct. 20. - The review of the conviction of Thomas Palmer, for exceeding the speed limit of the Town of Edmundston, by Magistrate E. J. Hubert, was held before Judge M. L. Hayward with F. Dodd Tweedie appearing for the accused and A. J. Dionne for the informant, the chief of police of the town.

On Aug. 11 last, Palmer's car was in collision with the town fire team at the corner of Michaud and Church streets, about $500 damage being suffered by the town in the collision. Palmer was fined $10 and costs.

Mr. Dionne argued that the evidence proved conclusively that the accused was driving the car, and that the burden of proving that he was not was on the informant, which by law had not been approved by the governor-in-council was on the accused.

Judge Hayward reserved his decision.

A Model Coach Building Contest Again, next year

WILBROD COYNE TO COMPETE Oshawa, Ont., October 17. - Two university scholarships valued $5,000 each will be given to the two best boy craftsmen in Canada next year, as additional awards in the Annual Fisher Body Guild Competition for a model coach building work.

Mr. McLaughlin, president of the Canadian Section of the Guild, made out the announcement here today.

This awards a total fund of $30,000 to be awarded in scholarships in Canada and the United States, and increases to $65,000 the Gold awards for the present year's competition. All six scholarships entitle the winners to a four-year course in any accredited university of their own choice.

Trips to the Chicago World's Fair for two boys in each Canadian Guild district and each state of America, and 120 gold awards ranging from $15 to $100, are offered by the Guild in addition to the scholarships.

The purpose of the Guild in increasing the number of scholarships Mr. McLaughlin explained, was to extend the opportunity which the coach-building competition offers to boys of Canada. Four scholarships were awarded during the Guild's initial year, when the competition was limited to boys of the United States.

Four were offered again last year, with a year's experience behind them. It is hoped that the boys were able by a narrow margin to sweep the entire estate in the scholarships to take care of both countries. There will be one scholarship for the highest Junior Division boy in Canada, and one for the highest Senior Division boy.

The awards are made on the basis of the skill shown by boys in constructing a miniature replica of Napoleon's Royal Carriage from plans furnished by the Guild. There are no fees or dues in the Guild. Any boy who will be 12 years old on or before July 1, 1933, and who was not yet 20 years old on Sept. 2, 1932, is eligible.

THAT'S THE WESTERN BAKER LAKE! Stepping off a Canadian National train at Moncton, N. B., Constable Herbert Humphrey of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is home to spend a vacation with his parents after three years as a member of the sub-Arctic patrol. He was last on duty 26th last coming by way of Winnipeg, Ottawa and Montreal.

With the exception of a week spent in visiting those cities it took him this time to reach Moncton from the far north. Speaking of living conditions in the sub-arctic, Constable Humphrey says the summers are longer until the last of May or early part of June with the thermometer touching 70 below zero. At Baker Lake the ice does not get out before mid July. The population is Eskimo and Indian with the exception of a few white people who are either connected with the Hudson Bay Company or the R.C.M.P. The natives, he states, are peaceable but in 1929 there was considerable excitement in the Baker Lake district when a party of mining engineers, travelling by plane, became lost and spent was stationed at Chesterfield Inlet, the entire winter in the Humphrey some 700 miles north of Churchill, on the Hudson Bay, and previous to that was located at the Ottawa head quarters for a year. He is the son of Mr. Stephen Humphrey, employed by the Canadian National Railways as a Bridge and Building Inspector at Moncton.

YET THERE ARE HONEST PEOPLE It is not often that almost a thousand dollars blows about the street, waiting for someone to stoop down and pick it up, but this happened on one of the busiest streets of Toronto recently. Hurriedly tucked away by the owner, two cheques and a stock order form were placed with greater rapidity than security. They fluttered just outside of the entrance of the head office of the Bank of Nova Scotia and the wind swept one cheque and the form into a corner of the doorway and flung the other cheque on the sidewalk. It was about then that, fortunately for the owner, Messenger No. 143 of the Canadian National Telegraphs went to the Bank to receive a telegram. Tony Canzano, aged 20, saw the two bits of paper fluttering in the doorway. He picked them up, received the cheque the way out spotted the second cheque for which he came, and on he. He retrieved this also and delivered this finds to the branch office manager of the telegraphs at Canadian National Building, King and Yonge Streets. One cheque was for $565, and the other for $323. They were subsequently returned to the owner, D. E. Galloway, Assistant Vice President in charge of the Canadian National Telegraphs, spoke in the highest terms of the action of Messenger Canzano and pointed out that by his good work Canzano had added his name to the long honor list of the Canadian National Telegraphs messengers who have been the means of returning numerous articles lost this year on the streets of various Canadian cities.
