PRESS COMMENTS ON THE ELECTION FROM ALL PARTS OF THE DOMINION

Warm Congratulations for Premier Fleming in Canadian Newspaper Columns—End of Pugsleyism is General Verdict—Appreciation of Record of Local Government.

PUGSLEY'S INFLUENCE GONE.
(Montreal Gazette, Con.)

The general result was expected but is somewhat more emphatic than most had anticipated. The story is a repetition of what has been several times told in Canadian politics. New Brunswick's administrative affairs were for twenty-five years under the control of one party, or rather one group of men, who, by repeated electoral successes and successful manipulations of men, came to think that it did not matter how they acted or what they did. They went too far, and in the election of four years ago they were thrown out by the people. Mr. Hazen, who is now a member of the federal administration, and who had led the Opposition, formed a new government, whose members set themselves to the task of improving the provincial situation. They found that they had much to do. A new and better order was established.

Independent Liberal Support.
The more independent of the Liberal newspapers of the province saw the improvement and gave the ministers credit for the good work they had done, and evidently the more independent of the Liberals of the province did the same thing. Probably also, some things done in the interest of the Liberal opposition helped to bring about the result noted.

The narrowness and the meanness that marked some of the arguments and appeals of opposition critics were of a character that most people thought Canada had outgrown. They were actually calculated to reveal men who had any breadth of view or idea of manliness. They probably did.

Mr. Fleming, who last year succeeded to the premiership on Mr. Hazen's retirement, has achieved a triumph in his complete reorganization of the provincial government. He is learning that in connection with the governmental administration of their affairs the work which in character and results most nearly approaches that of an efficiently managed business institution is that which is of greatest public benefit, and that which should be encouraged.

Pugsley's Baneful Influence.
Naturally the outcome of the election will have some effect on federal politics. The leaders of the Liberal party at Ottawa have been looking to the provinces for signs that would encourage them in hoping that they will soon be restored to power in the Dominion. They will find none in New Brunswick this year. Mr. Pugsley and his associates were concerned in the content, and made some remarkably inaccurate predictions as to what the result would be. They, also, will lose, and it will be well. Mr. Pugsley is a man about whose ability there is no question. He also has personal qualities that add to his strength as a public man and a parliamentarian. He represents too many unwholesome ideas and practices, however, and as his influence goes down the standard of public life is likely to go up. As leading representative of the federal opposition in New Brunswick and a participant in the campaign he will suffer by his party's overthrow in the provincial field, and no one outside of the party needs to care. The Laurier star is still sinking in the East.

PUGSLEY SECTION RESPONSIBLE.
(Quebec Chronicle.)
The verdict of the New Brunswickers makes it plain that they considered the opposition campaign to be as shameless as it was trivial and ridiculous. The sweep in New Brunswick is about on a par with the recent result in British Columbia. Following, as it does, on the heels of the Laurier banquet, it shows the hollowness of the liberal boasting that was so much in evidence on that occasion. The defeat of Mr. Pugsley's figurehead, Mr. Copp, is significant. Had the liberal party in the Maritime Province dissociated itself from the Pugsley section, the probability is that it would have made a better showing. The idea of any party laying claim to all the virtues when it is betrayed by such influences is preposterous, and the electorate evidently took this view of the situation.

A disgraceful feature of these elections was the way in which the Laurierites, through the agency of the apostle of race hatred, Le Soleil, and certain Quebec politicians, raised the race and religious cry. This will be a lesson to them. The liberals who themselves provincially. But they were burdened with the incubus of their own discredit. Deprived of accustomed power as the dispensers of patronage, and of contracts, they proved ineffective campaigners. The opposition imported from Quebec French speakers to appeal on behalf of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, for the votes of the Acadians. Everything possible was done to recover prestige for Laurierism and to make believe that it was again in the ascendant.

The opposition leader, Mr. Copp, played for votes with a platform more spectacular than convincing. He declared for cheap rural telephones, and hydro-electric development to give power at cost to manufacturers and farmers, and other beneficent projects that would entail a huge and needless expenditure. His main criticism of the government was that it was too liberal in its expenditure. In one breath he cried about too much extravagance, and in the next urged unprecedented expenditure. But the mirage deceived few voters. They were satisfied that true progress must begin with the most necessary things, and that the Fleming government was doing those things to the utmost of the provincial resources.

MAKING IT UNANIMOUS.
(Montreal Star.)
Our Provincials have fallen into the habit of "making it unanimous" for the government; and New Brunswick has "got the habit." Where the only issues are those of administration, this is very natural; though, as was pointed out before, it is always a wise thing for a people to provide themselves with an effective opposition. The best administrators will be all the better for a little close watching and sharp criticism. So long, however, as people feel that a government is likely to show "warm sympathy" upon its friends and enemies, they tend only "cold justice" to its opponents; this tendency to vote for the "sure winners" will last. The Fleming administration in New Brunswick has been giving the citizens of that fine and promising province good government, and their return to power was certain. Nominally, it is Coalition Government; but from the day when Mr. Blair went to Ottawa, the nature of the coalition has been largely one party. Under Mr. Blair's successors, it is liberal; and now it is conservative.

DEATH-BLOW TO PUGSLEYISM.
(Toronto News.)
The particular significance of yesterday's result in New Brunswick is that it gives the death-blow to Pugsleyism and all its corrupt hopes. The Blue Nose Province has given Mr. Fleming carte blanche to continue the good government instituted by the Hazen Ministry. As Mr. O. S. Crockett, M. P., told the Toronto Canadian Club recently, New Brunswick is just beginning to come into its own, and no interference with the beneficent operations of the National Policy is desired. For that reason yesterday's sweep may be regarded as in a sense a fresh vindication of the Borden Government and its handling of public affairs. Clearly the sentiments of the electorate are still adverse to Laurier-Fleming ideals, and there is hope that even Saskatchewan may line up with Ontario, British Columbia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, and Manitoba in support of a united Confederation.

A MINISTRY OF ABILITY.
(Montreal Herald, Lib.)
The elections in New Brunswick have resulted as most people expected in the return of the Fleming government. The issues which were fought were purely local, and the decision which they have registered is not of much significance outside New Brunswick. Mr. Copp has not only suffered a party defeat but a personal one in his own constituency. He was fighting against a government, a ministry of ability including men of much more experience in political affairs with the prestige of a federal government to support them. It was, however, expected that on a couple of issues there would be a gain of some seats to the opposition. That there was not is not only due to the ability of Mr. Fleming but to the shrewdness of the people who believe in a close alliance between the provincial and federal governments.

The desire for that alliance is shown clearly by the result in St. John City. That constituency last September returned a liberal in the person of the Hon. Mr. Pugsley to the federal parliament, but returned a full conservative ticket to the provincial house. The Hon. John Morrissey, too, who was one of the successful Fleming candidates in Northumberland county and is a member of the Fleming government, supported Sir Wilfrid Laurier at the general election.

It needs something like an earthquake to overturn a government in the Maritime Provinces, more especially when that government is building a railway. The people there are canny in their politics and like to keep close to the party in power.

RACE CRY FAILED.
(L'Evenement, Con.)
The result of the elections in New Brunswick shows that there is a powerful current in favor of the principles of Conservation everywhere except in the Province of Quebec. The elections are grateful to Mr. Fleming's party for having put an end to the era of extravagance and scandals which flourished in the time of Mr. Pugsley. We are particularly happy to learn that the appeals to prejudice and the race cry have not succeeded in making our Acadian patriots forget their duty.

ENDS THE PUGSLEY DOMINATION.
(Toronto Mail and Empire.)
This overwhelming endorsement of the past Conservative administration to hold office in 25 years completes the discomfiture of the Pugsley influence in provincial affairs. Four years ago the voters turned the Robinson government's majority of 28 into a Hazen majority of 24. Liberals joined hands freely with Conservatives to overthrow that government and end the Pugsley domination.

Throughout this campaign Mr. Pugsley was an energetic campaigner for Leader Copp. Besides the ex-minister of public works, Hon. Mr. Emmerson, Mr. Carvell, M.P., and other Ottawa political lights worked strenuously on opposition platforms to revive the old-time party strength and rehabilitate it will also be regarded as an expression of confidence in the Federal administration as represented by the Conservative leaders in New Brunswick. Had the result been different, a great deal would have been claimed for it by the liberal press as indicating a drift of opinion in the Maritime Provinces against the Borden Government.

VICTORY DESERVED.
(Toronto Telegram.)

Quebec's provincial election was the Caesar to which the continentalists appealed for support to their hopes of a Laurier restoration, and into the Caesar of a New Brunswick election the continentalists must go and have their chances of a Laurier restoration weighed in the balance of the New Brunswick results.

The moral foundations of New Brunswick Liberalism must have been destroyed under Sir Wilfrid Laurier. New Brunswick Liberalism was held together by the cohesive power of public plunder. When the foundations were destroyed, the unrighteous went down in the disaster that yesterday left the adherents of Laurierism without a witness in the New Brunswick legislature.

The New Brunswick result makes it clear that the Borden government must have been destroyed, the unrighteous went down in the disaster that yesterday left the adherents of Laurierism without a witness in the New Brunswick legislature.

FRUITS OF PROGRESSIVE POLICY.
(Hamilton Spectator.)
The victory of the Fleming administration in New Brunswick is even more sweeping than was anticipated. And now that constructive programme may proceed which will make that interesting province one of the most flourishing in the Dominion. It should have been so long since. The lethargy of ages is disappearing.

The St. John valley will soon be threaded by a railway which will bring the pulse of a broader life into a fertile but comparatively neglected region. The ready-made farms to be provided by the government will set many a settler on the way to a competence with a minimum of the discomfort of "roughing it in the bush." Forest wealth will be turned to account for the benefit of a main industry. The mineral deposits of the north and northeast counties will be developed. The city of St. John will become a center of transportation and ship building.

The predominance of Premier Fleming in New Brunswick is only part of a general movement in British Columbia. In each of the conservative is showing itself to be the truly progressive party. Truly progressive it is because it unites intrepid courage with a sound economic policy.

PEOPLE WELL SATISFIED.
(Hamilton Herald, Ont.)
New Brunswick people appear to be well satisfied with the sort of government they have been getting under Mr. Hazen and his successor, Premier Fleming. In the provincial elections yesterday the Fleming government secured 40 of the 48 seats in the legislature. Only two Liberals were elected, and the leader of the opposition swept the green, only one lone Liberal from Madawaska, having been returned. Nova Scotia will be the next to fall into line for progressive government.

A GOOD ROADS POLICY.
(Ottawa Journal.)
Ottawa City Council can find a lesson in the New Brunswick election. A good roads policy makes for popularity; so does good transportation.

THE DAY OF RECKONING.
(Yarmouth Times, N.S.)
Premier Fleming has swept the province from north and south, east and west. Only two Liberals were returned. They are saying today that we only have escaped to tell the tale, and a sad tale it is for Liberalism. All the Liberal candidates in St. John city and county lost their deposits, but one, and doubtless he is thankful that he saved his money. Probably he is a wiser and thankful man. The full returns show that forty-two Conservatives and two Liberals and two Independents were elected. The conservative majority were astonishingly large but we refrain from commenting on them.

In the light of these results one finds the reading of the St. John Liberal press on Wednesday last highly amusing. Here are a few of the marvelous things that the St. John Evening Times had to say in its Wednesday issue. We quote a few: "Campaign ends with certainty of victory;" "Death knell of inefficient dishonest Conservative government is sounded;" "Six Liberal seats in St. John city and county assured;" "Copp and his Liberal followers will sweep the province from shore to shore;" "Well we hope that the St. John Times has got its satisfy for publishing such rot. The result of the New Brunswick Liberal press is saying has it—since Lizzie Withers was full of splinters, had twenty doctors causing quivers, I don't think I ever auto anymore. We presume that the feeling of the prophets of Baal in our sister province."

The return of the Fleming Government was assured from the first. The Hon. J. D. Hazen, minister of marine and fisheries, left a splendid record behind him when he entered the federal cabinet. His successor took up a work already planned by an able administrator. Premier Fleming has shown himself to be the right man in the right place. He has easily put to flight the enemies that beset him, and no man could possibly have a more flattering testimonial to public confidence and esteem than the premier of New Brunswick received yesterday at the hands of the electors.

The mills of the gods grind slowly, but they grind exceeding small. So has it come to pass in our sister province. The liberals are reaping now the fruits of the seeds planted by such men as Hon. Wm. Pugsley, and L. J. Tweedie. These men went a warfare not at their own charges, but at the expense of the liberal party, and the day of reckoning has come.

There are not as many grins left in New Brunswick as there were in the days of the Fleming government, but we really thought that there was a general fight going on in New Brunswick, and that it might be possible for the Liberal forces to hold their own, but they did not hold anything except a pair of two spots in one of the "way back" counties of the province.

How the grins could persuade them selves into the idea that they had a show of winning is past our ken. In the first place there is a tendency in all the provinces to hold on to any fairly decent government. The Liberals had over a quarter of a century in Ontario. They have had thirty years in Nova Scotia. They have had twenty years in Prince Edward Island, and they have had a long period of power in Quebec. They were in office for a good many years in New Brunswick.

To the grins of New Brunswick we heartily commend a careful study of Robert Service's philosophical poem "Grin," the opening stanza of which reads:

If you're up against a bruiser and you're getting knocked about
Grin
If you're feeling pretty groggy and you're licked beyond a doubt
Grin
Don't let him see you're fuming; let him know with every clench
Grin
Though your face is battered to a pulp, your blooming heart is stout
Grin
Just stand upon your pins until the beggar knocks you out and grin.

NOVA SCOTIA NEXT.
(Windsor Tribune, N.S.)
Yesterday, in the provincial elections in Nova Scotia, the opposition swept the green, only one lone Liberal from Madawaska, having been returned. Nova Scotia will be the next to fall into line for progressive government.

ANOTHER LANDSLIDE.
(Sydney Post, C. B.)
The provincial elections held in New Brunswick resulted in an overwhelming triumph for the Fleming government. The returns indicate that only two Liberals survived the great Conservative landslide which swept the province from end to end. Premier Fleming's party will number at least 42 and probably 46 in a house of 48 members. Such a smashing party victory is without precedent in the political history of New Brunswick, and but few parallels can be found for it in any of the other provinces of Canada.

The almost unanimous endorsement which the Fleming government has thus received from the electors of New Brunswick is a fitting reward for

HONEST GOVERNMENT RECOGNIZED.
(Vancouver Province, Con.)
While this is a party victory, it is also a recognition of the capable and upright administration organized by Mr. Hazen four years ago and continued by Mr. Fleming after Mr. Hazen took office at Ottawa. This ministry found the affairs of the province in bad shape. The previous government had cheerfully disregarded business principles and in other ways deceived the people.

THE ONLY PARALLEL.
(Truro Citizen.)
About the only parallel which Canadian political history affords for Thursday's doings in New Brunswick is the sweep which Sir Richard McBride made in British Columbia at the last elections.

EXPECTED AND UNEXPECTED.
(Truro News.)
The expected, independent of the assertions of a few outrageously lying party newspapers, happened in New Brunswick on the 20th when Premier Fleming was returned to power; but the unexpected, when the Liberal contingent in the legislature was cut down from thirteen to probably two.

four years of clean, able and progressive administration. Mr. Fleming not only has a good record as a public administrator to ensure his success at the polls. He had also the advantage of the Liberal-Conservative wave which started last September, and has been since sweeping over the country with steadily increasing force.

Judging by the cheerfulness and apparent optimism with which the New Brunswick Liberals went into the fight, they had not yet learned to appreciate what it means to try to make headway against the tide. However, they will no doubt learn to understand it more fully in the course of the next ten or fifteen years.

KEEPS THE SKIN CLEAR AND SOFT.
Humors of the skin are especially prevalent in the spring. There is nothing more annoying than to have eruptions breaking out to mar the beauty of the complexion. Internal treatments are slow and unsatisfactory in results, but you can depend on Dr. Chase's Ointment to heal up the sores and bring lasting relief. Unlike pore-clogging powders Dr. Chase's Ointment cleans out the pores of the skin and makes it soft, smooth and healthy. It is a food for the skin, and a beautifier of the greatest value. Eczema, salt rheum, psoriasis, chafing and all forms of itching skin disease soon yield to the soothing, healing influence of this well-known ointment. It is indispensable in the home where there are babies and young children.
