CAMPOBELLO

Campobello, Char. Co., N. B., April 3.—The most interesting feature of the past week, was a recruiting meeting held in the Church Hall, on Tuesday evening by Sergeant Knight, who greeted a large audience with a very interesting address, relating many thrilling accounts of the war. The meeting was presided over by Mr. Geo. M. Byron. A brief address was given by John F. Calder, Inspector of Fisheries. A number of solos by the ladies' recruiting committee were also rendered, and the proceedings brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The result of the meeting was the enlisting of two more of our young men, namely, Wilfred Alexander, and Geoffrey Parker, who will be passengers by today's boat for St. John for examination.

Edward Byron of the Bank of Nova Scotia, St. Andrews, spent Sunday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George M. Byron, and will this week take his departure for St. John to join the 15th Battalion there.

HARTLAND

Hartland, April 3.—All is hustle and bustle around the Armory, and the Morgan building, since the orders came on Friday to prepare for the new billet here. Capt. Jago is kept busy superintending the work, and the people are looking forward with pleasure to the arrival of "our boys" who are preparing to do their bit for the Empire.

Saturday morning a lad named Holmes, suffered the fracture of his leg, while jumping from the roof of a shed, near his home. Mrs. Franquette gave first aid, and later Dr. Somerville, of Bristol, looked after the injured boy.

Grief came to Mr. James McGraves, an aged resident of Somerville, early Wednesday morning, when he awoke and found the wife who had been his partner for over fifty years, dead beside him.

Mrs. Henry Bradley had had visitors, Mrs. Wilmot Harold and little daughter, Helen.

On Friday, at the age of 67 years, the death took place at Rosedale, of Mrs. Fred W. Britton.

Mr. F. G. Stevenson's friends here will be pleased to know that he has been advanced to the position of manager of the branch of the Bank of Montreal in Weyburn, Sask. He was formerly teller in the branch here.

On March 22, Mrs. Hugh L. Smith, a popular young man and member of the Hartland band, was married to Miss Mary Cummings, of Newburgh; Rev. F. L. Orchard of Woodstock performing the ceremony.

As a Pick-me-up After Grip

To Restore Health, Vigor, Energy, There is Nothing to Compare to

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

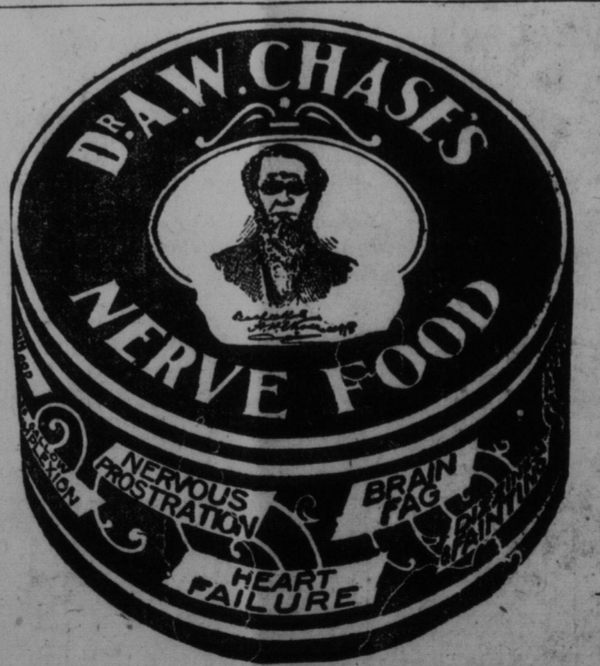

The grip epidemic has assumed huge proportions until there is scarcely a home but shelters one or more victims of this enervating disease. Urged on by sudden changes of temperature, this dreaded scourge sweeps over the country like a forest fire before the western winds.

In offices, stores and factories the forces are greatly reduced because so many are away with grip, while many who stick to their posts do so with the greatest discomfort, because of the pains and aches and the great weakness associated with this disease.

It only takes a few hours of this debilitating ailment to bring even the strongest to their beds and the process of recovery is often most tedious.

Just at this point Dr. Chase's Nerve Food does wonders to hasten the return of health, strength and vitality. By forming new, rich blood it builds up the system as nothing else can. Here is a case to illustrate this point:

Miss Amy C. Davis, 301 Perth Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes: "After a severe attack of quinsy and grip, my nervous system seemed to be completely run down. I had taken a good tonic, prescribed by my doctor, but still felt very nervous; would start up at the least sound, and was very irritable. A friend advised me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and, after taking two boxes, I felt so much improved that I continued to take four more, which completely restored my health. I cannot say too much for this great Nerve Food, and have recommended it to all my friends."

HOW TO AVOID GRIP

Rich, red blood is the greatest of germicides, and good vitality the strongest defence against disease. Keep the bodily vigor at high-water mark by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you need have no fear of grip or other contagious diseases. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50, all dealers, or Edmansons, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto.

It is the older people who suffer most from grip. Finding them in a more or less weakened condition, grip breaks down their power of resistance and prepares the way for pneumonia, kidney troubles, or heart failure.

After every epidemic of grip the grim reaper makes a regular harvest, through the medium of these ailments. There is only one way to avoid such results, and that is by the regular use of such restorative treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

This great food cure has proven a wonderful blessing to people in advanced years and all whose systems have become run down.

You need not linger in weakness if you will put this treatment to the test. By supplying the ingredients required by nature, Dr. Chase's Nerve Food hastens the process of rebuilding and you can depend on the results proving of lasting benefit.

Miss E. J. Buswell, Centralia, Ont., writes: "Last Winter my mother contracted a bad cold. She was bothered with shortness of breath, wheezing, fevered and too sore to cough. Our doctor prescribed treatment which brought relief from these symptoms, but when she got up she was tired, always tired and weak. I got her three boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and she soon improved. Her eyes became clear and bright, the ashen hue left the face and she began once more to take up the reins and look after the household duties."

"Thank you—yes, very comfortable!" said I. But, as the word left me, my glance, by accident, encountered the pistol near by, and at sight of it a sudden anger came upon me, for I remembered that, but for my intervention, this girl was a murderer; wherefore, I would fain have destroyed the vile thing, and reached for it impulsively, but she was before me, and snatching up the weapon, hid it behind her as she had done once before.
"Give it to me," said I, growling, "it is an accursed thing!"
"Yet it has been my friend tonight," she answered.
"Give it to me," said I, growling, "it threw up her head, and regarded me with a disdainful air, for my tone had been imperative."
"Come," said I, and held out my hand. So, for a while, we looked into each other's eyes, then, all at once, she dropped the weapon on the table before me and turned her back to me.
"I think—" she began, speaking with her back still turned to me.
"Well?" said I.
"That you have—"
"Yes!" said I.
"—very unpleasant—eyes!"
"I am very sorry for that," said I, dropping the weapon out of sight behind my row of books, having done which, I drew both chairs nearer the fire, and invited her to sit down.
"Thank you, I prefer to stand," said she loftily.
"As you will," I answered, but, even while I spoke, she seemed to change her mind, for she sank into the nearest chair, and, chin in hand, stared into the fire.
"And so," said she, as I sat down opposite her, "and so your name is Peter Smith, and you are a blacksmith?"
"Yes, a blacksmith."
"And make horseshoes?"
"Naturally, yes."
"And do you live here?"
"Yes."
"Alone?"
"Quite alone!"
"Not so long that I am tired of it."
"—And is this cottage yours?"
"—Yes—that is, it stands on the Seton estates, I believe, but nobody hereabouts would seem anxious to dispute my right of occupying the place."
"—Why not?"
"—Because it is generally supposed to be haunted."
"Oh!"
"—It was built by some wanderer of the roads," I explained, "a stranger to these parts, who lived alone here, and eventually died alone here."
"—Hanged himself on the staple above the door, yonder?"
"—Oh!" said she again, and cast a glance towards the deep-driven, wooden staple.
"—The country folk believe his spirit still haunts the place," I went on, "and seldom, or never, venture foot within the hollow."
"—And?"
"—No?"
"—Delightful!"
"—Are you?"
"—Yes, for I think it is to be a pistol!"
"—I dropped books yonder!"
"—I wonder!"
"—Because, you for it!"
"—But I use an ashed, and scarcely can think!"
"—You also think?"
"—Yes," she said, "the dark with maligning at the rattling and bellowing screamed for but here, in ed them not this woman, ward, gazing where the I woke strange!"

It is interesting to note just how the hero-giants regarded Beer. The following is an extract from a report of the Belgian Secretary of the 7th Army, relative to the law abolishing taxes on Wine and Cider, a few years ago:
"By removing local taxes produced from Wine and Cider, the law naturally lowers the cost of these Beverages, and increases their consumption, thus serving the interests of public health."
