

The last toast on the list was that to 'Our Guests.' Mr. Hatch called upon the Honorary President of the society, the Very Rev. W. J. Murphy, O.M.I., D.D., Rector of the University, who had kindly lent the honor of his presence to the occasion. He responded in a very happy vein. His remarks on the life of George Washington, was highly interesting and instructive.

The Rev. Fathers I. Fortier, Hammersley, McGowan, Stanton and Finnigan spoke briefly in words of good cheer and encouragement and expressed the hope that the Washington Club might live and prosper, increase in membership and continue its influence for good.

On the 10th inst. the O. U. S. S. held a largely attended meeting, at which were present several of the faculty. Mr. A. B. Cote was in the chair, and the lecturer was Mr. M. Doyle, his subject being "Sound." For over half an hour the audience followed the lecturer with deep attention, the manner in which he unfolded the nature and properties of sound showing his deep knowledge and thorough acquaintance with the matter. The experiments with the resonators, vibrating plates, harmonica, siren, König's apparatus, etc., were a treat, the lecturer lucidly explaining the mysteries of each. The evening was closed by a series of lime-light views prepared by the Rev. Director from photos reminiscent of excursions of the Scientific Society.

Striking features—Shorty's batting. .

A well re(a)d student—"Ken."

A thinking youth —Jimmie C.

A spring exclamation—Oh, Slush!

An African expression—"Ma-honey."

On the march—The "Troupes."

A sporty town—The Gully.

A Gully sport—Jerry.

What time was it Jerry?

"Dakotie" speculated in matches and had a "hot" time.

It is rumored now that the hockey season is over, Capt. Day and his Troupes have taken to peg-golf.