C.P.R. Lands and Town Lots in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

We would advise passengers travelling via the Canadian Pacific Railway to the West to stop off and see the Big C.P.R. Irrigation Dam at Bassano, alberta. Bassano is a rapidly growing town on the main line of the C.P.R., situated 83 miles east of Calgary. The irrigation project of the C.P.R. is the largest of its kind on the American Continent.

Editor's Talk

THIS Educational Number should be interesting to every parent, as well as every educationist, in the Dominion. The article on Mr. Langlois gives some idea of the educational unrest in Quebec, while the two articles on Western schools indicate the progress in the newer provinces. The contributions by Dr. George H. Locke, Public Librarian, Toronto, and by Mr. James L. Hughes, Chief Inspector of Public Schools, in the same city, discuss education and child-training with a broader and more theoretical treatment.

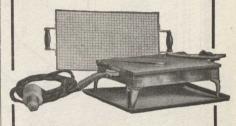

During July and August, in addition to our Country Life and Woman's Supplement issues, we shall publish two Fiction Numbers. In these two issues we hope to have short stories by eight of the leading Canadian short-story writers. The July Fiction Number will contain typical tales by Arthur E. McFarlane, L. M. Montgomery and Ed. Cahn. The August stories will be contributed by Canadian writers of equal prominence. In this way we hope to make the summer numbers of the Canadian Courier suitable to the season and especially attractive to those who are "on holiday."

Kindly comment from our readers continues to arrive daily. Mrs. Stewart, of Victoria, B.C., says: "I should miss your magazine more than any other I read." Mr. Henderson, of Sedgewick, Alta., writes: "Having grown up in the East and moved West, I enjoy a good review of the most interesting events in each part. I get that by subscribing to the Canadian Courier." Mr. Sutherland, of Canora, Sask., says: "I have been a subscriber to the Courier for a long time now, and find that it keeps me up-to-date on many subjects which I would otherwise overlook or forget."

Vancouver needs more farms. The best land in British Columbia is in the Lower Fraser Valley, practically the suburbs of Vancouver. But only a small part of it is under cultivation. Farmers who live there make from $1,500 to $3,000 a year on five acreblocks of land, raising poultry or growing berries or vegetables. It is a delightful place to live. There are fine social conditions, and splendid neighbors. Electric tram lines and steam railways afford quick and convenient transportation. The educational facilities are perfect. There are splendid schools, common and collegiate, churches of all denominations, agricultural societies and social clubs. Artesian wells afford running water. I sell five acre farms in this rich region for from $125 to $400 an acre. That may seem high, but the land is worth it, and you can get easy terms of from $50 to $200 down, the balance in monthly or quarterly payments. I have a little booklet that tells all about the Fraser Valley, how much money the farmers there made, and how you can do as well as they do. If you are interested in this matter, you are welcome to a copy.
