

COMPLIMENTARY.

To my Friends and Patrons:

In presenting you with this Annual, I also beg to tender you my sincere and hearty thanks for all past favors, and to express the hope that another season will find us all here working amicably together on the road to prosperity. May our greeting on the eve of another new year be as cordial as now. I shall endeavor to keep such goods as the requirements of my trade justify, and trust, by courteous attention and right prices, to merit a continuance of your esteemed favors.

Wishing you the Compliments of the Season,

I remain,

Yours truly,
