A Word to
The Younger Men

In one of his famous essays, John Stuart Mill, the great English Economist, made the following terse statement:
"We all desire to be well off, but few possess the effective desire of accumulation."

This is the point—to have both the wish and the WILL to save money,

To young men especially, a suitable Policy for Life Insurance is of peculiar benefit, for the very reason that it gives a definite incentive to SAVE. Especially in Endowment Insurance valuable, and, under the Great-West Life Endowments, the Policyholder has the strongest encouragement to pay his premiums regularly, in view of the highly profitable returns that will undoubtedly be at his disposal at the end of the Endowment period.

In a word, there is no better way of SAVING MONEY than under the Great-West Endowment Policy. The savings earn higher interest and are protected by Life Insurance.

Full information will gladly be given on request. Ask for the leaflet "OUR SAVINGS."
