Monday, signifies the way the Guild is progressing and the mental enjoyment that must be had on occasions such as this.

After the opening exercises Mr. A. T. Wallace presiding in the chair, called upon Mr. A McWhitter, convent of the missionary committee, which had charge of the evening and during the interesting narratives which followed as told by each speaker, one was carried back to the time of our forefathers and reminded of the exceptional courage and absolute unselfialmes that one must be possessed with to be able to endure such hardships and to administer to do at that time.

The subject of Home Missionary Hospitals was taken by Mrs. Hawthorns, who explained their many busy nor mings and how valued they were when once started, being proportionately so now and the ability and generowity that those possessed, with them in any way, Mr Lamont Brandon addressed the gathering, givin an autobiography of various missionaries, some home land, and which in
