WALKING STICK HANDLES.

Some of the Things That the Handles May Contain.

The ingenuity of the Frenchman has not been confined to the making of weapons out of apparently harmless canes. In fact there is quite a variety of uses which the cane is made to serve.

One of the canes is fitted with a coin One of the cames is fitted with a coin box and a match box, these being con-tained in the head, which is provided with a carefully concealed lid. The coin box is arranged to permit of depositing and easily removing the coin by a slight pressure of the thumb, thus obviating the necessity of fishing for coins in the ocket.

Another cane handle shows a con plete outfit of the game known as Petits Chevaux. When the lid is open betting can begin and the horse crossing the wire first wins the stakes. One of the latest Parisian novelties consists in a ladies' parasol handle containing roulette wheel, which can be used for for gambling at any place or moment. These handles have become very population

lar. They are of fine workmanship and enerally of gold or silver. One handle contains almost everything that one would be likely to need. A long sheet of paper is wound around the rod, from which pieces may be torn off for taking notes. When the lid is opened penknife, pencil. nail file, combs and looking glass are disclosed. These objects are small, but large enough for practical use.-Scientific American

LIGHTING HOUSE OF COMMONS.

The electric lighting which it is proposed to substitute for gas in the debatng chamber of the British House of Commons is to consist of groups of three metal filament lamps inclosed in a holophane globe and placed over a square pane of amber tinted glass. This provides three thicknesses of glass, which are depended upon to cut off ul-tra-violet rays. Uniformity of illumination is to be secured by the dispersing effect of the globes. The amount of il-lumination on the benches, now obtained by gas lighting, is four fifths of a candlefoot, and the same amount or more can be obtained by the electric light-one

Ingrowing toenails are not only ex-tremely painful but sometimes very serious: Like many other ills, if taken in time they may be easily remedied. If left to grow worse, day by day, they are sometimes the cause of surgical treatment treatment.

To cure by prevention is by far the casiest and best medical advice a physi-cian can teach any patient, whether it be toenails or cancer.

The common causes of ingrowing toe nails are improper footwear and an im-proper method of cutting the nails. I If the nail is cut too short, especially at the angles, while at the same time the shoe is too short or too narrow, the skin on the toe is forced over the nail. Consequently by the further growth of the nail, the flesh is pushed still fur-ther over until a point is reached where

We are not all disposed to take up the ntitude of the elder Weller towards the proposal of the Saivation Army to encourage the migration of widows from the Old Country to Canada. The Dominian is in need of a larger female population. Our last census shows that there are nearly half a million more men than women in this country. In a population of only seven million stis is a greet disparity, especially when it is considered that the normal condition throughout the world is a preponderance of the feminine ele-ment.

clety. Even during the summer, while they were at their country or seaside homes, many women kept up their fenc-ing lessons, having the instructor come to their homes for the purpose. All experts in physical training rate fencing as the best possible means of ex-ercsie for women. It ranks with swith-ming and rowing in that it gives all the development needed without making the muscles too heavy, as do some of the other sports. For the women of to-day who longs above everything else to be slender and supple, it is the ideal exer-cise. Those women who the so faithful to their fencing lessons have discovered that a brisk half hour with the folls is more effective in keeping their figure girlishly lithe and slender than a half day spent at heavier and less graceful forms of exercise.
